Almost identically the same is true of the builders of the first-class apartments, dwellings and hotels of New York. The decorating and to some extent the furnishing has become almost as much a part of his calculation and work as the mere plain painting. He must make his interiors handsome and inviting, and he cannot always leave these to the purchaser or tenant. The latter when negotiating for a first-class house is no longer content with bare, white walls and plain floors—or with the old explanation, "we are leaving the selection of the decorations to the buyer." The demand in such cases is for a house that is finished. Like everything else in building construction, these perplexities are given to the architect to solve, but the modern metropolitan builder, or owner, must take them into his business along with brick, cement and steel.

Used Terra-Cotta 1,000 Years Ago.

Testimony to the durability of terra-cotta, which enters so prominently into the construction of twentieth-century skyscrapers, comes in an official report from Mr. W. H. Michael, United States Consul General at Calcutta. It shows that this material was known and used in ancient Burma almost a thousand years ago. Mr Michael quotes from a recent report of the archaeological survey of an interesting discovery of terra-cotta reliefs, with Pali inscriptions, dating back to the eleventh century, A.D., at Petleik pagoda.

These reliefs, says that report, illustrate scenes in the life of Buddha, and, unlike most others of a similar kind, are vigorously modeled and almost as clear and sharp as the day they left the kiln, about the time England was being conquered by the Normans. Each tile bears a number corresponding to the number of the story depicted in the Jataka book, and the whole forms an authentic record of the orthodox Buddhist iconography of the eleventh century, besides being specimens of an art which is described as of no mean order.

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable considera, tion and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deed. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

DON'T GUESS

A Real Estate Information Service is as necessary in a Real Estate Broker's office as the ticker in the office of a Stock Broker.

A personally maintained Service is inefficient and inordinately Expensive compared with a Big Central Co-operative Service. The Biggest Service is the best, because the advantages of Co-operation are centered there on the biggest Scale.

The RECORD & GUIDE to-day supplies thousands of Brokers and others with information—has been doing so for a generation. Its own records cover the history of ALL transactions of every kind in New York for forty years, and in addition to these it has a COMPLETE PLANT that includes the previous period.

Obviously, the RECORD & GUIDE possesses FULL information covering ALL particulars concerning real estate. Other systems are necessarily either partial or mere second-hand abstracts of the records which the RECORD & GUIDE has been gathering and publishing in the course of its forty years' history.

If you need Real Estate Information don't guess. Don't use personal Systems. Don't use partial Systems. Don't use temporary Systems that must be fragmentary and Second-hand. Don't use Systems built for the use of a Few, and that offer you scarcely any of the advantages of co-operation.

USE THE RECORD & GUIDE BUREAU OF REAL ESTATE INFORMATION. The oldest, the largest, the most permanent, the best equipped—a Service that can serve you TO-DAY and TO-MORROW on a progressive plan.

A Moment with Finance

THE EXISTING FINANCIAL SITUATION is extraordinary in its uncertainty and in its complexity. The financial community is, indeed, precisely in the situation of a doctor's patient, who cannot recover without a surgical operation, and who is thoroughly disconcerted and scared at the prospect. The economic condition of the country early last winter was of a kind which could not endure. The business men of the United States were expanding their operations in a way not justified by their capital, and capital was bound to become too scarce for their purposes. In the same way, and for the same reasons, the labor market had reached an intolerable condition. The demand for labor was so great, and its price so high, as largely to increase the cost of conducting business, while at the same time its efficiency was decreasing. Employers could not afford to select only efficient men, because there were not enough to go around, and they were obliged to pay high wages for second-rate work. Manifestly, both of these evils could be cured only by a contraction in business. There must be a temporary cessation in the employment of an increasing volume of capital in business, and employers must again be placed in a position which would enable them to dispense with inefficient labor. Better a smaller volume of business, which was economically handled, than a large volume which strained a man's resources and endangered his credit without adding to his profits. This business contraction is now evidently taking place; but the financial community, instead of taking it with a cool head, is thoroughly frightened by its symptoms, and a question as to the meaning of this panic can scarcely be avoided. Is it simply a matter of unsettled nerves, or does it mean that the contraction cannot take place without many more failures than have been generally suspected? How many business men, that is, are in a condition which permits them the luxury of contraction? These are the questions which the next few months will answer. In the meantime investors, who can keep their heads and can control a certain amount of cash, have opportunities which may not occur again in ten years. The only question for such a man is: "When should I buy?" It is true that stocks may be cheaper; but the attempt to buy at the very bottom is attended with as many dangers as the attempt to sell at the very top.

The Business Season

AS THE SEASON ADVANCES the real estate market does not gain either in the volume or in the scope of its activity. Apart from the sale of a few private houses, and the occasional transfer of business property of some importance, it is almost completely quiescent. The widespread and buoyant speculative movement, which has been the mainstay of the market since 1901, is at the present time practically dead. The large speculative and investment corporations are temporarily out of business. The United States Realty Corporation, for instance, has finished its great constructive operations. The Plaza Hotel is open for business, and the Trinity Buildings are accomplished facts. For the first time in its history, it is doing no building on its own account, and it is not making any preparation for new building. The City Investment Company still has its hands full with its colossal improvement on Cortlandt Street; but in other respects it is apparently out of the market. So it is with the large individual operators. They are holding on tight, but they are not increasing their responsibilities. As to the thousands of smaller operators, who a year or two ago were buying and selling tenements so freely, they, too, have disappeared from view; and one cannot help wondering how many of them will reappear as factors in the making of New York real estate values. The speculation in tenement houses, on which they have lived, has become an unremunerative occupation; and, so far as can be discovered at present, it is not likely to become remunerative again for many years. They lack the capital to deal in more expensive classes of property, and under existing conditions they cannot disengage even what capital they have. The important question raised by the situation is whether the apathy will result in much liquidation. Will the operators who have been buying real estate so assiduously in the speculative district be obliged to stimulate the demand for their holdings by means of the substantial reduction of their asking prices? So far little or no liquidation has taken place; and the extent to which it will take place will doubtless depend chiefly on the duration of the existing apathy. The duration of the existing apathy will, in its turn, depend chiefly upon the relief in the stringency of the money market. Such relief can hardly be expected until next spring, and it may not become really effective until next fall. In the meantime it is improbable that the liquidation, if it begins, will proceed very far. The forces which are making for the improvement of real estate values in a city, which adds over 125,000 people to its inhabitants every year, are too powerful to be quiescent for long.

Cost of Railroad Terminals

IT IS A SINGULAR FACT that the increase in the value of urban real estate constitutes both the strength and the weakness of the economic situation of the great American railroads. During the last few years their expansion in business has been out of all proportion to their expansion in mileage; and new railroads cannot be built, in order to keep pace with the increase in business, chiefly because of the expense of securing terminals in the large cities. The large existing railroad systems which own such terminals possess thereby a strategic advantage in the conduct of their business, which must be described as something in the nature of a monopoly. Possessed, as they are, of means of doing business which are essential and which cannot be duplicated, the business must come to them; and it must come to them in a volume which is somewhat independent of their traffic efficiency. Unfortunately, however, the very conditions which places them beyond effective competition also makes it difficult for them to handle economically this increasing volume of traffic. In times of financial abundance they can, of course, add to their mileage, double-track their roads and increase the efficiency of their systems by the reduction of grades and similar improvements; but when it comes to enlarging their terminals, they are confronted by an expense from which even the richest corporations shrink. As Mr. James J. Hill has so often pointed out, the cost of such terminals is almost prohibitive. The experience of the Pennsylvania and the New York Central in improving their terminals in Manhattan is not such as to encourage other corporations in undertaking similar tasks. They have been obliged to raise enormous sums of money, frequently at a huge expense; and they have thereby impaired for the time being both their credit and the security of their dividends. It is probable that at the present time the stock, both of New York Central and Pennsylvania, would be selling thirty points higher in case these enormous sums of money had not been spent; and no doubt the stockholders of both of these railroad companies have made this reflection with some bitterness of spirit. It is none the less true, however, that twenty years from now the wisdom of these huge expenditures will be fully vindicated. By these means these two railroads will have secured an advantage over their competitors which will place them in an invincible position. They will have built for the future in the most substantial possible manner, and will be repaid many times for their recent, present and prospective sacrifices. It would be wise policy on the part of the great Western railroads, during the next period of easy money, to reduce dividends if necessary, in order to provide the terminals, without which they cannot properly continue to fulfil their functions as common carriers.

Future of the Art Commission

AMONG THE BRANCHES OF THE GOVernment which should occupy the attention of the revisers of the charter is the Municipal Art Commission. That body has been in existence now a great many years, and it has served a useful public purpose. By the exercise of its veto power, it has succeeded in preventing the infliction on the city of many buildings and other possible works of art which would have been eyesores and aesthetic nuisances. It has served the purpose, that is, of an aesthetic police department; and its protective work has been an effective influence in raising the standard of public art in the community. The suppression of aesthetic nuisances and aberrations is, however, not the same thing as the actual encouragement of good public art. No doubt an art commission, the members of which are capable of using their powers with discretion and patience, can frequently help aesthetic malefactors to substitute acceptable for wholly impossible works of public art; but surely the commission should not be obliged to confine its positive influence on behalf of good art to more or less fruitful acts of diplomacy. It should be transformed from an aesthetic police department into an aesthetic health department. It should be enabled to establish certain positive conditions of aesthetic sanitation, whereby it cannot merely reject aesthetic nuisances, but can also prevent their commission. To what extent such positive powers can be bestowed upon the commission will not be an easy matter to determine, and opinions will differ as to the amount of authority which it is desirable to lodge in a Board of Aesthetic Sanitation. In the opinion of the Record and Guide the possible value of the work of such a Board would go far beyond the value of the work of both the Health and the Tenement House Departments, because an improvement in the appearance of New York City is indestructibly associated with its replanning as a convenient, economical and safe place in which to live and wirk. Back of sanitary measures of all kinds, that is, lies the fundamental problem of the prevention of congestion, both in its domestic and traffic aspects; and a replanning of the city, which would assist the freer distribution of population and the more economical conduct of business, is in the long run a condition of public health, as well as a condition of effective public art. We realize, however, that public opinion is far from understanding the intimacy of the alliance between a good-looking city and one which is clean, wholesome and economically efficient. The utmost which can be expected at the present time is the constitution of the Art Commission as a body of experts, whose advice must be sought in preparing the design of public buildings and all works of public art. Representing, as it does, the aesthetic conscience of New York, it should be empowered to eradicate aesthetic malefaction, not merely by a surgical operation on its symptoms, but by a prevention of its cause; and to this end no department of the city government should have the authority to plan or order a work of public art except with the advice and consent of the Commission.

Lighting Office Buildings.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

THERE is no question in the mind of any agent or builder having to do with power in connection with real estate but that the present system of isolated plants is a thing of the past, only held back by conditions of growth both in the business itself and in the ethical principles involved. This is the electrical age, and with the fundamental proposition clearly settled, that power and light service can be economically and safely distributed from comparatively distant points, then the only hold-back can come from the growing conditions of the industry itself and the unfortunately unsound ethical principles that have seemingly governed the business end of this new industry. This latter has probably come from the superabundance of very young men who have gravitated into executive positions. They have mistaken sharpness for shrewdness, the immediate dollar was of more moment than the double eagle of to-morrow, and so, with poor business ethics and elemental conditions of growth, the delay has been considerable in turning over the Empire City in toto, as must occur, to the wholesale producers and dealers in light and power.

The capitalized value of their magnificent franchises in 20 years will rival the fabled treasures of Augustus, and we threw them away—these golden franchises—as Coal Oil Johnny did lighting his cigars with five-dollar bills. But that is another story. What of to-day and ourselves? It is said electricity can be produced for from one cent to one and one-half cent per K. W. hour, at first cost, in central station plants; isolated plants produce the current at a higher rate, varying with circumstances, probably from two cents to four cents per K.W. hour. The Edison Company charges small users ten cents per K.W. hour, and while the price drops according to consumption the margin of profit is so great as to make the Standard Oil Company seem like a charitable institution. In large buildings the consensus of real estate opinion is, that it is not economical yet to use the central station current and that the supply companies will never come to the full measure of their business and hopes until the Public Service Commission takes them under its wing and the customer is assured of a legitimate protection "higher up."

Of course mistakes have been made in the past which must be capitalized and paid for in the present; that is inevitable in the birth and experimental stage of any new industry, but that does not cover watered stock, nor the capitalized value of community franchises. There is really no reason to-day, except want of facilities and a certain want of public confidence, that prevents the city south of Fourteenth Street being entirely run, as to power and light, from central station plants. The basic soundness of the central station idea is beyond question, the hindrance is from men who don't grasp the situation, and who fuss with a great economic cause that only requires circumstances to develop it. Any man will do and the man with the best business ethics will go the farthest in the shortest space of time.

There are many things that favor central power supply. At the beginning of large building or industrial enterprises—for instance, the capital cost of engineering equipment of large buildings may run from fifty thousand dollars to two hundred thousand dollars. One building in this city has its engineering plant valued at a million dollars, and not a manufacturing plant at that. The engineering part of real estate properties is always an undue amount of trouble to agents and owners. Unless carefully watched, it becomes to a certain extent uncontrollable, and without complete supervision and check it also becomes unduly expensive.

The central station companies have a clear field and that they give no favor can be abundantly testified to. Their profits are large, but they may well reply in the language of Warren Hastings at the Bar in the English Parliament, in his trial for treason and high crimes and misdemeanors, "When I think of my opportunities I am amazed at my moderation."

That the central station business is a great and growing one is not a refutation of my argument. They have dealt with those who buy current by the gill at a high per cent. of profit, while those who would buy by the carload were told, "Thus saith the Lord," or words to that effect. I do not mean to be profane, but you catch the idea. We must yet awhile dream of that happy time when New York will be comparatively smokeless and free from many annoyances and dangers and troubles that surround us, with power plants practically eliminated in certain city sections, and the charges scrutinized and vised by a watchful municipality, with every artery of business life revivified by force applied, at any place or time needed—with a more comfortable living thereby, and we may hope for more personal time at our disposal, and believing in the gradual growth of intellectual aspiration and art impulse; to all of which blind Force must lend itself, otherwise it is of no moment, with this gradual evolution. Why should not New York become the last master stroke of Destiny—the Imperial City and cynosure of the world? And you who hold her back, whoever you are, it would be well that you were loved by the gods, for "Whom the gods love die young."

A BUILDER.

Why New York City Real Estate Pays.

THE article on "What New York Real Estate Pays," by Jefferson M. Levy, published October 5, is of peculiar interest, and sets forth the advantage of making investments in real estate here. He says the advance in values has been uniform. He also says that the forces at work to advance values in New York City are worldwide. It is true, depressions may come and depressions may go, but New York City real estate pays. Money may be plentiful or money may be tight—New York City real estate pays. Hard times may come upon us, or we may be prosperous—New York City real estate pays.

Industrials may go to smash or may be soaring—New York City real estate pays. New York City real estate can absorb all the values ten years of struggle and prosperity will pour into it and cry for more, but how much does it yield when times of uncertainty and lack of confidence settle upon us? A few weak owners may be forced to lower rents, but no matter what happens in the way of general business depression, the rents that have been steadily increasing must be paid just the same.

Mr. Levy is right: Those who purchase New York City real estate can feel assured that they have the safest investment in the world. When the present conditions of unrest pass off, and they will, though many scars may be left behind, the present owners and the new owners will draw the rents, and as times improve will participate by increasing rents, and also get the benefit of the "additional sum received through increased values."

By all means buy New York City real estate, and if this is too high in price, purchase real estate in any growing neighborhood where it is inevitable that increasing population will create increased values. There is an element of risk in investing in any business, but none in real estate in New York City. The butcher, the baker, the candlestick maker will have to pay rent up to the breaking point, even if they are compelled to reduce wages to do so. Mr. Levy has the right idea.

Thousands of small investors have the instinct and are scraping to buy property in all directions as far as thirty to forty miles out, but there are hundreds of thousands, and perhaps millions, who have neither the instinct, desire, ability nor opportunity to make the smallest kind of a purchase.

Every enterprise, down to its most minute form, pays tribute to real estate, and the greater the prosperity the bigger the channel required to accommodate the flow of rents.

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

The American Institute of Architects.*

IN THE early history of our country young architects of talent came across the water to try their fortunes, and all carpenters were students who studied the various works on the orders. It was not many years before the supply of educated men ceased to equal the demand, and the builders apparently discarded all precedent and produced nothing that was beautiful, although, in most instances, it was novel. This gradual decline culminated in the most debased period of architecture between 1850 and 1860. The educated men in the larger cities knew little of each other's aspirations or desires. The fear of unjust and improper treatment by other practitioners seems to have been widespread. No standard of fees or of ethics was recognized. The profession was not recognized in the community, the fine arts were thought of little importance, and constructors and carpenters as practical men were thought far superior to the architect.

Appreciating the state into which their beloved art had fallen, a number of young men in New York City, after many consultations, determined to organize an association for the advancement of architecture. Their ideals were high. They were zealous and enthusiastic, and in love with their art.

The following architects—Richard Upjohn, Edward Gardiner, H. W. Cleaveland, Wray Mould, Leopold Eidlitz, Henry Dudley, Fred A. Peterson, Charles Babcock, Joseph C. Wells, Richard M. Hunt, John Welch, J. W. Priest—met to consider the propriety of organizing a society of architects on Monday, February 23, 1857. They determined that such an organization was necessary and invited Calvert Vaux, John Davis Hatch, John W. Ritch, Frederick C. Withers, Frederick D. Diaper, Joseph Sands, Thomas U. Walter, George Snell, Edward C. Cabot, Alex. J. Davis, William Backus, James Renwick, Jr., R. G. Hatfield, Samuel Warner, Detlef Lienau, Arthur Gilman, Alpheus C. Morse, Thomas A. Tefft, to join with them in establishing the American Institute of Architects, and formulating the constitution. This was completed and signed April 5, 1857. Richard Upjohn was elected president and Richard M. Hunt secretary.

The names of the founders, few of whom did not become famous in after years, deserve to be remembered and honored by all present practitioners. When the organization was completed the names of architects residing in New York and other cities of the country were canvassed, and only twelve architects were found whom it was thought advisable to invite to join the new society.

The Civil War came upon the country in 1861, and building and architecture gave way, as all other peaceful occupations did, to war and strife, and the Institute ceased holding its meetings until 1864. From this period until 1889 the progress of the Institute was slow; while its tangible accomplishments did not equal the aspirations of its founders, its intangible results were many and far-reaching. There was a steady growth in good-fellowship, the purity of motives of the profession became more apparent, the appreciation of the aspirations and endeavors in others led to higher aspirations and ideals. The Institute encouraged investigation and reports on construction and building topics by publishing the results of such study and research. It encouraged the highest attainments and urged a school education in architecture. Because of its encouragement and assistance the first architectural sketch-books and journals were started in the country. It made an aggressive and constant fight on improper competitions. It established a schedule of fees for architectural services. It began a library and subscribed for foreign architectural journals. Chapters were established in New York in 1867, in Philadelphia and Chicago in 1869, in Boston, Cincinnati and Baltimore in 1870, in San Francisco in 1881, in Indianapolis, Washington City, Michigan, and Central New York in 1887.

The effort of the Institute to induce the Government to employ the best available talent began in 1874, by the introduction of the Field Bill, through J. L. Smithmeyer in the Forty-third Congress. These efforts continued without apparent success, but undoubtedly each effort left its mark, and the success of today would not be without the early and continued efforts on the part of the Institute and its members. The Institute began the publication of its annual proceedings in 1867.

Passion for the Colonial.

The revival in favor of colonial furniture has become extremely strong, and, likewise, the public favor for colonial architecture. Here in New York the furniture side of the fashion is most perceivable—in the enormous trade in real and imitation antiques—but all over New England, especially, people of discrimination are going in for both architecture and furniture of colonial design. New York builders and designers have sobered down and begun to realize that, after all, our grandfathers did know a thing or two, and that their buildings were none the worse for being simple. The greatest change to be noticed in the recent structures of colonial style has been in the sparing use of ornamentation, and the reward of this restraint is that, where old models have been adhered to, it is hard to tell the modern house from the building two hundred years its senior, from a little distance.

Referring especially to the movement in New England, Lucien Price says, in the Boston Transcript, that those who have bona fide old houses are refurnishing them; others are building in imitation, and the restoration must include the interiors. Hence comes the quest for antique furniture and fittings, and hence also the "demand" for imitation antiques when the originals are out of the market.

For two years past there has been less building and more restoration of the old colonial houses, especially of farmhouses in the country districts adjoining the more remote suburbs of Boston. Massachusetts is full of well-preserved buildings of this type, many of them abandoned, or used as sheds. People have often been known to devote their Sundays for an entire summer driving or motoring in various districts on all the by-roads in search of a satisfactory building in an agreeable location, and the quest is always certain to be rewarded in the end, for the old carpenters put their siding on solid oak beams, rough-hewn with an axe, which remain as solid today as when the neighbors came to the raising.

When the supply of genuine antiques for the general trade practically gave out, as it did a few years ago, dealers were in a strange quandary. The demand continued and was increasing. Every auction of a farm homestead within travelling distance was ransacked, and collectors had exhausted the rural districts of New England, and were beginning to scour the provinces, the source of most of our genuine antiques at present. In addition to this, a new complication had arisen. The activity of an antique trade had increased to such an extent that the few possessors of highboys, secretaries and candlesticks refused to part with them except at exorbitant rates, supposing the profit of the dealer on them to be much greater than it actually was. So what goods were available were practically inaccessible.

At this juncture it was decided to put out frank imitations, acknowledged to be such, and try the effect. Obviously the public wanted old furniture, and it was to be seen whether they wanted old furniture badly enough to be satisfied with the imitation. It soon proved that they did. The new desks, davenports and wing chairs were snapped up as eagerly as the old ones, the bulk of the collectors became manufacturers, and the trade in the genuine goods went over to a few dealers who made that a specialty. It has come to pass that if the piece of furniture is mahogany, of colonial design and handsome, the date of manufacture is of secondary importance. In hardware also:

The reaction which has set in during the past few years in favor of the old houses has also given a new impulse to the manufacture of colonial hardware. When strangers buy up an old farm homestead, or when the descendants occupying an ancestral mansion undergo a change of heart, and set about to restore the building, they make some surprising discoveries. In the first place, when door-bells began to come into use, the old brass knocker was removed to give place to a brand-new bell knob. What has become of the knocker no one knows. The only thing to do is to get another as nearly as possible like what it must have been. And there are men who make it their business to know what it must have been like. Something of the same sort has happened to the fireplaces with the introduction of stoves, and if the brass andirons are not to be found in the garret, it is safe to say that they went to the ragman in the late 50s.

It is said that the cause of this return to the quiet elegance of the early styles in furniture and architecture lies deeper than a vogue. It is a realization that the old order was the best. Our country has never seen, and probably never will see, a better style of domestic architecture than that of the early colonial mansion houses—simple, dignified, and with the perfect adaptation of the means to the end.

—The Edison Portland Cement Co. has opened a permanent office in the Post Office Square Building at Boston, Mass., to take charge of the New England trade, and Mr. J. L. Bernard has been appointed Boston representative.

House of Mr. Howard Hart, at Cornish, N. H.

It is always interesting and instructive to observe what can be done by simple means and at a very small expense to make a charming country house, and in the case of Mr. Howard Hart's house, which is illustrated herewith, there can be as little doubt about the charm of the effect as there is about the simplicity of the means. He has taken an old New England farmhouse of the usual kind, and he has done just enough to it and to its surroundings to bring out its modest but manifest possibilities. These farmhouses, as we all know, were frequently in themselves well-proportioned little buildings, with a certain definite architectural character, which counted in spite of the neglect with which they have been usually treated by their inhabitants; but whether from poverty, from the lack of the proper educational influences, or from sheer insensibility, the farmer rarely made any attempt to give his neat little house the advantage of a proper setting. At its best the New England farmhouse was nothing more than tidy; and the planting in its vicinity never consisted of more than a few trees, a lilac or two, and occasionally a border of annual flowers. The effect is usually so bare and arid that one feels like weeping at the sight of such widespread neglect of the decent comeliness of domestic life.

Cornish, N. H. HOUSE OF MR. HOWARD HART—THE LIVING ROOM. Designed by the Owner.

Mr. Hart has taken a typical farmhouse, and brought out all of its good qualities. The site selected was an old orchard sloping irregularly towards the east; and a terrace was consequently built, in order to provide a certain amount of flat space in front of the house. This terrace is almost the whole thing, and yet it has made all the difference in the world to the appearance of the building. It both enables the house to fit its site, and at the same time provides Mr. Hart with space for some very attractive flower beds. Besides the building of the terrace nothing was done to the house, except to break a couple of dormer-windows through the roof and to add a porch to one end. But vines and shrubbery were planted in the right places, the entrance door was enclosed with a lattice, and the lawn was almost encircled with flower beds, and it would be difficult to find elsewhere in this country an effect equally as charming obtained by the use of such extremely simple and inexpensive means. People who propose to "do over" New England farmhouses would do well to examine this example. They could scarcely better the instruction; but they could learn there from the cost of architectural interest, of which such farmhouses are capable and the way in which this interest can be brought out.—Architectural Record.

"Constant Reader."—We have had no advices as to "who is supplying the means for rebuilding Kingston, Jamaica." No doubt the usual financial and private sources. We have not heard of the British Government making a special credit for this purpose.

Tenement House Construction.

During the quarter ending the first of October plans for 68 new apartment and tenement houses were filed in the Borough of Manhattan, which is less than a third of the number filed during the corresponding quarter last year; and the estimated cost of such buildings planned during the last quarter was but $7,163,000, to compare with $12,457,500, which was the estimated cost of the buildings coming under the same head for the corresponding period of 1906.

Of the last quarter's appropriation of sixteen million dollars in Manhattan for all kinds of new buildings, seven million is to be credited to apartment and tenement house work, and in the corresponding quarter of 1906 twelve out of twenty-five million dollars represented the appropriation for this class of construction. In other words, apartment (or tenement house) work in the year 1906, for the three months under consideration, represented 48 per cent. of the whole and in 1907 43 per cent. For the whole year of 1905 tenement houses represented 58 per cent. of all the work planned, and in the year 1906 the tenements and apartments represented 53 per cent. of all the work laid out during the year.

No doubt some time in the future the porportion of flat or apartment dwellers in Manhattan will be as large as in Paris. In Chicago 42 per cent. of the estimated cost of all building work planned last year was represented by tenement and apartment houses.

In considering the development of the apartment house an unidentified correspondent for an interior journal finds some of the causes for present methods of design and construction.

HOUSE OF MR. HOWARD HART—THE GARDEN. Cornish, N. H.

"The earlier flat buildings of a decade or so ago," he says, "were unsatisfactory affairs:"

They were small, with few conveniences and so slightly separated one from another that not only the odors from one flat pervaded all the flats in the house, but the occupants of one were constantly disturbed by the noises of their neighbors in the adjoining flat. Then the gas range and the laundry fixings were not yet introduced, and the denizens of upper flats had to carry coal, and ofter water; had the greatest difficulty in drying their clothes; had to climb up narrow and dark stairways and passages, and generally had many inconveniences to contend with.

But the genius of the architect and the experience of the flat owners soon came to their rescue, and the modern flat building has become a model of convenience, and often elegance. In fact, decorated entrances and showy facades are becoming the rule. The kitchens are furnished with gas ranges and refrigerators. Laundry fixtures and laundry dryers are supplied. Electric alarm mail boxes receive the carrier's gift and announce its arrival, automatic telephones take the place of stairs and electric gas lighters dispense with matches.

The dweller in a modern flat is as much isolated from his neighbor as is he who lives in an old-fashioned house in a row. All these improvements and many more still coming make the flat a desirable home for any economically inclined family, be they rich or poor. Even in country towns of 10,000 people or over may now be found ambitious flat or apartment buildings which less than ten years ago were supposed to be the exclusive prerogative of the degenerate inhabitants of big cities.

This is looking on the bright side of the picture all right, and many worse things could befall a family than to have to live in a typical elevator apartment house in New York. Many of the early faults have been perceived and remedied in later houses, and every year some improvement is to be noted either in the size and number of rooms or in added comfort, privacy and elegance. Many families wealthy enough to have their private dwelling prefer to pay five thousand a year for an apartment, and others much more. We are only at the beginning of the chapter of luxury in this style of living for wealthy people.

—Speaking of the financial situation, ex-Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw said: "Our only danger is in unwarranted alarm. We have been running at a break-neck pace until everybody is well nigh out of breath. If we can now slacken and nobody lie down, all will be well. A slight curtailment along all lines will do us good. We should congratulate ourselves upon the fact that our prosperity rests upon surer foundations than stock market quotations."

Hudson and Manhattan Uptown Terminal Building Will Be a Twenty-Story Hotel.

6TH AV.—The uptown terminal building for the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company to be erected on a plot 250x300 ft., at 6th av, 32d and 33d sts, in Greeley sq, will have twenty stories or more containing a hotel. Much speculation as to the height and just what kind of a terminal building would actually be built, since the project was first made public, is now made practically clear. The exterior will be of limestone, reinforced concrete, brick, steel and terra cotta, and the upper stories will be equipped for hotel purposes. Messrs. Clinton & Russell, of No. 32 Nassau st, and Gordon, Tracy & Swartwout, 244 5th av, will be the architects. No building contracts have yet been made, although it is thought probable that the George A. Fuller Company will get the contract. Wilson, of Philadelphia, for which Architect Ralph E. White, of Philadelphia, Pa., has made plans. The Wilson project, excepting the site, is estimated to cost about $2,000,000. It is planned to have a system of five plunger elevators installed, and the second story is to be fitted for a great banquet hall and private dining-rooms. The exterior will be of granite up to the fourth story, with terra cotta above. No building contracts for this have yet been awarded. (See also issue Feb. 9, 1907.)

BUILDING NOTES

An experienced estimator on marble and tile work wishes a position. See Wants and Offers.

It is estimated that contracts for 30,000 tons of structural steel are yet to be placed to meet the requirements for new public school buildings in New York City.

As an illustration of the aggressiveness of the extreme West, we might state that at the present time, the largest reinforced concrete building in the world is being erected at San Francisco, and is to be known as the "Pacific Building." It is to be warmed throughout by Kinnear Pressed Radiators.

At the fire, 77 Chambers st, Reginald Pelham Bolton's system of multiple pressure drum and stand pipe in the Broadway-Chambers building was effectively utilized from the latter building against the fire, and could have been equally well utilized against fire in buildings of much greater height than itself.

The steelwork on the Metropolitan Tower, Madison av, southeast corner 24th st, to be the highest building in the world, is now up to the corresponding height of the main building. The cut stone work is also rapidly being erected, now reaching above the first story. The Hedden Construction Company is general contractor. Post & McCord have the structural steelwork, and the Waverly Marble Co. the contract to furnish and set the exterior marble, which is from the same quarry as that used in the main building.

The display of brass goods manufactured by the Janusch Manufacturing Company at their new show rooms, 18 East 22d st, is now complete, and to which architects, decorators and those interested are cordially invited. In large variety may be seen brass and iron andirons, frames, screens, fenders, fire sets, brass and bronze lamps (oil, electric and gas) fitted with beautiful art glass shades, brass candle sticks, candelabra, jardinieres, etc. They also execute to drawing or from architects' designs vestibule doors, railings, grilles, tablets, etc., in any metal. Catalogue of the above goods can be had on application.

Mr. Philip P. Farley has opened an office at 244 Jackson av, Long Island City, as a civil engineer and specialist in all kinds of municipal improvements, development of suburban properties and reclamation of marsh lands. From 1891 to 1895 Mr. Farley was with Thomas & Kurth, civil engineers and surveyors, engaged in the development of suburban properties; 1896 to 1899, assistant city engineer of Atlantic City, N. J.; 1900 to 1903, assistant engineer with the New York Rapid Transit Commission in charge of construction of the twin tunnels through Murray Hill, N. Y.; 1903 to 1906, assistant superintendent of the Bergen Point Chemical Works at Bayonne, N. J. Since May, 1906, Mr. Farley has been president of the Jamaica Bay Improvement Commission, appointed by Mayor McClellan, to report upon the improvement of the bay, with the idea of reclaiming the marsh lands and of converting the waterways into a subsidiary harbor of the port of New York.

Landlord and Tenant Decisions.

RENT AND ADVANCES.

A landlord, by opening and maintaining a public bowling alley immediately under a leased flat, the alley being used all day and till late at night, creates a nuisance, making it impossible for the tenant to peaceably and quietly hold and enjoy his premises, constituting an eviction, so that the tenant, leaving the premises in consequence thereof, is not liable for subsequent rent.—Donovan v. Koehler, 119 App. Div. 51, 103 N. Y. S. (137 St. Rep.) 935.

LANDLORD'S TITLE AND REVERSION.

Where the lessee of premises deposited money with the lessor, to be returned at the end of the lease if all rent should be paid and the premises left in good order, the lessee's assignee could not recover the deposit against the lessor's grantees; there being no claim that they ever came in possession of the deposit, and the covenant to return the money not running with the land.—Joseph Fallert Brewing Co. v. Blass, 119 App. Div. 53, 103 N. Y. S. (137 St. Rep.) 865.

RE-ENTRY AND RECOVERY OF POSSESSION BY LANDLORD.

Where a lease provided that, on violation of its terms and notice to the tenant, the term of the lease should expire, the tenant may be removed by summary process.—Matter of Schoelkopf, 54 Misc. Rep. 31, 105 N. Y. S. (139 St. Rep.) 477.

PREMISES AND ENJOYMENT AND USE THEREOF.

A lease providing that the tenant should use the premises for a theatre of the first class for the production of plays of the highest order held not satisfied by the production of melodramas, vaudeville and burlesque, though they were of the first class of their kind.—Matter of Schoelkopf, 54 Misc. Rep. 31, 105 N. Y. S. (139 St. Rep.) 477.

An Architectural Competition.

The conditions for the competition for the selection of an architect for the new Executive and Administrative Building, at Regina, promoted by the Government at Saskatchewan, have been issued. The competition is restricted to the following invited firms; Darling & Pearson, Winnipeg, Toronto; Cass, Gilbert, New York, U. S. A.; Marchand & Haskell, Montreal; E. & W. S. Maxwell, Montreal; Mitchell & Raine, London, Eng.; F. Rattenbury, Victoria, B. C.; Storie & Von Egmond, Regina. The competition is for a building to cost about $1,250,000.

The assessors in the competition are: Bertram Goodhue, of Messrs. Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson, New York; Mr. Percy E. Nobbs, professor of architecture, McGill University.

Points on the Material Market.

Considerable irregularity is observed in the market for cast-iron soil pipe.

A further reduction in the price of copper and brass products to dealers was made September 30.

It is estimated for the whole country that about 120,000 tons of structural steel work was given out in September.

A better tone in the hardware market is thought to be indicative of an approaching good fall and winter business.

First-class construction keeps up well, in view of the condition of the money market, and the structural steel mills are crowded with work.

Hudson River brick prices have been somewhat mixed up. On Wednesday morning good material was quoted at $6.25 to $6.75 per thousand, but the market was weak at those figures. Seventy-five barge loads of brick were disposed of last week, which is considered a large outgo. Shipments are heavy.

Bonding of Brickwork.

The recently enacted Building law of the city of Boston prescribes in Section 25:

"Every eighth course, at least, of a brick wall shall be a full heading or bonding course, except where walls are faced with face brick, in which case in every eighth course at least every other brick shall be a full header. No diagonal header ties shall be used."

The diagonal header bond has been used many years. Some consider that the Flemish bond is the most reliable, and a variate of it is permitted by the Boston ordinance—with additional bonding if desired.

—The Third International Congress of the International Federation for the Development of the Teachers of Drawing will probably be held in London during the week of August 3rd, 1908, final decision on the matter being left to the British Committee. The reasons for placing the Congress so early in the month are: that certain influential people would then remain in London to participate in the Congress; the annual exhibition of the drawings from the British art schools entered in the national competition will then be on view; the Anglo-French exhibition at Earl's Court, in which all the art and technical schools of France will be represented, will be open to members of the Congress; and the annual exhibition of the Royal Academy will not have closed. The exhibition of drawings, etc., in connection with the Congress will be open a week or two earlier than the Congress and close a week or two later.

The Week.

The private sales market is giving evidence of an awakening, largely due no doubt to the better feeling which prevails with respect to the money situation. Mortgage funds are less difficult to obtain and, what is equally important, the opportunities for exacting excessive charges for the procurement of loans have been lessened in proportion. The easing up in this direction has been somewhat hastened by the increased amount of outside capital seeking investment in mortgages hereabouts. This is further illustrated by the recent granting of mortgage loans aggregating $370,000 at five per cent. by the Republic of Panama on Manhattan realty. In many parts of the city the volume of dealings has been multiplied and some of the old-time signs of approaching activity are appearing again. Over in Brooklyn much improvement is shown by the increase in purchases of lots and apartments, and brokers in the South End are busier than usual, which may be attributed to the recent decision to proceed with the construction of the Fourth avenue subway. It is reasoned by experts that the market has passed through its most depressed period, and that from now on a more normal condition for this season of the year will be looked for. Last year's surplus of buildings in the Bronx is fast being absorbed, and it is stated on reliable authority that the supply of medium-price two-family dwellings in that quarter is well nigh exhausted. An inspection of the sales budget will show that more than the usual number of corner parcels changed hands, including the purchase of the northeast corner of Broadway and 231st st, which will be improved with flats and stores. On the Middle West side dwellings continue the feature and up on Washington Heights the unlooked for impetus in trading will do much toward strengthening prices in that locality. The total number of private sales reported is 64, of which 11 were below 59th st, 31 above and 22 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The attendance at the auction offerings this week was good, and the prices realized in most instances were up to expectations. The budget contained, in addition to the usual legal sales, several of a voluntary nature, including a business building in Washington st and a dwelling and stable on Boston road. On Monday Joseph P. Day struck off to Fredk. V. Haas, on a bid of $108,000, property at the northeast cor of 3d av and 168th st, extending to Fulton av, 176x337 and irregular; a two and three sty brick brewery and stables. There was due on judgment in this instance $80,000. On Tuesday Mr. Day sold a vacant plot, 75x100, on the westerly side of Vyse av, 191.4 ft. north of Home st, to Geo. McCauslan on a bid of $6,500, there being due on judgment in this case $4,428. At the stand of Chas. A. Berrian, No. 3394 3d av, a 3-sty brick tenement, 112.6x121.10x123.8x70.7, found a purchaser in the William Rosenzweig Realty Operating Co. at $36,787.

On Wednesday, Bryan L. Kennelly struck off the 5-sty brick business building, 609 Washington st, 18.6x64, to John J. Aaron & Son, for $29,050, considered a satisfactory figure. Among other parcels, Mr. Kennelly sold the irregular plot, 60x180, with a 2-sty frame dwelling, at 1262 Boston road, to Henry Harburger for $21,750. This figure compares well with prices obtained at private sale for similar parcels in that section. On the following day a parcel at the southwest cor of South st and James slip, a 4-sty tenement with store, 36.2x21.11, was offered in partition by Joseph P. Day, who succeeded in eliciting a bid of $17,750 from Julia Volkhauser, to whom the property was struck off. Another small parcel, 26.10x49, being the northwest cor of Roosevelt and South sts—a tenement of like description—was knocked down to Fredk. B. Lemaire on a bid of $31,600. The adjoining building, No. 174 South st, 17.10x62.3 was purchased by Mr. Lemaire as well at $15,000.

Tenement House Department Under Fire.

Property owners' associations were well represented at the hearing given by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, October 11, when the Tax Budget for 1908 was under consideration. Their efforts were mainly directed against the Tenement House Department, and they asked that the number of inspectors be reduced as well as the appropriation. Mr. Ira J. Ettinger, speaking on behalf of the United Real Estate Owners' Association, said:

"From a perusal of the Budget, we learn that the Tenement House Commissioner, having received the enormous sum of over $669,000 for the conduct of his department in 1907, now requests an appropriation of over $748,000, being an increase of almost $80,000. We not only feel, but know, and can prove by documentary evidence, that the taxpayers' money is being wasted to-day in the manner in which the Tenement House Department is conducted. A multitude of employees is being carried on the municipal pay-rolls for the purpose of annoying and tantalizing the property owners of our city by the filing and issuing of violations against their properties, which are frivolous, absurd and ridiculous in the extreme, and which have absolutely no relation to the sanitary welfare of the occupants of tenement houses.

"There are so many thousands of orders issued by the department, that it is almost impossible to obtain cancellations of violations where the work has been properly done. Because of this, the greatest confusion results upon the closing of titles to real estate, and thousands upon thousands of dollars are held to-day by the title companies of our city, and by lawyers representing the purchasers of such real estate, as deposit to secure cancellations of such violations.

"These facts are open and notorious, and are well known to every real estate man in the City of New York. It has justly aroused their righteous indignation; it interferes with the sale of real estate in the City of New York, and makes real estate therefore, an undesirable investment in the metropolis. We feel that there should be the utmost economy in the administration of municipal affairs; that the appropriation for the Tenement House Department for the year 1907 has been excessive, and that the appropriation for 1908 should, by every sense of fairness and justice to the real estate owners of our city, who bear the burdens of 90% of our taxation, be reduced and not increased."

Mr. Ettinger cited numerous instances of frivolous and meaningless orders issued by the Tenement House Department, and said that if he had the time he could bring an automobile full of such orders to present to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, showing how the taxpayers' moneys was being wasted. One particular instance which he cited noticeably impressed the many real estate owners that were present at the hearing. The Tenement House Department had sent four inspectors to a certain house in West 23d st, claiming that there was a leak in the roof. Four inspectors called at various times because the owner steadfastly maintained that there was no such leak. Finally a special inspector was sent, and he discovered that there was no leak in the roof, and that the four inspectors who had called in 1907 had made an inspection under a violation issued in 1904, and which had long since been complied with.

Mr. Ettinger stated that he thought that the Tenement House Law was passed by the Legislature to improve housing conditions of the dwellers in tenements in the congested districts of our city, and not for the purpose of wasting the taxpayers' money, in discovering leaks on roofs, cracks in panes of glass, lack of hinges on water closet seats, and such other frivolous details.

Mr. Horan, representing the Lower East Side Property Owners' Association, objected to the limit of five minutes allowed to each speaker, saying that it was far too little to state the condition of affairs properly. He quoted Mr. Metz's statement published in the Record and Guide to the effect that under certain conditions in 25 years the city might be free from taxation. He alleged that inspections were made by the Tenement House Department without foundation of law or common sense and has documentary evidence to prove his assertions.

Mr. Robert E. Simon, representing the Allied Real Estate Interests, said that his organization consists of many thousand of property owners who pay taxes on $100,000,000 out of $300,000,000 that is assessed by the city. The organization was not antagonistic to the Board, but wanted time to properly examine the Budget and go over the various items carefully to see that the property owners interests were taken care of.

Mr. Frank Demuth, of the West Side Taxpayers' Association, objected to the advance in salaries asked by the Tenement House Department. He claimed that there will be less building of tenements this year and far less than two years ago, and so there should not be any additional appropriation. He requested the Board to give the property owners another hearing.

In the Pennsylvania Terminal Section.

THE demand for business locations west of Broadway in the Pennsylvania section, is increasing, the small dealer is strenuously trying to obtain a lease which may assure him of some few years possession of premises suitable to his business and the investor is turning his eyes with interest to purchase some plot which can be leased to advantage. Despite the tight money market the owners of property in this section are maintaining their prices and are perfectly confident that the progression and completion of the work on the Pennsylvania Station, McAdoo Terminal, and on the tunnels will bring about the long anticipated boom, and justify their judgment in holding the property.

Above Twenty-third Street and west of Broadway, loft buildings, though none too readily, are none the less being rented. A number of large publishing houses have located in the section west of Broadway and below Forty-second Street, and thus the section for the publishing business is defined; publishers, printers and other lines of business will locate as required by their interests, as near as possible.

In Thirty-fourth Street, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues, a number of brownstone houses have been altered for business purposes and quickly rented. The prospect of an arcade connecting the Pennsylvania Station with Thirty-fourth Street has caused much interest in the block between Seventh and Eighth Avenues and much of the property in that block is already owned by real estate operators.

Mr. I. J. Pocher, of Pocher & Co., of No. 126 West Thirty-fourth Street, says that with the advance of the fall season, in the Pennsylvania section, an increased demand for buying and leasing property is very noticeable, and it is probable that even in the face of the present financial situation, a number of good-sized deals will be consummated.

"The transition of the Pennsylvania section into the greatest business district of New York is inevitable. Those who come into the market at this time will be rewarded munificently for their judgment. The enormous increase of values in this section is due partly to solid and substantial investors and operators, not of the mushroom order, as have caused passing booms in some other localities.

"As proof of this substantial condition," Mr. Pocher remarked that "while there are numerous buyers for property in this section, and while much the greater part of it is at present barely paying carrying charges, mostly all present owners are holding out for higher prices, although many have already been offered substantial profits. We could not conscientiously advise a client to sell now, as we are looking forward for the only real boom this section has had, and the time to buy is the present.

"During present tight financial conditions," continued Mr. Pocher, "the majority of those who have funds to loan on bond and mortgage, give the 'Thirty-fourth Street districts' as the most attractive to them. Judging from the demand at this office to rent stores, lofts and business property of all classes, it would seem that when the owners are prepared to give straight leases they can certainly, even now, command much higher rentals.

"We could mention among others a transaction in this locality where we sold in a side street, a small plot of less than 2,000 square feet, less than one year ago for $98,000, renting for $2,000 per annum, which could have been bought four years ago for less than $30,000, and for which we now have an offer of $115,000, which the owner has declined. Many transactions of this kind will occur during the next few years."

Smallest Payment for Taxes.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Do you know what the law is to-day with reference to paying assessments in the boroughs of Manhattan and Bronx, what the smallest payment by instalment the law allows at present?

Some time ago the Collector of Assessments of both of the above-mentioned boroughs, in writing stated that $50 was the smallest sum then allowed by law which could be paid at any one time on any one assessment; but only recently an order has been given by an Assistant Deputy Collector of Assessments that not less than one-fifth of whole amount of any one assessment could be paid hereafter at any one time, no matter what the amount of assessment—whether $3,000, more or less. Does not the law state specifically that an instalment as low as $50 can be paid on any one assessment at one time? Is not the Chief Deputy Collector of Assessments of each borough for New York City, or his assistants, bound to respect this law and accept $50 (not less) instalment on any assessment at one time? How many years does the law allow an assessment to stand unpaid against property before the city can take action by foreclosure, sale, etc.? Who is in authority or authorized by law for the city to say how much of any one assessment must be paid? Has the Corporation Counsel, or the Comptroller, any authority over and above the law? Has not this law been tested, making it compulsory for the Collector or his assistants to accept $50 on instalment for part payment of any assessment at one time? It is hoped you can give us some information in the above matter.

Answer.—We refer our correspondent to section 1019 of the charter of the City of New York, as amended by chapter 597 of the laws of 1904, which states that sums not less than fifty dollars or multiples thereof may be tendered for payment on account of assessments, and credited as such. Whenever an assessment remains unpaid for three years from confirmation the City of New York may advertise such lands for sale, but sales are made for a term of years only. (See section 1027 of said charter.) The owner may redeem from such sale within two years by paying sum due at the time of sale and interest at rate of fourteen per cent. per annum, and expenses of advertising. (See section 1041 of said charter.) But in case such lands are bid in at such tax sale by the City of New York, such lands may be redeemed by paying assessment, expenses of advertising and interest at rate of seven per cent. per annum. (See section 1034 of said charter.)

We do not know of any additional changes in said sections of said charter, or of any authority in any one to make any different rule of payment from what is stated above.—Ed.

Who's Who in Real Estate—I.

ELBRIDGE THOMAS GERRY, a New Yorker by birth and a graduate of Columbia College, has the distinction of being one of the best known men in this city.

He entered the law office of William Curtis Noyes and was admitted to the bar in 1860. At various times he had as partners, Mr. W. C. Noyes, William F. Allen, Justice of the Court of Appeals and Benjamin Vaughan Abbott. Mr. Gerry has one of the finest law libraries in the United States, numbering several thousand volumes. He was council in several notable cases and acted in that capacity for several year for the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and aided in the passage of most of the laws now in force for the protection of dumb beasts.

ELBRIDGE T. GERRY

He was one of the founders of the New York Society for the Prevention of cruelty to Children, frequently called the "Gerry Society." In 1879 he was elected its President and has held that position ever since. In 1886 the Legislature of the State of New York appointed Mr. Gerry chairman of a commission, with Hon. Matthew Hale and Dr. A. P. Southwick, to consider the most humane way of executing condemned prisoners, which resulted in the use of the electric chair instead of hanging.

Mr. Gerry is a heavy holder of real estate, mainly down town and East Side property. A list of his holdings as it appears in the latest Real Estate Directory is printed herewith: 110 Broad st, 104 Chambers st, 73 Cherry st, 35 Division st, 11 Frankfort st, 165 Greenwich st, 355-361 Greenwich st, 23 Pearl st, 57 South st, 20 Spruce st, 46 Vesey st, 60 Walker st, 72 Warren st, 31 Washington st, 40-42 Stone st, 73 Pearl st, 34 Washington st, 14 Water st, 33 Water st, 147 Water st, 356 Water st, 55 West st, 7 East 28th st, 10 East 29th st, 137 East 44th st, 132 East 45th st, 7 East 46th st, 6 East 47th st, 412 East 47th st, 432 East 56th st, 39 East 62d st, 66 East 66th st, 403 Broadway, 454 Broadway, 521 Broadway, 913 Broadway, 35 East End av, 63 Madison av, 102 Madison av, 630 Park av, 88 West Broadway, 1030 3d av, 239 4th av, 390 4th av, 563 5th av, 816 5th av, 133 7th av, 88 8th av, 135 Grand st, and 26 Harrison st.

Compensation.

In a case where a broker was employed by the owner of some land to secure a purchaser for it, he produced two persons, who obtained a written agreement from the owner to sell the land to them, but did not sign the agreement, and afterward refused to take a deed. In this case the court held that the broker was not entitled to a commission.

Buying Property.

BUYING property in New York City is a science. While many purchasers look only on the surface, not so with the man who has made a study of the subject. Owners of property can be separated, roughly, into two classes: the professional and the amateur. That class of purchasers which buys a parcel and takes it out of the market, such as purchases for railroad purposes, executors, business property for the owner's own use, etc., need not be considered at this time. The two classes first referred to are in the traders' class. What they buy is for sale, but their methods of buying and selling are entirely different. The professional trader devotes his whole time to operating in real estate, while the other buys as a side issue, as he has other things to occupy his attention.

The amateur has no special knowledge of the real estate situation, and not a very intimate knowledge of the locality in which he wants to buy. He has no real reason for buying there, except that he has made up his mind from surface conditions as he sees them. His broker or adviser tells him that two years ago such a house brought so much money, that there is a mortgage for a certain amount on the property, and that it is worth a certain figure. If the present purchase price is within his means and it is the kind of a house he has already made up his mind to buy, the deal has a very good chance of early completion.

He has bought it, if the truth were known, on instinct rather than on facts. If he sells it for a profit he congratulates himself on his shrewdness; if there is a loss, he thinks that the broker has landed him, or says to himself, "Hard luck!" Many brokers have adopted the practice of submitting the facts of the case to the client, but in no way trying to influence him to take a certain piece of property. In that way they feel that the purchaser cannot blame them if things do not turn out quite right. As a rule he pays the market value at the time of purchase and any profit he may make is really due to the natural advance in realty values. This is the class of buyers who are loaded up with property during "bad times," and they are the first to let go after the period of depression has passed. What is the reason for all this? The answer is that such a buyer does not know his subject. He has only a smattering of knowledge, which is apt to be dangerous.

The professional operator, on the other hand, has an office adapted to his business, with maps, records of transfers, mortgages and every other device that is known to help him in his business. He is widely acquainted among the brokers, and learns what is going on in the field. Far more valuable than all these records, he has actual knowledge of values. He goes about it differently from the amateur. In the first place, he is, in a great measure, unbiased, though he may have preference for certain locations. He will take on anything that looks as though there was a margin of profit in it for him. However, he is just as quick to let go as soon as he sees the storm signals set. It is as important to know when to "stand from under," as when to buy.

He appraises the house and lot separately. He figures that the value of the house will deteriorate each year. The increased value of the lot must not only offset this loss, but also make his profit for him. He looks into the chances of street assessments, changes of grade, and all the other things which materially affect the value of the property. When purchasing he usually has a clearly defined plan of action. He does not work in the dark, nor does he take much on faith. Then, in his case, it is a question of averaging up to some extent. Sometimes he will get a piece of property in trade that under ordinary circumstances, nothing would have induced him to touch, but he will try very hard to run it off on liberal terms as soon as possible.

The speculator is very partial to property in a section that is running down for residential purposes, and, as a rule, there is a time at which such can be purchased "right." He will convert it into stores, erect an apartment house, or sell it to a builder who will do it instead of him. As business property he gets a value on a different basis from that of a private dwelling. Business houses bring in more rent than privates, except in very few cases, and once having rented them, there is not such a chance for vacancies.

The moment a tenant moves out of a dwelling, it ceases to bring in any income. The expenses continue. Interest on the mortgage, taxes, insurance and the bills for repairs must be met whether the building be vacant or occupied. The business house proposition, on the other hand, usually has more than one tenant and the chance of vacancies is more remote. Should one tenant move out, there are others to help defray the expenses.

In buying a piece of property, among other things, notice the transit facilities. Figure out how long does it take you to get to the City Hall. Not from the subway or elevated station, but from the door of the house. Remember, there are at least five months of cold weather, and many rainy days during the spring, summer and fall to be considered. Try to place yourself in the other man's shoes. How will it strike the man you are going to sell it to?

Don't think "How am I going to buy it?" but "How can I sell it, and for how much?" Property on a corner or on a principal street, even though it costs more money, may be cheaper in the end, as there will be a readier market for it. It has natural advantages, such as light and air, which is most important in a large city. A mortgage can be placed on it more advantageously and many other points come up in its favor which need not be gone into at present. To purchase a piece of property profitably one must have knowledge of the subject, and one of the surest ways of gaining such knowledge is to meet and talk with those who are familiar with it.

Outside Money for New York Real Estate.

The man with a small amount of money to invest in mortgages, as five hundred or a thousand dollars, has had some difficulty in the past in placing it. Within two years there has been formed a company, called the New York Investors' Company, and organized under the auspices of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, subject to the Banking Department of the State of New York. It has a capital of $100,000. This company hopes to reach two classes of investors, first the man who has a small amount of money to put in real estate mortgages, and secondly the man with considerable money, and who wishes to invest in a number of small mortgages.

This company offers guaranteed mortgage certificates for five hundred and a thousand dollars each, bearing 4½ per cent. interest semi-annually, and exempt from the mortgage recording tax law.

Mr. J. Wray Cleveland says that in the short time that the company has been organized it has sold over $2,000,000 worth of certificates. If the investor puts up $1,000 he has an undivided share equal to that amount in bonds and mortgages deposited by the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. These bonds and mortgages are held by the Title Co., which insures the title and guarantees that all the mortgages are first liens on the property. The recording tax has been paid and they are exempt from all State taxation as provided in Chapter 532 of the laws of 1906.

"The bonds and mortgages," said Mr. Cleveland, "are guaranteed to the company by the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Co., which has a capital and surplus of over $5,000,000, and it has guaranteed more than $200,000,000 of first mortgages. So you see we have had some experience in mortgages.

"The form of mortgage," said Mr. Cleveland, "is nothing more or less than an assignment of an actual share amounting to $500 or $1,000, as the case may be, in the group of mortgages deposited with the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. which makes the holder a part owner of the identical mortgages so deposited."

The trouble for some time past in New York has been the shortage of money for mortgage purposes. It is very difficult to get money outside the city to take the larger mortgages. By combining all the small amounts received from individuals a fund is created big enough to make this possible. The result is that this idea will afford considerable relief to the mortgage situation, and will soon have a far reaching effect.

Records Broken in Tax Department.

As shown by the following table the previous record for receipt of taxes during the first two days was broken. Last year all previous records up to that date were broken, but this year $4,353,713.08 was collected more than in 1906. These amounts include all those moneys which were paid into the department before the first Monday in October on which taxes became a lien. Col. David E. Austen, the Receiver of Taxes, said that he expects the payment before January 1, 1908, will be larger by nearly $10,000,000 than ever before.

The Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments have power to correct an erroneous assessment on real estate before the collection of the tax. The application, therefore, must be made to these Commissioners within one year from the time the tax books are delivered to the Receiver for collection.

Persons who pay their taxes before the first day of November next are entitled to a discount at the rate of six per cent. per annum, to be computed from the time of payment to the first day of December next succeeding. The bills must be rebated before drawing check in payment. If any tax is not paid before the first day of December, one per cent. will be added to it. If not paid before the first of January, interest is charged at the rate of seven per cent. per annum FROM THE FIRST MONDAY IN OCTOBER. If personal taxes are not paid by the fifteenth day of January, the Receiver may issue his warrant to the Marshall for their collection by distress and sale. Real estate taxes not paid before June 1 will be returned to the Bureau for the Collections of Arrears.

Torrens Commission Public Hearing

The first public hearing of the Torrens Commission, appointed by Governor Hughes, which took place in the Aldermanic Chambers at City Hall, Oct. 11, attracted a large attendance. The Commission has had several private meetings and has elected two committees from its number to investigate whether the system is a success in the various countries where it is in operation, or the reverse. The chambers were crowded with representative real estate owners, brokers and lawyers. The meeting showed clearly that a deep interest is taken in the proposed change of registering real estate titles, and whether the Torrens system or some other one is adopted there was no doubt that the great majority present felt that the present plan is inadequate and that some other system should be immediately adopted which would cut down the present expense, and hasten the closing of titles.

Mr. Lowell spoke with feeling and at length in favor of the Torrens law and when questioned by the Commission gave some interesting experiences and showed how the present difficulties can be overcome.

Camillus G. Kidder explained how the Torrens system is operated and endorsed the adoption of it in this State.

Morris B. Aitken, a lawyer who has practiced both in Massachusetts and New York, spoke in favor of the new movement. He said in Boston it takes two months to register the title the first time, but after that only a few hours are necessary.

City Real Estate Methods.

(From Grand Jury's Report.)

We have investigated the methods used by the City of New York in acquiring the land to be used for the Kissena Lake Park site and lands for school purposes in Queens County, and from the evidence adduced upon such investigation we find that the methods employed in acquiring such lands are improper, careless, inaccurate and prejudicial to the best interest of the taxpayers of the county. That those methods are the cause of extremely exorbitant prices being paid for land for park and school purposes, to the injury of the taxpayers.

We recommend that rules be adopted by the City of New York requiring appraisers appointed to investigate the values of land required for public use, to file in the department to which they are attached, written reports, showing in detail, the facts upon which they arrive at their appraisal, which reports should be accessible to any taxpayer at all times.

That the terms of every proposed purchase of lands for public use, other than by condemnation, should be published in newspapers having a general circulation in the borough where such lands are situated and that a public hearing be had before any such sale is consummated.

We direct that a copy of this presentment and report be forwarded to the Mayor, President of the Board of Aldermen and Comptroller of the City of New York.

Dated October 4, 1907.

Stirred Up Over Increased Assessments.

Property owners in Flatbush and some other sections of Brooklyn are wrought up over a large increase which has been made in the assessed value of their holdings this year. They contend that the jump in assessments is unjustifiable, particularly since they are receiving comparatively little for their money. Residents along the line of Ocean Parkway complain that many of the streets are not lighted and that the roadways are little more than mud paths. Moreover, they maintain that those who have made improvements to their property have been discriminated against, in that unimproved property has not been increased in proportion. In speaking of the subject during the week a prominent Flatbush real estate man said that in many instances the assessments in that locality had been raised as much as 100 per cent., and that the owners of property affected, having failed to secure a reduction, had brought the matter to the attention of the local tax payers' associations in the hope of more speedily obtaining an adjustment of their grievances.

A correspondent makes a suggestion for slicing the front of a block in Madison square, in order to relieve congestion. The conditions complained of should receive attention from the city engineers and perhaps a less expensive method of obtaining the same relief may be suggested.

The report of the Comptroller on the Delancey st assessment matter has been referred to a select committee of the Board of Estimate at his request. This report was relative to the relief from assessment of property owners. The Comptroller recommends that the city assume entire cost of the proceedings.

The application of the Portchester Railroad for permission to change the route laid out for its tracks has been reopened by the Board of Estimate and the next hearing has been set for Friday, November 1. But, owing to an injunction still pending, no action may be taken at that date.

Mr. Paul J. Bonwit, president of the Bonwit Realty Company, owner of the premises, 13-15 West 34th st, states that the report of the sale of the premises at that number is absolutely unfounded. It was stated during the week that a sum approaching $700,000 had been paid for the parcel by Robert S. Smith, a former owner of the property.

Next Monday, and after, the New York public will probably be better served by the subway and elevated lines, as the Public Service Commission this week issued its first mandatory order. Some 392 more car trips are specified in the order. Items 1, 2, 6 and 7, for the Second av, and Items 1, 5, 6, 7 and 8 for the Third av, take effect Oct. 14. Other items affecting the Second av go into effect on Oct. 25, as do those affecting the Ninth av. The remaining items will not go into effect until Nov. 20, owing to the company not having sufficient equipment on hand. All the orders are to remain in force until April 1.

Bernheimer & Schwartz Brewing Company's application to the Board of Estimate for permission to construct, maintain and use a bridge over and across West 128th st, about 218 feet east of Amsterdam av, for the purpose of connecting the present machinery building with the proposed new boiler house to be erected by the company directly opposite, has been granted. The compensation during the first five years is $150 annually, $175 annually during the second five years and a security deposit of $500. The Chief Engineer recommended that the consent be granted, but in no case to extend beyond ten years, and revocable on 60 days' notice in writing to the petitioner.

The real estate class of the West Side Y. M. C. A. will be opened with formal exercises held at the Y. M. C. A. building, 320 West 57th st, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 15. The address of the evening will be delivered by Joseph P. Day, on "Auctioneering and Brokerage." Mr. Henry Harmon Neill will preside. ### The Adams Sale Attractng Attention.

Among the coming auctions is the sale of the estate of Albert J. Adams, deceased, familiarly known as "Al Adams," which will be conducted on Wednesday, October 16, 1907, at the Exchange Salesrooms, 14-16 Vesey st., by Bryan L. Kennelly. The parcels consist of many choice properties, including several of a speculative character, which are situated in close proximity to the Pennsylvania and McAdoo Terminal. The sale will no doubt attract a large and representative gathering, and it is the opinion of those in a position to judge that some excellent prices will be obtained. Mr. Kennelly has prepared a booklet for this sale, containing special photos and information which will prove of value to those who may be interested. The terms of sale are liberal, requiring only a payment of ten per cent. of the purchase price, and the auctioneer's and Salesroom fees, the remainder of the purchase price, less the mortgages taken back by the estate, to be paid in 30 days. The properties to be sold are: Nos. 54 West 31st st, 375 7th av, 1161 2d av, 43 Bowery, 539 and 541 8th av, 107 West 45th st, 407 West 35th st, 307 West 37th st, 208 and 210 West 30th st, Manhattan; also Nos. 19½ to 23 Borden av, Long Island City; 1138 Manhattan av, Brooklyn.

Prices of New Buildings Too High.

Real estate brokers have frequently expressed the opinion that new houses in Brooklyn are being held at figures which are excessive, while old buildings on the contrary are just beginning to reach their true valuation. This may be said to be especially the case in the middle section of the borough where recently new houses have been difficult to market while there has been a strong demand for old buildings.

An Apology.

One of our leading magazines published recently the memoirs of one of our leading actresses. The story was excellent, but as the serial progressed the discovery was made that the autobiography, or at least parts of it, had been printed before elsewhere. The principals had acted in perfect good faith, and, therefore, rectification was both easy and prompt. Errors of this kind, we suppose, really will continue to occur for a few years to come, that is until the ordinary editorial mind actually acquires the omniscience which at present it assumes. In the meantime the "Real Estate News" (of Chicago) draws our own attention to the fact that a writer has contributed to our columns certain matter which he "conveyed" from the "News" without the usual acknowledgment. This was not only wrong but quite unnecessary. Moreover, it was in direct contradiction of the rule that has prevailed in our office for forty years, to the effect that any paper from which the Record and Guide is willing to quote is worthy of the usual professional credit. In this affair of the "News," our agent, without our knowledge, placed us in a wrong position. We tender our apologies and regrets to our abused contemporary. We deplore the wrong doing all the more because we realize that the incident produced more than a usual perturbation in the minds of our good Western friends, and led them into hastily exposing themselves to the misunderstanding of the ordinary phlegmatic mind. We would like to do all that we can to assure the average reader that the Record and Guide highly appreciates what may look to him like the excessive compliment which the "News" pays us by being so unusually disturbed by the deprivation of credit in our columns. We protest that it is uncharitable for any one to assume that the several pages which the "News" devoted to complaining about this mishap, were not valued by the management of the "News" at more than the cost of the two-cent stamp and the informal letter which would have been amply sufficient to rectify the mistake. We trust we shall not hear it said again that the horse-power of the "News" must be somewhat in excess of its horse-sense, or that its excitement in print is an indication, not of the fact that its ethics are higher than those of others, but that the value of its space is less. These are uncharitable views that overlook entirely the enormous strain of producing a modern newspaper.

Straightening Out Richmond Title.

A prominent broker in Staten Island realty says that one of the drawbacks to the more frequent purchase of real estate in Richmond Borough is the fact that in many instances it has been difficult to obtain marketable titles. He alluded to the circumstance of over 1,000 important deeds and mortgages which were recently found by a title company to be hopelessly indefinite in their boundaries as proof of his contention. The work of searching many of the old titles with the purpose of straightening out the tangle is now being conducted by the Title Guarantee & Trust Company.

Bronx Opinion on Rapid Transit Matters

ON THE NEW BROOKLYN SUBWAY PROCEEDINGS.

At a meeting held Monday evening by the Bronx Committee of One Hundred, at the Real Estate Auction Rooms in the Hegeman Building, corner Third avenue and 149th street, among other business transacted the following resolutions were unanimously adopted: The resolutions were introduced by Mr. Edward Polak, and, in support thereof, an article from the Record and Guide of October 5 was read with approval.

We, The Committee of One Hundred, representing the people of the Bronx, hereby call upon the Public Service Commission to rescind its action of October 1, committing the city to the construction of the Fourth avenue subway in Brooklyn. We are totally opposed to the scheme of having the city exhaust its resources in the construction of a branch of the present traction monopoly for the operation of which there could be no possible competition, but which would of necessity fall into their hands after completion.

We demand that instead of sinking $23,000,000 in the construction of a branch to the present system, that money be at once used to begin the building of a great trunk system authorized by the Board of Estimate on Dec. 7, 1906.

Recognizing, as we do, the needs of all sections of the greater city for transit relief, we deprecate this movement as leading to the abandonment of the great East and West Side trunk line routes on Manhattan Island for which bids were to be received on April 25. The resolution of the Board of Aldermen on April 23 blocked the scheme of leasing the roads to the contractors, and we now demand they be built in accordance with the terms of that resolution—namely, for construction alone.

Relief to the people of the Bronx can only come through the construction of great trunk roads through Manhattan, and further extensions of local facilities but increases the congestion on present subway and elevated roads. While we also demand these extensions, they should spread out like a fan, to be carried down Manhattan Island by the great trunk roads for which every arrangement had been made by the old Rapid Transit Commission.

We call upon all civic organizations in the Bronx, Manhattan and Brooklyn to oppose the Fourth Avenue Subway as an independent proposition, and to demand the immediate construction of the great systems decided upon by the commission last December.

ON THIRD TRACKS FOR EAST SIDE ELEVATED ROADS.

The meeting also adopted the following:

Whereas, in the investigation before the Public Utilities Commission, it was stated by Lemuel E. Quigg that he inspired the action of the Committee of One Hundred; and

Whereas, he also implied the fact that the expenses of this committee were paid from the funds of the Metropolitan company, paid out by him; and

Whereas, the need of increased rapid transit facilities for the east side and unanimous efforts made to obtain the same have been known for the last seventeen years, the present subway system merely being a compromise in the effort to serve both sides of the city by the Rapid Transit Commission, resulting in the satisfaction of neither, and as the conditions of the east side have become more clamorous for east side rapid transit than ever, no acceleration to public opinion was or is necessary from Mr. Quigg or any other source.

Therefore be it resolved, That this committee, composed, as it is, of the business men, property owners and large interests of the Bronx, emphatically deny that Mr. Quigg ever inspired their action or opinion in any manner, shape or form, and, furthermore, this Committee of One Hundred never received any money, directly or indirectly, or in any manner from said Quigg or his agents, as every dollar of expenses was paid for by fifty of our members of the committee.

Be it further resolved, That, in view of the present circumstances, it will take some time to build an East Side Subway to relieve the congestion, they are still more strongly of the opinion that a third track for express trains should at once be built on the Second and Third avenue elevated railroads and extensions made to the present system on Westchester avenue, White Plains road and Jerome avenue at the same time.

Proceedings of the Taxpayers' Alliance.

A regular meeting of the Taxpayers' Alliance was held on Wednesday, October 9, with Hon. Joseph A. Goulden chairman. A vigorous protest against the extension of fire limits was made by all the members of the Alliance and a motion was unanimously carried to notify every Alderman of the City of New York that the Taxpayers' Alliance was vigorously opposed to such extension.

Col. Goulden delivered a report on the action of the Committee of One Hundred and showed that the committee was not accelerated by the moneys of the Metropolitan Surety Company.

Mr. McRae read a report on Public Buildings which stated that it was the desire that several additional buildings be erected in the Bronx at this time, so that it would not be necessary for the departments of the city government located in the borough to pay office rents, as is frequently done in the Borough of Manhattan. Criticism was also made on the slowness in building the new Municipal Court House on 163d st and 2d av. All recommendations will be unanimously carried.

The Committee on Rapid Transit, through its chairman, Mr. Powers, proposed that the part of Webster av above Fordham sq be changed to 3d av, so that the 3d av elevated road can be extended to the city limits. The change in name being found necessary, as the franchise of the elevated railroad on 3d av extends only within the City of New York on 3d av. In making this change of name the 3d av elevated road can be extended to the city limits without further application.

The chairman on Transportation, Freight and Railroads, Mr. Harry Robitzek, read a report showing the work that had been accomplished by the committee during the past three months, also showing why the Alliance should congratulate itself that, according to the evidence brought before the Public Service Commission, moneys of the Metropolitan Surety Company were not paid to the Alliance to sway its views one way or the other.

A resolution was unanimously carried at the request of Mr. Robitzek, that the property known as the "Old West Farms Presbyterian Cemetery," now abandoned, at the northwest corner of East 180th st and Bryant av, size being about 155x188 ft., be made a public park.

Mr. Stonebridge explained that the object was to protect the soldiers' graves there located, and present unmarked and being desecrated, shall receive the proper care and attention due to Bronx soldiers who gave their lives in their country's defense.

Col. Goulden explained that the War Department has offered to remove these bodies to the National Cemetery, provided consents of relatives, etc., are obtained, which consents are impossible to secure, a search for relatives or nearest of kin being unsuccessful. Sufficient money has already been pledged to erect a monument and otherwise properly mark these graves, which under present conditions cannot legally be done. In fact any monument or headstones placed in this abandoned, unfenced and unprotected open space would no doubt be damaged or disappear, as did some placed there about thirty years ago.

Transit Extensions to Bronx Imperative.

Property owners and realty interests in the Bronx are somewhat discouraged over the immediate prospect of obtaining better transit facilities for that borough, and although every effort is being expended by them to further the plans for building new subways and elevated extensions in that zone, many fear that it will be many years before the improvements talked of will actually come to pass. Meanwhile, the business of buying and selling real estate, particularly in the middle and western Bronx is practically at a standstill.

The consensus of opinion among brokers and owners of realty in that section is that the Public Service Commission should forthwith authorize at least the building of either an overhead or underground extension to relieve the Jerome av territory. In speaking of the subject a large trader in Bronx realty advanced the opinion that unless something is done very quickly toward bettering transit facilities in the western Bronx there is likely to be a shrinkage in values within that belt, with a consequent indefinite suspension of building operations.

Mr. H. J. Cantrell, of Fordham road and Jerome av, concurs in this belief and intimated that the prolonged inactivity in real property dealings in that quarter is clearly traceable in part to the lack of adequate transit accommodations.

Mr. W. I. Brown, secretary of the Bronx Board of Brokers, and a member also of the Committee of One Hundred, in advancing his opinion as to the requirements along these lines declared that he voiced the sentiments of the people across the Harlem in saying that not only is a transit extension imperative in the west Bronx but like facilities are required as well in the middle and easterly sections of that borough.

He pointed out that unless the Public Service Commission speedily approved one or more of the proposed routes that a temporary period of stagnation in real estate will follow resulting in much hardship to many investors who have been led to believe that the improvements planned would quickly be made.

While Mr. Brown did not censure the act of the Commission in approving the 4th av Brooklyn subway, he said that it was up to that body to do as much for a more densely populated community, and that the exigencies of the situation demanded immediate attention on their part.

Among others who expressed themselves in this matter is Mr. Cahn, of the Ernst-Cahn Realty Co., of 404 East 149th st. He said that although it is to be admitted that the present transit system of the Bronx left much to be desired, residents of the easterly districts are for the present quite well taken care of. What is needed just now he affirmed is a quicker and more direct way of reaching points along the line of Jerome av.

Systems of Land Registration.

By SIDENY V. LOWELL.*

THE REGISTRATION OF OWNERSHIP in the more permanent properties, began many thousand years ago apparently. These records were of sales of the stock and good will of stores, interest in land and similar things, embracing what we know as chattels, as well as real estate. These transfers continued to be quick and inexpensive, save as from taxes levied by the government, until the feudal system arose, when for the purpose of compelling military service from the occupants land was sought to be made absolutely inalienable. From these fetters, as Judge Dillon has well said, "it has never been wholly freed, though it long ago should have been."

The history of modern title registration centres in interest around the great achievement of Robert Torrens, who when collector of customs of the City of Adelaide, South Australia, devised and succeeded in having enacted in law a system whereby a title to land was registered and guaranteed by the State. Under this system proof of ownership being given to the registry, the ownership of a farm or house and lot is registered just as the ownership of a ship is registered at the port where it is built, or the ownership of stock in a corporation is registered in the office of the corporation, or as the governments of all countries register the ownership of a government promise to pay of any kind—stock, consols or bonds; all these things being done with little trouble or expense. The difficulties that have grown up with real estate since the Norman conquest of England about 900 years ago, in English speaking countries, make the registration of land titles in the first instance much more expensive than ship registration, but the registration of all succeeding owners may be made as simply and cheaply as on the transfer of the registry of a schooner at the Custom House.

The registration is brought about in this way. A petition verified by the owner of the property is addressed to one of the superior courts. It recites that the petitioner owns the property and desires to have his title thereto registered. The court appoints an official examiner to report as to the ownership. The examiner takes proof of the ownership, which proof would include an abstract of the title, prepared by the Register of Deeds, a title insurance company or a lawyer of experience in searching titles, who had given a bond to the State as large as that given by the Register of Deeds.

The description of the property would be by map number, and the map used would be the City Tax Map, which would be made to conform to the true dimensions of the property if in any trifling error.

Notice of the proceeding is given to any person who, from the record or otherwise, would appear to have any possible hostile interest, and generally by advertisement in the local newspapers to "all persons whom it may concern." Also a particular notice to all the owners of the immediately adjoining property. The title being made out, the court orders the registry of the title. Included in the cost of the proceeding is a small sum, usually one-tenth of one per centum of the estimated value of the property, to go towards a fund for indemnifying the State as regards any mistake made. The State stands behind the registered title, which cannot be attacked. Should any mistake causing loss occur, the State indemnifies the loser, and the indemnity fund is used for that purpose.

When the registered owner desires to sell the property, he transfers his certificate of registered title to the purchaser. The same is surrendered at the registry office and another issued to the new owner—as on a sale of stock in an incorporated company.

Forty-seven years of cheap and easy land transfer have made Australia and New Zealand envied by all the other English speaking countries. In one year the cost of 17,422 registered sales and mortgages covering property to the amount of 7,585,291 pounds is said to have been only 22 shillings and 9 pence. Of course that was property that had been already registered, was of high value and called for nothing but bare registration fees.

There is a recording act in only a few of the English countries; consequently the history of land titles is scattered through strong boxes of lawyers, bankers, etc., throughout that land. This has made in the past the examination of titles very expensive and is equally embarrassing as to the first registration of a title under the Torrens system. These and other difficulties peculiar to English titles have made title registration proceed slowly in England. Title registration has been made compulsory, however, through counties being brought within the registration act, by order of the King and council. The vast county of London has been so included; the act being applied first to one parish of the county and then to another, and so on.

In Ireland a great deal of property has been brought compulsorily within the land registration act, namely, all coming under the government purchase and sale scheme for the relief of the small tenant class. There had been, down to 1904, 70,000 transactions as to this class of landed property alone. The Torrens system is hailed by the would-be small land owner class, so long oppressed, for its great help toward what is aptly called "free trade in land."

In Central Europe the feudal system, the great opponent of free trade in land, has save in a few isolated spots long ago disappeared. All of the empires of Germany and of Austria-Hungary are under land title registration systems, similar to what Torrens devised, and from which practice he probably obtained ideas. In the official inquiry made for the city of Glasgow, much attention was given to the practicability of title registration of separate floors in buildings; as such divided ownership existed to a considerable extent in that city. It was found that throughout the Austria-Hungary empire that such registration of portions of a house were successfully made. In the great city of Prague, for instance, official plans are kept of all the large buildings divided into floors, where there are separate ownerships of floors.

In Russia, while a rude country, where the free or allodial ownerships do not exist, there is yet a great practical system of registration through the mirs or communes, of the rights of all the members of the community in the commune lands.

In the United States the Torrens system has been adopted in Massachusetts, Illinois, Minnesota, Colorado, California and Oregon. It has withstood the fiercest litigation. It has perhaps received the most careful consideration in Massachusetts, as that State was the first to take it up. The message of Governor Russell to the Legislature, in which he strongly recommended it, will always be one of the great "state papers" of America.

One of the leading authorities upon titles in Illinois has estimated that the cost to the purchaser and seller together in the transfer of lands, amounts annually in that State to ten million dollars, and that the cost throughout the United States exceeds the interest on the national debt, and estimated that the Torrens system if adopted would have saved ninety per cent. of this awful waste.

An eminent publicist has called attention in a Chicago publication to the circumstances relating to one estate, which might easily be duplicated in the vicinity of every large city in the Northern States. The June property was broken up into about 1,400 lots and sold. Three hundred lawyers each separately examined the title. Upon the subsequent sales of each lot, unless brought under the Torrens system, the title from the beginning is supposed to be searched again, and so on at the next and all the succeeding sales, like the house that Jack built.

In Canada the Torrens system is practically "the system" of Manitoba. In the rich province of Ontario it is working very satisfactorily; it is in operation in the city of Toronto and the counties of York and Elgin and in a number of districts classed together as "New Ontario." A year ago land in value of over ten million of dollars had been placed under it. In British Columbia the system is adopted to the extent of making the registory of titles prima facie evidence of ownership. Quebec being a province harking back to French traditions, has an improved recording and certificate of interest in land system of a French nature.

Hawaii and the Philippine Islands have the Torrens system, introduced by our government, in fine shape and largely compulsory. Without it American and foreign capital could not be satisfactorily placed.

Enough has been said to show that there is no matter of common interest that can be regulated by law, occupying so prominent a place all around the world. It is probably much more superior to the present mixed practice of lawyers' examinations and title company guarantees than the present practice is to the situation anterior to the title companies. It may be quite true also that there will be no rest or satisfaction as regard the land we live in and on until the title to each man's house is guaranteed to him by the State itself, and the purchase and sale made as cheap and easy as it is by the pure Torrens system of land title registration; for the blessing of which I can conceive all the world will say amen and amen; as the more fortunate parts thereof who have secured its blessings, now say from day to day.

23d Ward Association and the Fire Limits.

At a meeting of the Twenty-third Ward Property Owners' Association on last Friday evening, Chairman Charles Baxter, of the executive committee, presented a report containing the following expression:

"Relative to the proposition of extending the fire limits in the Bronx, the above-named association, composed of taxpayers in the Twenty-third Ward, desires to be placed on record as opposed to any material extension except as relates to avenues or streets eighty feet wide and more, and intended for business thoroughfares. In such avenues or streets, the fire limits should extend the full length for the reason that it would be for the best business interest of all sections if frame stores were prohibited.

"North Third avenue and some other business thoroughfares today are unsightly and unsafe, owing to the numerous frame stores, and no solid, enterprising business firms care to locate in such structures."

What the Bronx Has Spent for Buildings.

Since the fall of 1904 there has been expended over $100,000,000 in the erection of private dwellings and apartment houses, according to statistics compiled by the North Side News, which also observes that during the eight years preceding 1897, when consolidation took place, 9,000 buildings were erected at a total cost of $53,000,000, or an average of $6,000 each. During the nine and a half years succeeding, 15,710 buildings have been erected at a total cost of $164,451,164. This has led to a demand for a better class of houses to meet the requirements of an increased population, and, consequently, the cost of construction has increased from the average of $6,000 each to $10,500.

At present there is but one obstacle, in the opinion of the North Side News, to the continued development of the Bronx—a development that is the constant wonderment of other cities—and that is expressed in the words of J. Clarence Davies, who voices the unanimous opinion of every real estate man and investor in the Bronx, who says:

"If the financial stringency and its relation to funds for real estate remains in the present condition for another year, the Bronx will be as congested in apartment housings as it was in 1904 and 1905, just before the big building campaign was started."

Where Taxes Are Payable.

The warrant for the collection of taxes having been delivered to Colonel David E. Austen, Receiver of Taxes, he gives official notice that all the taxes on said rolls are due and payable at the office of the Receiver of Taxes in the borough in which the property is located, as follows:

Borough of Manhattan, No. 57 Chambers st, Manhattan, N. Y.

Borough of the Bronx, corner of 3d and Tremont avs, the Bronx, N. Y.

Borough of Brooklyn, Rooms 2, 4, 6 and 8, Municipal Building, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Borough of Queens, corner of Jackson av and 5th st, Long Island City, N. Y.

Borough of Richmond, Borough Hall, St. George, Staten Island, N. Y.

In case of payment during October the person so paying shall be entitled to the benefits mentioned in section 915 of the Greater New York Charter (chapter 378, Laws of 1897), viz.: A deduction of interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum between the day of such payment and the 1st day of December next.

ALL BILLS PAID DURING OCTOBER MUST BE REBATED BEFORE CHECKS ARE DRAWN FOR PAYMENT.

When checks are mailed to the Receiver of Taxes they must be accompanied by addressed envelopes with postage prepaid in order to insure return of receipted bills by mail.

Checks dated October 7 should be mailed to the Receiver as soon as possible after bills have been received by the taxpayer.

Draw checks only to the order of the Receiver of Taxes.

A Quickening in Realty Near the "Junction."

Judging by the number of transactions concluded within the last few months in the neighborhood of Flatbush av extension, that section is about to develop into one of the most important business localities in Brooklyn. Until the work of tearing down the old buildings along the route of the extension commenced many overlooked the opportunities which the situation presents. Recently, though, it has dawned upon investors and others that realty in the immediate vicinity will be greatly benefited by the convergence at the junction of Flatbush av and Fulton st, of practically all the surface and elevated lines in the borough, not to speak of the Fourth av and Battery subway roads, which are to have stations nearby. Among the large institutions to locate near the extension may be mentioned the Dime Savings Bank and the Brooklyn Bank. The smaller transactions consist chiefly of long-term leases. Real estate brokers, who are familiar with downtown Brooklyn, predict that values in the zone of the extension will enhance at least twenty-five per cent. during the coming year.

Kitchen Decorations.

The most neglected room in most houses is the kitchen, yet it is the office of the average housewife and should be as pleasantly decorated as the purse will allow. It is an important department of household activities, and should be kept in a state of the greatest cleanliness at all times. It should be so treated that the walls will be unaffected by steam or water, and these walls in a properly treated kitchen should be as easily cleaned as the floor.

For these purposes sanitarily treated wall papers are in increasing demand. Fancy the joy of soul to the neat housewife whose kitchen and pantry walls are restored to their newly decorated freshness by the application of a damp cloth, while the sense that steam and cooking odors can leave no impression on such material is a pleasure to her tidy heart.

The least expensive materials for this work are the varnished tiles of domestic manufacture. The varnish coat already on these goods makes them steam and waterproof, except at the edges; but a strictly damp-proof job may be insured by the application of a coat of damar varnish to the entire wall after the paper is hung.

Next in point of expense come the imported varnished tiles. These are mostly made in set patterns of Dutch plaque and panel styles. The free-hand designs in floral and other effects come in English oil color wall papers, and are good to add a touch of home-like comfort to this room.—Painters' Magazine.

The fact that the agent of one of the parties to an exchange of lands divided commissions with the other party on the transaction does not show a conspiracy between them to obtain from the principal more money than the property was worth. This was held in MacKellar vs. Thompson, 119 App. Div. 36, 103 N. Y. S. (137 St. Rep.) 853.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

October 4, 5, 7, 8, 9 and 10.

McAdoo Terminal Building

IT SEEMS TO BE SETTLED that the space above the trolley terminal at Sixth Avenue and Thirty-third Street is to be improved with a huge hotel, and this decision will probably have an important effect upon the value of property in that vicinity. Probably the announcement that a department store was to be constructed on the property would have been more helpful to neighboring property owners; but a hotel is the next best thing to a department store. A great terminal such as that of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is sure to demand an abundant supply of hotel accommodations in its neighborhood, and such is all the more likely to be the case when the neighborhood is so central that in any event a hotel should be a profitable business enterprise. The owners of the Imperial and the Martinique have both been so well satisfied with the income of their original buildings that they have either built or else arranged to build large additions, and projects are already being broached for a number of similar improvements. The restaurant business of any good hotel in this neighborhood ought to be larger than that enjoyed by the hotels near the Grand Central Station, and they would be more convenient both for business men and pleasure seekers. All this is tolerably obvious, but the doubtful question concerns the effect of these terminals and hotels in the side streets nearby, and on Seventh Avenue. In the ordinary course of events the side streets between Twenty-third and Thirty-fourth, west of Sixth Avenue, would be improved with a cheaper grade of loft buildings. Buildings of this class are already being erected in the twenties, and there is every reason to suppose that Seventh Avenue would eventually be covered with a better grade of the same sort of structure. The completion of the terminals and the erection of several large hotels might, however, check this tendency by making the property more valuable for other purposes. Five years from now the number of people who sleep and eat in this neighborhood will be increased by thousands over what it is at present; and hundreds of thousands will enter or depart from the terminals every week. The presence of many additional money-spenders should make the neighborhood the best in New York for the retail trade, and it may well keep it alive as an amusement centre. There seems to be no good reason why Seventh Avenue should not become a possible site for theatres; and the same is true of the side streets. The only transit deficiency under which the neighborhood suffers is the lack of Subway connections; and that is certain to be remedied in a few years. When it is remedied the so-called Pennsylvania Terminal district will be more accessible to more people than any other neighborhood in the city.

New Subway Possibilities

THE CHAIRMAN OF THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION, Mr. Willcox, has issued a statement during the week in which he asserts that the work of the Commission has in certain respects been misunderstood. It has not been engaged merely in an investigation of the affairs of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company. It has also been devoting a suitable proportion of its time to the questions of new Subway routes; and the results of its deliberations on this very important matter would in the course of time be given to the public. All this is reassuring, but it is one of the misfortunes of the constitution of the Commission that its powers in this respect are very limited, and that it can accomplish nothing without the co-operation of the Mayor and the Board of Estimate. The most serious problems connected with the laying out of new Subways are financial, and these problems cannot be solved without the establishment of a working agreement between the Board of Estimate and the Commission. It is the business of the Commission, if possible, to lay out Subways which can be built, and the kind of Subways which can be built depends upon the corporation, public or private, which is to build them. The new Subways must be arranged, that is, either to connect with the existing Subway or to be independent of it. If they are to be connecting, the existing law must be changed, and the lease lengthened, so that the Interborough Company can obtain a security which would be a basis for a sufficient loan. On the other hand, an independent Subway would have to be built and perhaps operated by the city; and how is the city to finance such an undertaking? These are questions which, as we have pointed out, are more within the proper province of the Board of Estimate than they are within that of the Public Service Commission; and what the Record and Guide would like to see is some evidence that these two bodies are ready and able to reach an agreement, and that they will present a joint demand to the Legislature for any legislation which they may need. It may be that the importance of such an agreement is fully appreciated, and that informal steps have already been taken to that end, but if so, no traces thereof have been allowed to transpire. But as soon as any such steps are taken, news to that effect should be given to the press. Public opinion is profoundly interested in the question, and should be consulted early in respect to any policy which may be adopted. The sooner a definite policy is formulated and adopted, the better.

Street Railway Managers

IT IS STATED THAT THE group of financiers who controlled the Metropolitan Street Railway for so many years are to retire, and that the management of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company will remain in the hands of Mr. Belmont and his associates. Everybody interested either in the securities of the company or in the future improvement of its service must hope that such will be the case. Confidence in the good faith of the management of the corporation will never be restored so long as the men whose policy has wrecked this fine property remain identified with its control. Mr. Belmont may not be all that the responsible head of a great public service corporation should be; but at any rate he stands for sound financial methods, and his branch of the system is the solvent branch, from the earnings of which the whole property may in the end be rehabilitated. The earnings of the Interborough Company over and above the interest on its bonds already amount to several per cent. on the preferred stock of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company, and after the Brooklyn tunnel has been in operation for six months it is possible that the Interborough Company alone could pay the whole dividend to which the preferred stock is entitled. Such being the condition, the Interborough interest obviously ought to control the property. The only conceivable alternative would be the dissolution of the merger. The situation of the Interborough Company is so much stronger than that of the City Railway that again we cannot help expressing our wonder that the merger was ever consummated. If Mr. Belmont had persisted in fighting, he could have had absolutely his own way. The Metropolitan Company could not have afforded to build Subways and its whole programme of Subway construction was merely a big bluff—undertaken apparently for the purpose of unloading on the Interborough Company.

The Best Solution

THE EXPECTATION IS THAT the receivership of the New York City Railway Company will result in such a scaling down of its charges as to make it a solvent concern and possibly an efficient public servant; but is it not worth while to advance another and more promising expectation? Could not the City of New York use the existing opportunity to place its whole relations with the Interborough-Metropolitan Company on a new and a better basis? One of the great handicaps under which the transit system of New York suffers from the point of view of the public welfare, is the large number of perpetual franchises possessed by the several corporations composing the merger, and the extinction of these franchises would be worth a large sum of money to the city. On the other hand, the value of these franchises to the company will in the long run be very much diminished, unless it be enabled to extend and develop its system. Could not some arrangement be reached between the city and the corporation whereby the latter might obtain a long lease of the new Subway in return for the extinction of these perpetual franchises, and their renewal for a term say of seventy-five years? Such an arrangement would be to the advantage of both the public and private interests involved. It might seem foolish for a corporation to surrender a perpetual franchise without an immediate cash compensation, but if the managers of the company are wise they will see that the most remunerative payment they can get will be really valuable Subway concessions. They should also realize that in the long run the city will not submit to the burden imposed by these perpetual franchises, and that they will be forced to sell in one way or another. But if the city must buy in the long run, the sooner it buys the better, and it can better afford to pay in concessions than in cash. Such an arrangement is the most practicable way of unifying the transit systems of Manhattan and the Bronx, and of supplying the means for early and efficient development. It is wholly improbable that it will be reached, because neither of the parties to the possible agreement is likely to see its interest in the right light; but it would none the less constitute the best solution of the transit problem of the two western boroughs. In any event the city ought to take some advantage of the difficulties of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company. If it were ruled by President Diaz, he would probably find means to buy on behalf of the city a controlling interest in the corporation at the present bargain prices.

The Adams Estate

THE AUCTION SALE of certain remaining properties belonging to the Adams estate passed off successfully during the past week. The executors were well-advised in the terms which they offered to bidders. Seventy per cent. of the purchase money was allowed to remain on bond and mortgage at five per cent., and a purchaser could not have obtained terms so good as these just at present from financial institutions. The consequence was that the success of the sale was made independent of the existing demoralized condition of the money market, and this independence partly accounts for the excellent prices which were obtained. Several of the parcels were situated in the so-called Pennsylvania Terminal section, and the prices which they brought, while by no means excessive, indicates that there are purchasers for real estate in this neighborhood at the existing level of speculative values. Testimony to this effect was the best that could be expected at the present juncture. Such properties will have to be carried at a loss for several years in the expectation that after the terminal is completed values will have advanced sufficiently more than to reimburse the owner. The basis of the current prices is, consequently, entirely speculative, and these speculative values are the first to feel the effect of any lack of confidence. That there is no indication of a lack of confidence at a time when speculation itself is almost at a standstill is assuredly an encouraging sign.

—Announcement is made by the West Side Y. M. C. A. of the evening lecture course on Investments for the coming season. The first lecture course was given in the fall and winter of 1905 under the direction of Mr. John Moody, editor of Moody's Manual. It is conducted along the same lines as all of the other classes in the Y. M. C. A., the object being, not to make money, but to give those interested an opportunity to receive a thorough course of intelligent instruction at a minimum cost.

Electric Light and Power.

An Electrical Engineer Opposes the Views of a Builder

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I was much interested in the letter signed "Builder," in regard to the charges of the New York Edison Co. and other general service corporations for electric light and power. While I agree fully with the writer of this letter as to the unreasonableness of the rate to the small consumer, I do not think that "Builder" is right in assuming that the Central Station is the logical service for all buildings. This proposition has been brought up to me for the past ten years. There is no doubt that if the supply of electricity to buildings was the only thing to be supplied, the Central Station service would be the logical method of supplying such service, and an isolated plant would be an anomaly. This is not the case, however. The supply of electricity to a building is a very small proportion of the energy requirements, as it is this fact that makes the isolated plant the logical solution rather than Central Service for one factor only.

In the modern office building or hotel building, besides electricity for lighting and for power, there must be supplied steam for heating, hot water, perhaps refrigeration of cold water, or for refrigerators, vacuum sweeping for cleaning offices, and hydraulic pressure for operating hydraulic or plunger elevators. It is perhaps fortunate for the isolated plant that the maximum demand for heating comes in the same period of the year as the maximum demand for lighting and for electric power; hence, it becomes possible to get a double use out of labor and out of fuel during the winter months, as the steam derived from the coal is first used for running the electric engines and then for heating the building; and the labor required for looking after the boilers, pumps and elevator equipment is also available in a large measure for looking after the electrical plant.

I have just had occasion to make a number of comparisons between buildings with and without electrical plants and in a great many instances the amount of coal used during the heavy winter months is less where a plant is installed than where no plant is installed. I should, perhaps, correct this by saying the cost of the coal used, rather than the amount. This follows from the fact that with the isolated plant installed, with its requirement of a fireman looking after the fires continually during the summer and winter, it becomes economical to install some system of draft, allowing the burning of the low-grade fuels, such as the very small sizes of anthracite or coke screenings. By this means coal costing $2.50 or $3 a ton is made to perform the work with an efficiency almost equal to that of the larger sizes of anthracite costing from $4 a ton up. It is not feasible to introduce these methods into buildings where low-pressure plants only are used for heating.

If it were possible to install a Central Station plant which would supply both steam for heating, electricity for lighting, as well as steam for operating hydraulic elevator pumps, it might be possible to dispense with the isolated plant. Unfortunately, it is not feasible to transmit exhaust steam for heating long distances without excessive cost of piping and excessive condensation in mains. It might be possible to do this if hot water circulating systems were used, but this would mean the entire change of the heating systems of buildings, together with an expensive franchise and an entire remodeling of the Central Station system and plants which are now designed for operating condensing. The transmission of high-pressure steam to buildings, where it is used to operate isolated plants, is really more logical than the transmission of electricity; but in this case the saving, due to concentration of large boilers in one plant, and the use of very small low-grade fuel in such a plant, under forced draft, is more than counterbalanced by the taxes, repairs on the mains, and the rental value of the space occupied by the central plant. Such a central plant can compete successfully with small buildings, and it is for such service that the New York Steam Company is particularly fitted. But for large buildings the isolated plant, containing its own steam and electric and refrigerating and hydraulic equipments, is the logical solution of the problem. It would, of course, be more economical if such a plant could be designed to take care of a whole block; and where the whole block is owned by a single owner, this method, of course, is resorted to; but the saving is not sufficient, apparently, to make it worth while for two owners to consolidate their interests to supply all the requirements from a single plant.

I think, too, that "Builder" is mistaken in saying the cost of plants is such a large amount. He is probably including in his estimate the cost of the complete steam and electric and hydraulic equipments. Only a comparatively small part of this cost is chargeable to the isolated plant, that is, the cost of the engines, dynamos, part of the switchboard, part of the boiler plant, part of the high-pressure steam work, and part of the electrical connections between the dynamos and the

Conveyancing.

THE NEED OF A MORE EFFICIENT SYSTEM OF REGISTRATION.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

CONVEYANCING, to, lawyers, was until the present generation of practitioners an art; and to operators in the earlier days of realty dealing as a business, an important part of the transfers of titles.

The present-day conveyancing because of the several elements herein reviewed has become in many instances reduced to the simple matter of drawing a deed, executing, acknowledging and delivering it.

To some this view seems an extreme exaggeration, but the experience of many corroborates the fact that many contracts for the purchase and sale of real estate are at the present day being drawn by brokers, or the parties (laymen) themselves; that title examination and searching too frequently is done by inexperienced persons, and in many instances properties are being passed from one person to another without any examination of title whatever.

The situation under existing conditions is not one to cause worry for the lawyer, for nearly every time that a flaw in a title is thus allowed apparently to escape, it creates some future opportunity for a man trained in the art of conveyancing to straighten out the difficulty. Nor does the title company, which institution was organized to aid the layman and insure him against loss occasioned by negligent work of the attorney, or unavoidable error, solve the problem. That many titles to this time remain defective is not to be disputed. Still, in spite of this knowledge and the fact that sooner or later the defects will be discovered, and that the title companies raise the questions when discovered, so that defects may be cured, persons to a large number are taking title to property without having the same examined.

The condition is perhaps the result of the increase in the number of realty transactions which took place in the past few years, which made real estate almost a merchandising article, to be bought and sold as a commodity; and now that the times have quieted and the excitement of trading has subsided, the situation should and can be calmly reviewed, the things to be avoided discovered and pointed out, and likely something suggested or developed to reduce the chances of loss.

Without malice to the brokers, let it be stated right here: they are in no sense conveyancers, and should not undertake to do anything connected with the transfer of title. The broker does his full duty when he brings the contracting parties together; his business should cease there; the few dollars that he can save the parties by drawing the contract are very frequently the cause of great loss to one or the other of them later on, and the losing one always blames the kind broker who drew the agreement.

The contract of purchase and sale is the first step in conveyancing. Brokers have read and heard contracts read time and time again, have seen them revised and corrected until they feel that they can draw them as well as necessary; and to aid the parties many of them volunteer to and do make it a practice to draw the contract, and in this they are encouraged by the principals in many instances, because they are at the time satisfied and often friendly, and attach comparatively little importance to the contract; the object being, as they state, "that the buyer wants the property and the seller wants to deliver it; the buyer wants no more than the seller has and that the seller agrees to convey."

Then, too, we often hear that "we need not be so particular; this or that is all right. I know Mr. ———, the seller," or vice versa. But right there the parties make one of the greatest mistakes. The contract very often decides the question as to whether a title must be passed or rejected; one cannot be too careful about the description of the property which is to be conveyed, nor of the incumbrances thereon, nor of the covenants and restrictions connected therewith, nor the rights appurtenant thereto.

The description, though it vary only by inches, may give rise to much controversy and considerable litigation and loss. The failure to state the due date of a mortgage may cause very great loss to the purchaser, or an incorrect statement of a mortgage give an opportunity for rejection of a title, to the loss of the vendor; so with the improper description of covenants or restrictions affecting the property; and in numerous other ways is specific and accurate knowledge required, which experience has shown is not generally possessed by the broker. Therefore let the broker attend to his part of the transaction, and that only, and one of the existing dangers is removed.

Coming, then, to the examination of the title, it is well known that to reduce the loss from errors allowed to escape in the examination, several companies were formed in this city which insure the vendee on taking same against loss because of defects; it is also well known that the companies will not pass upon a close question and where insurance is most needed—that is, on a questionable title, none can be obtained; and frequently the expense of clearing a defect must be re-

Traffic Congestion in Madison Square.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I herewith enclose you a little sketch indicating what I regard to be a most important suggestion in regard to the control of street traffic on Broadway and 5th av, from 23d to 25th st.

As at present operated, all street traffic southbound on 5th av is turned into 25th st on to Broadway and compelled to follow along the westerly side of the double line of street railroad tracks as far south as 23d st. From 24th st to a point approximately 120 ft. south there is a margin between the curb and the car tracks not to exceed 12 ft., and the result is continued congestion and annoyance to street traffic as well as foot passengers.

In view of the announcement that the Fifth Avenue Hotel is shortly to be torn down and rebuilt, I suggest that the city purchase a strip approximately 25 ft. in width in order to widen the street area to a total distance of 25 ft. between the tracks and the street curb line. The black lines A-B and C-D indicate respectively curb line and building line. The purchase of sufficient ground to change these two lines to E-F and G-H would accomplish the purpose. This being done street traffic southbound on 5th av could readily be turned over to Broadway at 24th st and thus relieve the congestion between 25th and 24th sts, and very materially aid matters in giving sufficient room from 24th st south.

The city should at this early date take steps to procure by purchase or condemnation proceedings enough land to insure this being done. Your paper is the proper medium in which to set this before the authorities of the city.

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

French Building Materials.

Consul-General Frank H. Mason, of Paris, reports that the mortar or cement used in France in the construction of barns, outhouses, division walls between properties, storehouses, etc., varies in composition with the district in which it is made and used. He continues:

In the neighborhood of Paris such concrete is made by combining plaster, produced by pulverizing the native plaster rock peculiar to this district with river sand or gravel. This plaster, which costs $3.25 per cubic meter (35⅓ cubic feet) is mixed with coarse sand or gravel in the proportion of 200 kilos (440 pounds) to 1 cubic meter of sand for large thick walls which are wholly above ground in dry locations. When the wall is to be thin, the cement is strengthened by increasing the proportion of plaster-lime to 250 kilos (550 pounds).

Concrete of this kind can be used for substructures or foundations exposed to continuous dampness or action of water. For such foundations the mortar used is of ordinary quicklime and sand, strengthened, according to the humidity of location and weight of wall to be sustained, by the addition of hydraulic (Portland) cement, which is also known in France as "ciment de Boulogne," and costs in Paris $15 per 2,204 pounds. The best lime for mortar is known as "Chaux de Beffes," and comes from the Department of Cher. It costs in Paris $7.38 per metric ton.

These kinds of concrete or mortar are sometimes mixed by machinery, but usually the ingredients are combined in an open trough or bed with a hoe and used immediately afterwards.

The composition resembling concrete is known technically as "pise," and is little used in this district for the reason that one of its principal ingredients is the slag of blast furnaces or some volcanic scoria of similar nature, neither of which abound in the neighborhood of Paris. In districts where the volcanic scoria or blast-furnace slag are available it is pulverized and mixed with Portland (or Boulogne) cement in the proportion of 400 to 450 pounds of cement to a cubic meter of scoria. The usual method of mixing is combined with that of grinding or pulverizing the slag in a large circular trough around which travel two heavy stone disks driven by steam, water, or horse power. The cement and slag, after having been thoroughly ground and mixed, are withdrawn from the mill, mixed with water to the proper consistency, and used at once for the construction of barns, inclosing walls for fields and gardens, and even for ordinary dwellings in villages or the country.

In building division walls with this material a common method is to use a frame mold, consisting of two planks set vertically and held together by adjustable iron braces, which are lengthened or shortened by set-screws, the space between the two planks being the thickness of the wall. This frame is set upon the foundation, already prepared, and the mortar (pise) shoveled in and rammed down firmly. The frame is then loosened by the set-screws and raised to receive the next layer of concrete. Walls of this character, especially in buildings, usually receive an outer surface coating of plaster made of finer sand, lime and hydraulic cement.

Formerly stiff clay mixed with straw or tough wild grass was used in country districts for pise work in the cheapest class of construction, but such walls are available only in dry locations and soon disintegrate under the influence of continued moisture.

Another composition resembling concrete used in France, known as "beton," is thus described by Consul-General R. P. Skinner, of Marseille:

Lime beton has been in longer and more general use than cement concretes. It was a first-class material when made with ordinary quicklime, and since hydraulic lime has been used it is better. It is a cheaper composition than cement beton or concrete, easier to work, and if the initial load be not too great it is for nearly every purpose just as good. A good lime beton can be obtained by mixing mortar and stones, gravel, or cinders, mortar and good-sized stones making the best composition. Probably one-half of the houses in Marseille have been built of this material, and thousands of the older buildings, many hundred years old, are held together by ordinary lime. Walls built of quicklime beton must be laid up slowly, but with hydraulic lime beton they can be erected as fast as masons can work. The solidity of lime beton construction is shown by the sea walls and docks in Marseille, where masonry of this kind may be seen both above and below sea water, the most difficult test to which building material can be subjected.

The lime is weighed out to the cubic unit of sand and the two dry mixed. Water is added slowly with a sprinkler and the plastic consistency tested by forming a ball with the hand, which should exude a slight moisture, and being laid aside should neither flatten nor crack open. A mortar of 500 kilos (1,102 pounds) of lime to 1 cubic meter (1.308 cubic yards) of sand, mixed and beaten dry, has more resistance than an equal quantity of pure lime. A house-building mortar contains from 440 to 551 pounds of lime per cubic meter (1.308 cubic yards) of sand. This is sufficient also for small arches and viaducts. For tunnels, foundations and viaducts of considerable height the proportion of lime is increased by 110 pounds, while for important arches and dams subjected to pressure the amount of lime per unit of sand is from 661 to 771 pounds.

Stones or other cheap material are mixed with the mortar, thus constituting the beton. Cinders, coke and furnace slag may be substituted for stones in ordinary house and wall work. If broken stone is used, the pieces are from 0.78 to 2.36 inches in length. The proportions are usually two parts of stone for one of mortar for work under water; in open-air work the proportion of stone may be increased.

For open-air work a coffer or mold is built, into which the beton is poured, in horizontal layers from 8 to 12 inches thick, and then rammed. A layer of beton cannot be distributed above another which has already set until its surface has been picked and washed and finally given a coat of cement and water of the consistency of cream.

In both France and Germany a light-weight beton is made of cinders. Buildings several stories in height can be erected of this cinder beton, which can be laid as in the other cases cited or treated like armed cement. One-story structures require no anchorage bars. Several very large factories have been built at Lyon of this beton. Sometimes the cinders are worked into blocks and laid up like cut stone. In all cases the cinders must be screened, and then mixed at the rate of 1 cubic yard of cinders to one-half cubic yard of hydraulic mortar composed of 440 pounds of hydraulic lime to 35 cubic feet of sand, or the lime can be replaced by 330 pounds of Portland cement. The proportion of mortar can be shaded slightly if the materials are good.

The striking economies effected in France are obtained by the free use of cheap local material, whatever it may be, and by the equally free use of lime where cement probably would be used in the United States. If the work be carefully plannd and performed, hardly more lime is needed than if cement were used, and whereas a good Portland cement now costs from $10.22 to $10.60 per ton in Marseille, an equally good hydraulic lime costs but $6.35 per ton. In the rural districts the peasants use any kind of lime, and they build houses which last hundreds of years.

Buildings constructed with beton can be completed by a coating of lime or cement mortar, which, being laid on and lined, gives a finish that loses little by comparison with cut stone and effectually prevents the absorption of moisture.

Consul Alphonse Gaulin, of Havre, states that among the different compositions used in that part of France in the construction of the cheaper class of buildings is one resembling concrete, technically known as "agglomeres de machefer." He describes it as follows:

It is a mixture of slag, cement and lime, slag being the chief ingredient. It is is claimed that to obtain satisfactory results the slag selected should contain the smallest possible amount of cinders and coal. It should first be crushed or sifted and then mixed with the cement and lime. Water is added to complete the mixture, which is afterwards placed in special molds and subjected to heavy pressure. "Machefer" blocks of various sizes are made out of these molds, the largest being about 8 inches high, 20 inches long, and 10 inches wide, and the most common size measuring 2¼ inches high, 9 inches long and 4¼ inches wide. The slag from which the smaller blocks are made is crushed much finer than that which forms the larger blocks. While machefer is not used extensively in the cities, its use is becoming general in the rural districts, as it is quite durable and unquestionably the cheapest building composition to be found in this region.

Twin Evils—The Blacklist and the Boycott.

President James W. Van Cleave, of the National Association of Manufacturers, makes an authoritative denial of the accusation that the employers' associations of the country are collecting a fund for the suppression of the labor unions.

In an address delivered at Battle Creek, Mich., October 8, he said that the charge that the federation which has just been created by the employers and citizens' organizations has been organized to crush labor unions is an absurd accusation and that nothing could be further from the purpose of the thoughts of the federation.

Mr. Van Cleave also denounced both the boycott and the blacklist in these words: "When I condemn the boycott I condemn it in all its forms and ramifications, including the blacklist, which is only a boycott in another form. When used by labor unions to hurt employers or by employers' associations to hurt workers, the boycott and blacklist are un-American, immoral and vicious and have no place in a country like ours.

"I want to put myself on record by saying that in my life-long experience as an employer and in many years of experience as member and officer of employers' associations, I have never been connected with a concern or an organization employing the blacklist, and I want to put myself on record further in saying that I would not be a member or officer of a corporation or of an organization that employs the blacklist at any time in the future.

"Speaking particularly of the National Association of Manufacturers, which I have the honor to represent as president, I speak for every member of this great organization when I condemn the blacklist not only as much but even more so than the boycott."

of the main room being in French oak with the decorations in bronze, fire gilded. The electric fixtures are also in the period and were designed and made in Paris. A new departure in the way of showcases, at least as far as this country is concerned, has been adopted.

These cases are made of rosewood and ormolu bronze, and are designed for the comfort of the purchaser rather than for the display of goods. The room in the rear of the main store is done in the same period in gray tone with trimmings of bronze, fire gilded. The interior of both rooms were executed by Nelson, of Paris, and put up by Marcotte & Co., of this city.

There is a suite of two rooms, which face on the side street, which will be occupied as an office and private salesroom. The top floor will be the workshop for the jewelry firm. The other floors in the building will be occupied by J. H. Bache & Co. and Eugene Glaenzer. Messrs. Warren and Wetmore are the architects. Mr. Dreicer is also the owner of Nos. 436 and 438 5th av, on the southwest corner of 39th st.

Building Operations for September.

Official building reports from 55 leading cities received by the American Contractor show that building operations continue decidedly active, with the exception of New York City, where there is a notable shrinkage, amounting to seven million dollars, or 40 per cent., as compared with September of 1906. Leaving out New York City, there is a slight gain in the aggregate.

This shows local causes for both gains and losses, and indicates an altogether healthful condition. The loss in New York is but a continuance of conditions that have prevailed here for many months. Chicago, where more liberal financial conditions prevail with respect to real estate loans, shows a gain of 20 per cent. One of the most notable gains is reported from Baltimore, amounting to 63 per cent.

New Wharf of Concrete and Steel.

The United Fruit Company of 17 Battery pl, New York, has obtained privileges from the Panama government for the erection of a large concrete and steel wharf and warehouse at a point known as Almirante, a few miles by water from Bocas del Toro, which is near Colon; also the right to build and operate a railroad from Almirante to the Banana River, and thence to connect with the company's railroads in the Changuinola district, where they have extensive banana plantations. This line of railroad from Almirante to Changuinola is about 13 miles in length and will be completed about Feburary, 1908. From Changuinola the railroad crosses the Sixiola River and enters the new banana country of Sixiola, from whence the fruit will go to the wharf at Almirante, where it is expected that one steamer a day will be loaded.

According to a report from the American Consul at Colon, the United Fruit Company has a contract with the Panama government for the filling in of the town of Bocas del Toro, the raising of the houses to the required grade, the installation of a sewer system, and the building of a sea wall. The sea wall and the sewer system have already been completed. The work of filling in the town is now progressing rapidly and will soon be finished. The contract calls for a number of new streets, avenues, gutters, sidewalks, etc. After Bocas del Toro has had these improvements completed, together with the sanitary cleaning now progressing under the direction of the American sanitary authorities of the canal zone, it will be one of the healthiest towns on the coast. Even now it is healthy.

switchboard. The rest of the cost would be incurred whether the isolated plant were installed or not.

The cost of such a plant, that is, the part of the cost due to the installation of the plant, will be between 1½ cent to 2 cents per cubic foot, or probably less than 5% of the cost of the building. In fact, in large buildings the cost may run as low as 3% of the cost of the building. The cost of the plant is, therefore, not a very great feature in the total cost; and the presence of a plant operates in many ways toward the improvement of the service. It will be found by investigation that the great majority of accidents to elevators occur in buildings where there is no isolated plant, that is, where there is no high-class chief engineer and force of mechanics to watch the operation of the machinery. In low-pressure plants for heating only, where there are also electric elevators in operation, the care of these elevators is left to some unskilled mechanic, and repairs are only attended to when they are called for by the insurance companies. Accidents are frequent in such places, and they would be still more frequent in high office buildings if there were not present a skilled force of mechanics and a trained licensed chief engineer, capable of watching the operation of the plant and elevators, and attending to repairs without waiting until the defects become dangerous. The presence of a plant also makes it possible to have heat at all times, winter or summer, as exhaust steam is always available, and it also makes possible a much more liberal use of light without excessive cost.

As regards the rates of the New York Edison and allied companies, I agree with the writer of the letter that the rates to private consumers and small consumers in general are exorbitant. There can be no possible excuse for a discrimination in rates of 300% and more between the rates to small shop people and the rates to large shop people. Nothing in the history of freight discrimination approaches such a discrimination in rates, and I have the earnest hope that the Public Service Commission will take this matter up and insist that the rate charged to the man who has a small store, 10 ft. or 20 ft.x100, shall not be three times the rate charged to the owner of a large store like McCreery's or Simpson & Crawford's. If the street service companies were not public service corporations there would perhaps be a justification for a slight discrimination in rates, due to the extra cost of billing and metering small consumers, as compared with large consumers. But it is an established fact in law, I believe, that a company entering upon a public service of this character, with an exclusive franchise grant, must treat all its consumers alike. But even if the principle is granted that a certain discrimination is proper between a large and a small consumer, this discrimination should be confined to the difference in cost of producing and delivering the current to the large and to the small consumer, and this could not be more than 15% or 20%. If a 3-cent rate is a fair rate to a large storeowner, the rate to the small storeowner should not exceed 3½ cents. This matter of rates is of great importance to every owner of property, and is one, I think, meriting the attention of the Real Estate Board of Brokers and other real estate bodies.

A Cornish House and Garden.

The town of Cornish, on the New Hampshire side of the Connecticut River Valley, has a reputation of its own for its houses and gardens. In this neighborhood are almost a score of country places which have been designed with some regard for the consistency and the propriety of their total effect. The houses, with their approaches and gardens, have all formed part of a lay-out which has been carefully planned in advance, and which was supposed to take account of all the conditions relevant to the convenience of their inhabitants and the effectiveness of their appearance. If there has been any failure on the part of these people to bestow upon their places the final grace of complete propriety, that failure has been due more often to the lack of means rather than to lack of ability or will. For the country places in Cornish are not large and the people are not rich. In order to obtain the desired completeness of effect, they have frequently been obliged to build of wood, where they would have preferred to build of some more enduring material, and in many cases essential parts of the completed design have been omitted, merely because the owner could not afford to supply the omission. The house and garden situated in Cornish, which is illustrated herewith, is distinguished in these respects from many of its neighbors. The architectural design has been more completely carried out than has been the case with many other places in the vicinity; and it has been carried out in more permanent materials. And it obtains from this comparative completeness and substantiality of execution, a manifest increase of architectural dignity.

Railway Extension.

To say "railway building in the United States is at an end," as James J. Hill is reported to have said, or even that "there will not be much more railroad building in this country so long as the attitude of the public remains as it is today," as E. P. Ripley remarked, is to put the argument too strongly. That existing political and financial conditions are seriously impeding the promotion of new railway enterprises and may tend to discourage investment in the securities of new companies for the future is undeniable, in the opinion of the Journal of Finance. Innumerable branches and extensions which existing companies would be inclined to construct if conditions were favorable will remain unbuilt, and hundreds of communities which are clamoring for more railways or for a single connection with the outside world will have to put up their own money and build their own little roads, or wait until railway builders and investors can see some encouragement. But while this is true, it is some comfort to remember that a large amount of preliminary construction work was done last year, and this must and will be completed, even under adverse conditions. In March, 1906, The Railway Age enumerated new lines aggregating over 13,000 miles which then were under contract. About half of this mileage was completed in that year, but 7,000 miles or so were left over. Many of these commenced or projected enterprises now are meeting adverse conditions in the stock and bond market, but many other projects were so carefully financed and are so greatly needed that they will be pushed forward, and 1907 and 1908 will witness the addition of several thousand miles of railway track.

Points on the Material Market.

Eighty barge loads of Hudson River brick were taken in this market last week, representing an immense amount of brick building. Yet prices are falling.

At the present writing the cement situation is rather complex. It is generally known that only the best-equipped mills can make a small profit at current prices, even if they can do that, and a great many are losing money daily. It is generally believed that the market will "steady" by next spring, and prices be on a more reasonable basis to show a fair profit for the tremendous investment involved. Mr. W. P. Corbett, of the Alsen Portland Cement Co., 45 Broadway, says that some mills, without very well established reputations and without the very best equipments, seem to believe that they can sell cement at any price to get orders, and that their stockholders can stand the loss, and we presume they will have to learn the same bitter lesson that they had before. "Prices are too low, but how long they may continue is a question that no one of good judgment would be willing to attempt to forecast."

New Catalogues.

ORNAMENTAL IRON AND BRONZE.—The Flour City Ornamental Iron Works have issued a handsome booklet—not a catalogue—illustrating styles of work, such as gates, stairs, railings, elevator enclosures, grills, marquises, entrance porches and lamp stands. The company's home address is Minneapolis, Minn.

MORRIS METALLIC PACKING.—The H. W. Johns-Manville Co., 100 William st, issues a special catalogue in the interests of Morris Metallic Packing, of which this company is selling agent. The packing is suited for Corliss valve stems and all piston rods.

The New Electric Lamp Filament.

A good deal of attention has been attracted during the past few months by a new type of filament for incandescent electric lamps, which is the joint invention of Prof. Herschel C. Parker, of Columbia University, and Mr. Walter G. Clark. This is known as the "Helion" filament, and is the result of several years of experiment carried on by these two gentlemen, at first independently and later jointly.

In a recent issue of the Electrical Review, Mr. Clark gives an account of the experiments leading up to the invention, and of some of the main characteristics of the invention itself.

The Helion filament is a composite filament in which the base used is a very small carbon filament. It is possible for us to use other bases, but the carbon seems best suited to the requirements. Under the method by which we now make the filament, the small carbon base is mounted in a treating jar very similar to the one ordinarily used in treating or flashing the carbon filament. In this treating flask, a compound containing silicon is deposited upon the filament. For this purpose, we have developed apparatus which is very nearly as automatic as the method used in flashing the carbon filament. The material deposited is, apparently, at first carried into the carbon, but as the process is carried further, the filament takes on a surface deposit. As soon as this occurs, the emissivity increases very greatly and the color of the light changes from the characteristic color of a carbon filament to a much whiter light and this with practically no change in temperature.

The filament is built up with this deposit until the desired resistance is reached when the current is cut off. The filament is then ready to be mounted in the ordinary glassware used for a carbon filament. This resistance of the Helion filament is sufficiently high, so that we are able to utilize 110 volts in a single corrugated loop. That this filament exhibits the desirable characteristics above enumerated for both carbon and metallic filaments is evidenced by the fact that the filament has sufficient mechanical strength, so that it is practically impossible to break it without breaking the glass enclosing the lamp. The filament may be burned in any position and in some recent tests a temperature of 3,300 degrees centigrade was reached before the filament showed any very decided tendency to sag or soften. * * *

Another feature possessed by the lamp is that the decrease in candle-power appears to be very slight so that our experience at the present time indicates that the lamp would operate up to a point where the filament parts, with a reduction in efficiency of less than five per cent.

The filament, on account of its positive temperature coefficient when incandescent, withstands an overload remarkably well and an excessive voltage usually destroys the leading-in wires or the glass in the stem of the lamp without destroying the filament. * *

We have experienced considerable difficulty in producing a cement which would form a joint between the filament and the leading-in wire, as the ordinary carbon cement give us a carbonaceous gas which is detrimental to the filament and reduces its life, but we have now produced a cement which appears to fulfil the requirements.

The filament possesses another advantage over the metallic filament in that it can be manufactured in a factory equipped for making the ordinary carbon filaments with but very slight change in the equipment, and on account of the increased proportion of blue rays in the light emitted by the Helion filament, that light approaches more nearly to direct sunlight than any other lamps with which they have been able to compare it.

Product and Appliance.

Metal Ceilings.

In a building specially constructed, the interior is so arranged as to best display the output of its fabrics. The Berger Manufacturing Company invites inspection of the Berger Building, 11th avenue and 22d street, by people interested in metal building materials, steel office furniture and fixtures. The ceilings and walls of the several offices as well as the stairway leading up to them, are used to display in a convincing manner the practicability and attractiveness of Berger's "Classik" metal ceilings and wall coverings.

From the moment that the visitor enters the door to the stairway leading up to the Berger offices, until he leaves the building, he is pleasantly attracted and surprised by the different artistic patterns, colorings and schemes that are made possible by this new ornamental art.

Some of the offices are made to show decoration schemes which may be utilized in private dwellings—for its hallway, bathroom, living-room, library or kitchen. For the bathroom, the Berger Company displays an imitation tile wainscot which, when properly adjusted and decorated, compares favorably with the original article. The different ceiling schemes and patterns are all artistic and very effective.

There is no apartment in the private dwelling where metal ceiling and metal wall covering cannot be used with good effect. For the bedroom or living-room there is shown a remarkably striking scheme in white and gold for bath ceiling and walls. It not only looks good to the eye, but for hard service it is claimed to rank far ahead of either plaster or wood.

For the offices of the Berger Company, steel is the prevailing material used, not only for the wall and ceiling coverings, but also for the partitions, desks and the several filing devices, all of which are manufactured by the company.

The factories of the Berger Company, at Canton, O., have accomplished wonders in destroying the prejudices against metal ceilings of former days. Then the ambition of the manufacturers appeared to be satisfied with the covering up of space, regardless of the possibilities of artistic harmony, mechanical construction and unity of design. But to-day this is all changed, and to the Berger Company must be given the credit for placing metal ceilings on a high plane of metal art.

On walking from the front to the rear offices of the Berger Company, the visitor passes through an arched passageway which serves as a vehicle for showing in a small way the possibilities of Berger's decorative sheet-metal work and exemplifies the possibilities in the way of decoration on proscenium arches, stage fronts, opera boxes and balcony fronts.

The easy application of this material over old or new work commends it for use in old buildings as well as new structures, and aside from the decorative features that can be produced, it costs less and is lighter in weight than it is possible to make plastic or stucco.

Berger's "Classik" steel ceiling is made in hundreds of designs; the quality of material, artistic effect and construction represent the best that skill can produce. The lines made by the Berger Manufacturing Company include embossed metal ceilings, metal office furniture and fixtures, lanterns, steel pumps (lever), metal lath and studding, fireproofing system, metal shingles, cornices, metal Spanish tile, ferrolithic plaster, multiplex steel plates, corrugated sheets, eaves troughs, wire hangers, steel hangers, shanks and circles, miters, conductor-pipes, elbows and shoes, conductor-hooks, cut-offs, strainers, sidewalk lights, steel roofing, steel siding, stove-pipe sheets, blued and polished sheets, continuous steel roofing, ventilators, skylights, metal window frames, finials and crestings and ridge rolls. The Berger Company claims to be the largest sheet-metal manufacturer in the world.

WOOD VULCANIZATION.

Real estate men, contractors and builders are becoming interested in the Howard process of wood vulcanization, which they think will be of the greatest value to the extensive building operations in and about New York. Many inquiries have been received as to what this process consists of.

The Howard process was patented years ago, but never was pushed until recently because lumber at that time was cheap. Plants are now going up all over the South and one in this city to cheapen the first cost of lumber and prolong its life. All kinds of lumber and wood are treated by heat in a vacuum so that the green log can be turned into trim, guaranteed against checking, warping, shrinking or swelling, after 24 hours of heat. The trouble builders now have with trim that is sold for "seasoned" is well known. Very little of the trim put in can stand the first steam heat of fall without "pulling away" from the walls. The result is unsightly cracks and impatient tenants.

The Palermo, Nos. 125-7-9 East 57th st, is finished in Southern swamp gum—the wood of 50 per cent. moisture—which was put in 18 years ago, being made into trim in 48 hours after being sawed from the green log. The Howard process treated it so successfully that there is not a pin crack to be found in the beautiful cabinet work. This gum soon will be in great demand by trim men, for it has no grain and can be highly polished. It can be bought for much less than cypress, hard pine, oak and ash, and is prettier than any of those woods.

As is well known, lumber, trim, shingles, sashes and doors are stored in enormous quantities for the building now going on. It is said that there are $200,000,000 worth of lumber now stored in this country in the process of seasoning. The interest on this investment, insurance, storage charges, etc., amounts to nearly $20,000,000 a year.

THE AUSTRAL WINDOW.

Since the first appearance of the Austral window in this country substantial improvements in the fixtures have been made which simplify the construction and facilitate the installation of the windows. While the window fixtures were simple at the start, still the operation of the window has been considerably improved. This year a number of prominent buildings have been equipped with these windows, notably the Evening Post building. Wherever installed the windows are said to be most satisfactory—for offices, factories, schools, libraries and dwellings. McKim, Mead & White have specified these windows for two new library buildings.

Mr. Kelsey on the Money Situation.

President Kelsey of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company believes that capital for building and real estate operations will be in better supply in a few months. Speaking through the Herald of the mortgage companies that are putting the rate up to 6 per cent., in an effort to make the investment attractive to the lender, Mr. Kelsey said he thought a better policy would be to wait until conditions change.

"If there is the recession in the general mercantile and manufacturing business which is expected, and which a good many people believe they now see, there is certain to be an accumulation of money in the conservative investment market and mortgage rates should go down. I believe that we shall see this change soon after the turn of the year, probably by February."

is a subject of much solicitude on the part of architects, engineers and owners. Many give up the idea of building until spring on account of the extra cost of winter work by most of the building methods now pursued.

System M (Patents Pending). Showing the Skeleton Frame Ready for the Roof Tier.

Reinforced concrete constructions have been erroneously pronounced "out of the question," and passed by for the winter job in spite of their recognized economy.

But here comes a system to the front, which, although an economical reinforced concrete construction, is entirely available for winter building.

In System M of the Standard Concrete Steel Company the backbone and entire skeleton of the building is an independent steel frame fully capable of sustaining all the structural loads and carrying them in spite of the omission of or freezing and thawing of the concrete work. Unlike all other concrete constructions, the work can be carried up several stories ahead of the floor slabs, and when necessary the roof put on the building before the floors are installed, thus insuring protection from storms that would stop the work in other methods of procedure.

The accompanying photograph shows a building which was built under these conditions, and with several others was successfully finished in the most severe winter weather known in New York.

Increased Building in 34th Street Section.

THAT the Pennsylvania-McAdoo stations are exerting a marked influence on building in the Greeley square and 34th st sections is more in evidence each day as the work of constructing the terminals advances. At this moment it is safe to venture the statement that in no other neighborhood of Manhattan does building as a speculation or investment offer greater attractions. Investors and operators have gradually been acquiring plots in that locality with the view of improving them with modern loft and office structures. A number of the sites have already been built upon, and the known results from income alone, even at this early date, have been sufficiently attractive to warrant the undertaking of larger operations. Not only are the terminal improvements largely responsible for this quickening, but the northward incursion of business concerns from the lower part of Manhattan is exerting an important part as well in the rehabilitation of the 34th st section.

Until within a few years it was with difficulty that realty interests could be induced to identify themselves in the construction of office buildings in the locality mentioned, but the urgent need of such structures, brought about by the rapid change in conditions, has reversed the old order of things; for not only may many new buildings of that character be seen in 34th st and on Fifth av, but structures of a similar type and of no mean proportions are also being erected in some of the less prominent streets nearby to satisfy the increasing demand in this direction. Nor is the easterly limit of the present activity to end at the dividing main thoroughfare, as already several operations are under way between Fifth and Madison avs, which marks the inevitable invasion of that quarter by office and mercantile structures.

Beginning with the completed improvements nearest the entrance to the mammoth terminals, one of the most prominent is the 16-sty Marbridge building at the northeast cor of 6th av and 34th st, owned by W. R. H. Martin. It occupies the former site of the Broadway Tabernacle. Further toward the east and on the northerly side of 34th st, among others, is the Monolith, which is also used for office purposes, and may be said to be one of the first concrete structures of that class in Manhattan.

Based upon the supposition that the opening of the Pennsylvania and McAdoo stations is likely to result in an extended increase in the movement of transient traffic through 32d and 33d sts, a number of plots in these thoroughfares have been improved with both loft and office buildings, equally as large and in some instances more imposing than those in 34th st. Typical of the high class of improvement now being carried out in that neighborhood is the new 11-sty Jaeckel building being erected at 16 to 20 West 32d st by the Thirty-second Street Building Company, in which M. & L. Hess are chiefly interested. The operation mentioned will involve a sum closely approaching $700,000, about equally divided between ground and building. One of the features in this structure will be the large cold storage rooms which will occupy more than half of the basement. Among the new operations projected in that zone mention should be made as well of the 20-sty Hudson and Manhattan building which will shortly be erected on the McAdoo terminal site, 6th av, 32d to 33d sts; the proposed improvement of the southeast cor of Broadway and 33d st with a 20-sty hotel by Geo. B. Wilson of Philadelphia, the estimated cost of which is $2,000,000; the 16-sty addition to the Hotel Martinque at 1266-1268 Broadway, and 54-56 West 33d st, the probable cost of which will equal $800,000, and a score of smaller loft and business buildings, work upon which is soon to be commenced. Although the demand for new mercantile structures in that quarter west of Broadway has as yet failed to seriously occupy the attention of builders, it is believed that as the work on the terminals assumes more definite form, activity in new undertakings will be influenced in proportion. In the meantime, realty interests are content to await developments.

New Hope for an East Side Subway.

MUCH has been said of late about future subway construction with some adverse criticism to the new Fourth av subway in Brooklyn. The fault that has been found with this project is not so much that Fourth av should have a subway, but that other sections of Greater New York are more in need of additional transit facilities. When the Fourth av resolution was adopted last week, Commissioner Eustis voted in favor of it, but it is now unofficially reported that he did so with the understanding that the commission would, as soon as practical, take up the matter of the route which goes through the East Side of Manhattan, to the north limit of the Bronx. Mr. Eustis had the situation well in hand, as his was the deciding vote. Had he voted against it, the Fourth av subway would have been killed for the present. It is also said in this connection that there are financial means which make the building of a new subway possible.

—A test cast in the matter of licensing engineers for apartment houses is going to be instituted by the House and Real Estate Owners' Association. An owner was recently arrested for not employing a licensed engineer, and the attorney of the Association appeared on his behalf and had him released.

The Week.

SEVERAL sales of considerable importance were put through during the week which show a demand for property of the better class. One was a large dwelling in West 51st st, which brought about $300,000; a large apartment house on Cathedral Parkway was sold for approximately $400,000, and a plot in 43d st, running through to 42d st, commanded about $325,000. A number of medium-price private dwellings and apartment houses changed hands, and a better feeling prevailed in the offices of the real estate men.

Undoubtedly the number of private transfers would have been increased had it not been for the auction sales. Some of the holdings of the Adams estate were sold and brought more than was expected, and the offerings in the Garrison Heights sale had a decided effect on the local market.

The mortgage money market is still the black cloud hanging over the market. It is not reasonable to suppose that confidence will be renewed, or that people will be willing to risk money in any form of investment so long as such scandalous disclosures as are brought out almost daily through investigations and stock manipulations continue. Some of the mortgage companies are trying to make this form of investment attractive by putting up the rates, but there is a disinclination on the part of the investor to lend on any terms. There is a better feeling prevailing among the class of men who make this feature of the market a study, and it has been predicted by several that before spring there will be substantial betterment of prices, and then probably there will be some regrets that the opportunity to invest at the current rates of interest was not accepted. Probably the best argument that can be made for the real estate market appears at times like these, when "Wall street" is upset, every one trying to get the better of his neighbor, and the slogan of "dog eat dog" rather than "live and let live" is heard.

The Republic of Panama lent $120,000 in the Bronx in addition to the amount loaned last week, on a mortgage of $114,000 on some 145th st property. Two mortgages were recorded against the Stuyvesant Theatre Co., one for $325,000, and the second for $135,000, at 6%. A savings bank mortgage was placed on an apartment house on the upper west side for $200,000, at 5%. There was a slight increase in the real estate exchanges in the Harlem district.

The total number of private sales reported for the week is 61, of which 19 were below 59th st, 22 above and 20 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THE marked increase in the attendance at the auction sales this week was due to the variety and character of the offerings. Included in the list was that of 193 vacant lots at Garrison Heights, in the Bronx, and a number of well-situated parcels representing the holdings of the "Al" Adams estate. The results of both sales emphasize the fact that in spite of the sluggish market and the continued unfavorable financial situation there is still a strong demand for well-situated real estate. Scattered through the large gathering on Wednesday were many prominent operators and investors, and if any among those present attended the Adams sale under the impression of securing bargains they were doomed to disappointment.

On Tuesday, Bryan L. Kennelly sold in foreclosure a 3-sty frame dwelling on the north side of 203d st, 350 ft. east of Marion av, 25x127, to Sebastiano Mardillo and others for $3,750. Also a 3-sty frame tenement, 25x100, on the north side of 203d st, 475 ft. east of Marion av, at a similar sale, to Chas. F. Muxall for $5,150.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day, 184 vacant lots at Garrison Heights, Bronx, were sold. The owner of the property was the Empire Development Co. The tract is bounded by Spofford and Randall avs, Tiffany and Manida sts at the easterly end of Longwood av, and midway between Casanova and Hunt's Point station on the Harlem branch of the New Haven road. Nine lots out of the number originally advertised were not offered, due to some question of title. For the remaining 184 lots $201,800 was realized. A plot of 4 lots at the southeast cor of Tiffany st and Spofford av, opposite Garrison square, brought $9,100. Lots in Tiffany st brought prices ranging from $800 to $1,500 each. In Casanova st prices averaged about $800 for lots on the west side of the way, and $1,000 was secured for those opposite. The northeast cor of Tiffany st and Randall av, 25x100, brought $1,800. Other corners on that avenue brought from $1,150 to $1,400 each, while inside lots fetched from $900 to $1,000.

On Wednesday, Mr. Kennelly succeeded in realizing a total of $515,000 for ten parcels owned by the "Al" Adams estate. This is considered remarkable at a time when money conditions are so unsettled. Moreover, the results exceeded by $35,000 the total sum figured on by the estate's appraisers. Most of the parcels are situated in the Pennsylvania terminal zone and possess unusual attractions as a speculative investment. The terms of sale were liberal, but strange to relate, did not attract the professional element. The prices obtained compared well with the results of previous auction sales in the terminal district, but no new records were established. Throughout the sale Mr. Kennelly commanded the closest attention, and it may be said that the sale was skillfully and expeditiously handled. No. 54 West 31st st, 20x63, a 3-sty business building with stores, was knocked down to Dr. O. L. Jones for $69,000. A parcel at 375 7th av, 21x75, a 3-sty tenement with stores, brought $60,000. The purchaser in this instance was Dr. Augustin A. Wolfe. No. 107 West 45th st, a 3-sty dwelling, 20x100.5, was acquired by Robert Taggart, Jr., owner of the adjoining corner, for $39,750. The Surety Realty Co. purchased Nos. 208-210 West 30th st, 3 and 4-sty front and rear tenements, 46x98.9, for $50,750. Over in West 35th st, a small frame store, 20x34, at No. 407, brought $7,250, the successful bidder being M. M. Kimball. The property Nos. 539-541 8th av, consisting of a 6-sty loft building, 28x100, elicited sharp bidding, but was finally knocked down to Wm. S. Lalor for Wm. Kirkham at $160,000, considered a good price. A 6-sty warehouse at 307 West 37th st, 25x98.9, was struck off to Mrs. Mary McGovern for $52,250, as well as a 4-sty flat, 21.3x43.6, with store, at 161 2d av, for which she paid $36,500. Another parcel at 1138 Manhattan av, southeast cor of Box st, Brooklyn, 3-sty front and rear buildings, 25x100, was knocked down at $16,000 to Joseph Newman, and the property known as 19½-23 Borden av, Long Island City, 1-sty frame buildings, 44x180, running through to West 3d st, was secured by Geo W. Lahey for $26,000.

At Mr. Day's stand among other parcels sold was a vacant lot, 25.3x100, foreclosure sale, which was knocked down to Nathan Marks for $20,810. On Thursday he succeeded in disposing of 172 East End av, a 5-sty double flat, 25x96, to Herman Schmonsees for the round sum of $25,500. The remaining parcels, including No. 7 West 14th st, a 5-sty brk leasehold, 25x103.3, were bid in by the plaintiffs. Taken as a whole, the week's auction business has been excellent, and its effect will doubtless go far toward creating a much better feeling than has prevailed for many months.

The United R. E. Owners' Association.

The United Real State Owners' Association will give a reception and entertainment at the Harlem Casino on the 7th of January next. The arrangements are in charge of a committee, consisting of the president of the organization, James L. Conway; the financial secretary, Dr. Abraham Korn; P. M. Clear, Charles H. Schnelle and Frank Demuth, president of the West Side Taxpayers' Association. The election of officers will take place at the next meeting, to be held November 12.

peated each time that a title is closed, an affidavit or a release or what not obtained for one party must be again obtained when the same property is again sold. And finally to what does the whole matter of the defective title resolve itself? A considerable sum of money is spent for purpose of discovering that a title is defective, and then the owner either has to pay for the examination, or litigation ensues. What is needed is a system by virtue of which these pitfalls and risks are avoided.

But worse than the improperly drawn contract or the negligently examined title is the danger which arises from the transfer of titles without any contract, and without any examination of title—conveyances on faith, as they may be termed, and these are becoming surprisingly common—by which a person pays for a piece of property and relies on the warranty of the vendor, in the event that the title should later be found to be defective. For these dealers in real estate there is certainly needed some protecting interference. The dangers attendant upon the endeavors of this class to save expense are as great as they are manifest.

There is perhaps a system which will answer all these difficulties, and permit contracts to be so simplified that they will no longer be long technical instruments, that the title companies will no longer issue policies full of exceptions, which include all discoverable defects, and which will save the cost of a search only to discover the unmarketability of a title, and which will allow the ambitious real estate dealer to treat real property as he would any commodity or merchandise.

From time to time we have heard of such schemes, "land registration," the "Torrens system," and others; some of the States have already adopted them in one form or another; but there should be a system by which for a comparatively nominal charge one could find out in advance whether certain property or properties were free of defects or not, and in cases where the defects were known to disappear with time such information would be obtainable also; for instance, when restrictions expired, when questionable rights of heirs would be extinguished, and matters of like import; and finally a title once cleared of defects, by certificates, releases or affidavits would be forever freed and cleared without the necessity of repetition. It is imperative that New York, where millions and millions of property is being annually conveyed, should have the most efficient and safest system, by which its property holders and transferrees shall be protected.

Allied Interests Ask for a Second Hearing.

A letter from Mr. Allan Robinson, as president of the Allied Real Estate Interests, to Mr. Herman A. Metz, Comptroller, asking for a further hearing on the budget for 1908, is printed in full. Mr. Robert E. Simon represented this organization at the public hearing before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and requested that the society be given time to properly examine the budget in detail, so that the property owners' interests may be well taken care of. This request was criticized by some members of the Board and the following letter is the outcome:

Hon. Herman A. Metz, Comptroller.

Dear Sir: Representing a large number of taxpayers in this city, I respectfully ask through you for a hearing before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on the New York City budget for 1908. A similar request made by a representative of this Association at the hearing on Friday last was criticized by some of the members of that Board. It was probably the first time that a similar request had been made, and it is fair to assume that the interests of the taxpayers of this city would not be ignored by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment if a proper method could be devised by which such a hearing could be granted. The provisions of the New York City charter relative to this matter provide as follows:

> Before finally determining upon the budget the Board of Estimate and Apportionment shall fix such sufficient time or times as may be necessary to allow the taxpayers of said city to be heard in regard thereto, and the said Board shall attend at the time or times so appointed for said hearing.

The only hearing which has been granted taxpayers pursuant to the above provisions was the hearing last Friday. This Association contends that this hearing was not such a one as was contemplated in the provisions above referred to, but merely a hearing on the applications of various heads of departments for appropriations for the coming year. I say without fear of contradiction that these applications are almost invariably for a sum largely in excess of the amount which it is expected will be voted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. Under such circumstances, a hearing on these applications is a mere farce. The statute clearly intended to provide for a hearing in reference to the city "budget," and we understand that this budget is made up of the amounts estimated by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment "to be required to pay the expenses of conducting the public business of the City of New York * * * * and of the counties of New York, Kings, Queens and Richmond, for the then next ensuing year."

I do not presume to tell the Board of Estimate and Apportionment how such a hearing may be had, but if the Board decides that it is impracticable, such a decision will be taken by the taxpayers represented in this Association as plainly showing the need of a radical change in the present law relating to this important matter.

I have the honor to be very truly yours,

President.

Oct. 15, 1907.

[At yesterday's meeting of the Board of Estimate, Friday morning, Oct. 25, was fixed upon for a second hearing on the budget.]

Conditions in East Houston Street.

The condition of the real estate market in Houston st, east of the Bowery, is prosperous. Houses are well rented, stores are well occupied and their occupants, as a rule, all do a good business. There does not seem to be a stringency of money in that locality for the ordinary transaction of business. Store tenants as a general thing are permanent, and there are few dispossess proceedings, considering that many of the stores are rented from month to month. though, of course, there are also a number on leases.

Four-family tenements with stores on the street floor is the rule, and a 11-ft. store with three rooms in the rear rents for between $50 and $60 a month, while those without the rear rooms command about $35 a month. The apartments are small, having three and four rooms each. The newer ones have improvements and are readily rented from $5 to $5.50 a room, while those without the improvements bring about $4 a room.

Several new buildings have been erected in East Houston st lately. The Fisher Building, which is just east of the Bowery, is a loft building and is renting nicely from 40 to 45 cents a square foot. The building directly east of Liberty Hall, better known as "Little Hungary," has been altered into a modern loft building and rents between 40 to 45 cents a square foot. This is a corner building, and so has its advantages. There is a row of tenements with stores nearing completion at Nos. 88 to 96 East 1st st which will rent between $5 and $5.50 a room. These houses will have all improvements, including hot water.

Mr. H. B. C. Stein, the manager for the McVickar-Gaillard Co.'s East Houston st branch, said that conditions were most satisfactory, and that things were on a good income basis. Property owners in that section, he said, have not felt the money stringency to any great extent. Owners of realty are very stiff on their prices, and are not willing to give any concessions to the purchaser. There is no free rent given to speak of, and as soon as a tenant moves out there are two anxious to take his place. A short time ago Mr. Stein said a large number of people went to Brownsville, but as soon as the severe winter weather set in they were glad enough to come back to the city again.

In speaking of the renting condition, Mr. Stein said that there was recently a house between Essex and Ludlow sts entirely renovated, and while the building was undergoing alterations all the tenants moved out. After the house was reopened it took just two weeks to fill all vacancies. Considering the trouble that some house owners in other parts of the city are having at the present time to find tenants, it would seem that this sections of the city is flourishing.

East Houston and the neighboring streets are lined with push cart pedlers, and in a measure they are a nuisance. They block the street for traffic, and at times it is hard to cross the highway; but the people who live and do business in that neighborhood do not object to them, in fact they patronize them extensively, so they really are more to be considered than the occasional visitor to that locality.

Houses are readily sold on an 8 to 9 per cent. basis. That is, a house that rents for $4,200 will readily command $45,000. The "Loss of rent" item is very small, as has been stated, and so the owner does not have to figure so large a gross rental to get a satisfactory net return on money invested.

Republic of Panama Loans on Bronx Realty.

The Republic of Panama has again given evidence of its faith in New York City real estate by granting a loan of $120,000 at 5 per cent. for three years on the 6-sty elevator apartment house known as the "St. Regis," at the southwest corner of Prospect av and 163d st, Bronx. The building was erected by James F. Meehan and was completed Oct. 1.

Further Public Hearing on Budget For 1908.

At the request of the Allied Real Estate Interests and upon the motion of Comptroller Metz, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, at its meeting yesterday morning, decided to hold a further public hearing on the estimates for 1908. The public hearing will take place in the City Hall next Friday morning at 10:30, and to last one hour. All taxpayers are invited to attend.

Second Public Hearing of the Torrens System Commission.

A second public hearing by the Torrens System Commission will be held in the room of the Board of Aldermen in the City Hall, Manhattan, New York City, on Friday, Oct. 25, 1907, at 2 o'clock p. m. The subject then to be discussed will be "Facts and Arguments Against the Torrens System of Registering Titles to Real Property and State Guarantee of the Same."

The Commission requests that those who oppose the Torrens System of registration present their reasons by oral arguments accompanied by briefs at this hearing. Full expression of public sentiment on this matter is urgently requested.

All persons desiring to be heard are asked to notify, as soon as convenient, the Secretary of the Commission, T. Winthrop Weston, Room 54, No. 55 Liberty st, Manhattan, New York City.

AT the public hearing given by the Torrens Commission, Assemblyman Ezra P. Prentice, the first speaker, related in a brief way the history of recent legislation in this State upon this subject, saying:

"For the last four years a bill has been introduced in the Legislature providing for the adoption by this State of the Torrens system of registering land titles. Because the Legislature has been taken up with other matters, and because of the largeness and importance of this subject, the Legislature has been unable to give sufficient time to its consideration. It was therefore suggested this year that a bill be passed, providing for the appointment by the Governor of a commission to examine the subject to report to the next Legislature.

"A good method of recording or registering titles is of the highest importance to every civilized country. Security of possession and security of title are essential. And ease of transfer, while not so imperative, is of great importance.

"The general features of the Torrens system are these: A court proceeding is had, the title is cleared, clouds removed, and the title established in the owner. The Registrar of Titles or appropriate officer then issues a certificate of title in duplicate, one of which he delivers to the owner, and the other remains upon the registration book. All liens and encumbrances are noted upon this certificate. Every future lien must be noted upon the certificate. Transfer is made by surrender of the certificate, and issue of a new one to the new owner. Everything which need be known about a title can be seen upon the certificate, and land can be sold or mortgaged without delay, and with little expense, and all the delay and expense attendant upon a search under the present system be avoided.

"The system was first introduced by Sir Robert Torrens, Collector of Customs at Adelaide, New South Wales, in 1858. It has gradually been adopted by the Australasian colonies of England, later by Canada and England, and has been adopted by some of our States, foremost among them Massachusetts and Illinois.

"It has been objected to upon constitutional grounds, and on the ground that it was not practical. It is obvious that if the system is constitutional and practicable, it will be of the greatest value, and it is the high duty of your commission thoroughly to examine the whole subject, and report your conclusion to the next Legislature. And in assisting you to reach a correct conclusion, I shall gladly do all in my power."

Mr. Camillus G. Kidder approved the system for the following reasons:

1. It will simplify searching of titles. 2. It will render parcels of real estate available as collateral for loans on call. 3. It will prevent the necessity of duplicated work—that is, work covering the same ground. Each certificate makes the holder a "first purchaser."

Mr. Kidder does not believe that the system should be compulsory; at any rate, not until after the lapse of sufficient time to judge of it as an experiment. The time required for certifying a title is likely to be greater, on the average, than would at first sight appear. He had to wait more than a year for the first certificate in a case in Massachusetts.

"For a speedy loan, in time of stress, upon property not already registered, it is probable that the title companies will still be availed of to a large extent, and the adoption of the act will not supplant or do away with the necessities of the title companies' business, although to some extent that business may be affected. Real estate lawyers are markedly conservative, and so radical a measure must make its way.

"The feature of the act which does away with general liens as affecting real estate and confines charges against a particular piece to those which are entered by the registrar as specific liens upon that particular parcel noted upon the registration certificate, is of great value and will save in the aggregate a large amount of searching which, under the present system, takes time and costs money and should not be required."

Mr. Kidder believes such an act to be constitutional in that it is merely a method of enforcing the well-known jurisdiction in equity of a bill to quiet title. Under such a bill, unknown owners may be barred by such notice as the Court prescribes. The indemnity fund provided by statute seems to be a fair and equitable provision for the relief of a claimant in a proper case.

Certificate of Title.

Much has been said recently about the Torrens system, as it is used in this country, but few know what the certificate of title looks like. Herewith is a copy of a certificate so that readers may get an idea what it really is.

OWNER'S DUPLICATE CERTIFICATE.

On the opposite page is a memoranda of encumbrances on the land described in the above certificate. Document number, kind, running in favor of, terms, date of instrument, date of registration, signature of assistant recorder and discharge.

On the back of the certificate there is printed the law requiring that the owner of the certificate must hold it free from encumbrances, except those that appear on the certificate, except in a few cases, which are noted.

Not So Fair as it Would Seem.

One of the largest real estate operators in Jersey City has adopted a novel plan in the sale of his houses, of which he has lately built several in the vicinity of West Side Park. The Jersey City Journal thus explains it:

He places a value upon them, and gives the purchaser the privilege of paying a certain amount down and the rest on monthly payments a little higher than one would pay for rent, which payments include interest, taxes and water rents. At the end of every six months a statement is made up, and after the items of taxes, water rents and interest are deducted, the balance is applied to the principal.

The agent in charge of the houses explains that by this method a person buying a moderate sized house will be able in about twelve to thirteen years to so reduce the indebtedness as to be able to place a first mortgage for $2,500, but leaves it to the prospective purchaser to figure out what interest he is paying on the investment during that time. Several of the houses have been sold under this method. The idea of paying taxes and water rents is an absolutely new one for Jersey City, and makes an attractive feature to those who do not care to bother with such details, although there are many who prefer to handle such matters themselves.

This method is doubtless more convenient to the purchaser, as it relieves him from the necessity and annoyance of procuring his tax bills, but from the standpoint of economy he is paying dear for the privileges under the plan mentioned. The system of adjusting interest on semi-annual instalment mortgage balances is not so fair as it might be. A more equitable way would be to adjust the interest charge monthly, as most building companies do.

Opening Lecture in the Y. M. C. A. Real Estate Course.

ABOUT 600 men crowded into the auditorium of the West Side Y. M. C. A., 320 West 57th st, last Tuesday evening, to attend the opening session of the fourth year of the real estate school conducted by the branch. Most of the big real estate firms in the city were represented at the opening.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. Joseph P. Day, and his topic was "Auctioneering and Brokerage." Mr. Day said that the successful real estate broker depended on six things, namely, decision, directing the mind of the purchaser toward your decision, never making a misstatement, perseverance, balance and "signing up." Mr. Day gave concrete examples of how a successful real estate broker handled his clients, and finally conducted an imaginary auction sale of a parcel of land, which, after excited imaginary bidding, he finally knocked down for $99,400. The speaker explained to his audience that he held the imaginary auction sale to illustrate how the auctioneer holds the attention of his audience, and during the sale he explained a number of tricks of the auctioneer.

Mr. Henry Harmon Neill presided at the exercises of the evening, and preceding Mr. Day, Dr. Walter L. Hervey, of the Board of Education and chairman of the Educational Committee of the West Side Branch, made a short address. Among the well known real estate men in the audience were Hon. Lawson Purdy, president of the Board of Tax Commissioners; Charles Griffith Moses, Edward L. King, secretary of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, Loton H. Slawson, G. Richard Davis, M. Joseph Harson, A. L. Gitterman, Walter Lindner and Robert E. Simon. There is a large enrollment, both in the main course of twenty-five lectures delivered by real estate brokers, and in the course on real estate law, given by Henry F. Miller, Esq., and the course in management of a real estate business, conducted by Mr. Ronald C. Lee.

Tenement House Department Methods.

I. HOW THEY CAN BE IMPROVED.

By Ira J. Ettinger.

THE large attendance of our citizens before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at its meeting on Oct. 11, last, held for the consideration of the departmental estimates for the year 1908, has demonstrated that the interest of the taxpayers has been aroused. Never before was there such an outpouring of persons interested in the municipal budget.

The prominence which the Record and Guide gave to my remarks, urging economy in the administration of the Tenement House Department of our city, leads me to a few suggestions that may interest your readers, and may be the means of effecting desirable reforms in the conduct of that department.

I have had the honor during the past few years to represent at different times, as counsel, some nine or more taxpayers' organizations in the city of New York, and this has naturally brought me into close contact with nearly all of the municipal departments. It is my humble opinion that the taxpayers should be more alive to the importance of impressing upon our public servants, that in the administration of their respective offices, and in the performance of duties imposed upon them by the law, more conscientious regard should be had for the interest of real estate owners in the city of New York, who bear practically the whole burden of taxation.

In unity there is strength, and full justice will only be done to the needs, and to the just demands of the real estate interests of our city, when property owners shall have become even more strongly organized than they are today, and when they shall have as leaders in their movements for reform, men able, aggressive, unyielding and undeterred, whose vocabulary does not know the word defeat.

My first suggestion is that more inspectors be detailed by the Tenement House Commissioner, from the force which is now available, to inspect work done in conformity with notices of violations, so that cancellations and dismissals can be obtained with despatch, thus avoiding confusion and differences upon the closing of titles to real estate; so that moneys which should go to the vendors of real estate should not be held as deposits by the title companies pending the receipt of such cancellations.

My next suggestion is that the Deputy Tenement House Commissioner should be provided with at least six assistants who shall have authority to grant modifications of orders issued by the Department where this can be done as a relief to the taxpayer and without offending the true intent and spirit of the Tenement House Law; that property owners calling at the department should be treated with more courtesy and respect. It is a common experience that a person calling at the Tenement House Department today must usually wait two or three hours for an interview with the Deputy Tenement House Commissioner who seems to be the only person in authority who assumes to grant modifications of orders; he is so overwhelmed with work that he can rarely afford more than a two or three minutes' interview; if a taxpayer gets tired waiting for the Deputy Tenement House Commissioner and gets a ruling from one of the clerks he will later on receive a letter saying that the department is not bound by the verbal statements of subordinate officials.

I further respectfully submit that the head of the department the Tenement House Commissioner should at all times be accessible to the public, that the rule now enforced that the Commissioner can only be seen on two days of the week for a period of two hours on each day unless by special appointment is most unjust and unreasonable.

It must be the experience of a great many real estate lawyers that clients come to their offices and say that a violation has been served upon them; that there are six or eight houses of exactly similar construction adjoining theirs and that no violations have been filed against said properties; the owner who is affected is not satisfied with the explanation of the department that the other houses will have violations filed against them in due course of time and cannot understand why he should be singled out for prosecution and in some cases for persecution as it appears to him. There should therefore be more uniformity in the issuing of violations. The inspector who examines four, five or six houses of similar construction, and does not file violations against every one of such houses, should be instantly dismissed from the municipal service.

It has further been my experience that owners who receive violations from the Tenement House Department and totally ignore them, and thus show a contempt for the constituted authorities, are not annoyed very much by the receipt of duplicate violations, and prosecutions by the Corporation Counsel; whereas the owner who calls at the department immediately upon receiving a violation, and seeks the advice of the Tenement House Department officials, and perhaps some slight moification in the violation issued, is prosecuted to such an extent that in many instances it amounts to persecution, and this because his matter has become a celebrated case, and because of the consideration that he has given to the orders issued.

I might add that in making the few suggestions above outlined, I speak for myself and not officially for the various organizations which I have the honor to represent; but I know from contact with many thousands of real estate owners in our city, that I have truly reflected their sentiments.

I believe that the present Deputy Tenement House Commissioner, Mr. Harry G. Darwin, is a man of unquestioned integrity, of high character, and of proved efficiency; I trust, however, that even in his great wisdom, he will be able to appreciate that some reforms can and should be inaugurated in the conduct of the Tenement House Department.

*Counsel of the United Real Estate Owners Association of the City of New York.

II.—THE TENEMENT HOUSE DEPARTMENT'S ANSWER.

By Commissioner Edmond J. Butler.

THE criticisms directed against the administration of the Tenement House Department by Ira J. Ettinger, counsel for the United Real Estate Owners' Association, and by members of that association, at the hearing given before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at its meeting on October 11, and the further criticism on the same line published in the Record and Guide by Mr. Ettinger, are in the main of so general a character that it is difficult to reply to them except by equally general statements.

In view of the interests of the tenement dwellers of the city, however, which the Tenement House Department was established to protect, as well as the interests of the citizens at large, who have a common desire for the safe and sanitary housing of the dwellers in our city, I think it incumbent on me to reply to those criticisms which are specific in character, and to some of those which, while not specific, indicate the aim of the critic.

The main specific complaint made by Mr. Ettinger is that the department is in the habit of issuing so many violations of a trivial nature that inspectors cannot watch the progress of the work, owners are annoyed with too frequent notices, and the interests of the tenants are not appreciably advanced. He instances such matters as leaking roofs, cracked panes of glass, lack of hinges on water closet seats, and other small details.

It should be well known to Mr. Ettinger and every intelligent citizen that the Tenement House Department is established to carry out the provisions of a mandatory law. That law states in detail the conditions under which a violation of law arises, and when such violations come to the attention of the department its officials are obliged to take cognizance of them, or be justly criticised for neglect of duty.

Mr. Ettinger and other critics should realize that the Manhattan office of the Tenement House Department alone receives each year about 40,000 citizens' complaints, many of them as to matters that seem to him as trifling as broken panes or leaking roofs. The department is obliged by law to make accurate record of each complaint and give full attention to the same, whether the matter appears of greater or lesser importance.

The department distinctly does not send its inspectors out on its own initiative, seeking for trivial violations. It has directed its especial efforts in that direction to the remedying of the worst conditions. For instance, a canvass of the city was made and orders issued for the removal of all school sinks and privy vaults in the city, as far as they could be discovered.

Other canvasses have been made to discover lack of fire escape facilities, a condition surely of great importance and interest to tenement dwellers.

The law requires periodic sanitary inspections of tenements, and these, too, have been undertaken.

Again, it must be repeated that when an inspection of a house is undertaken at all, any violation of the matter under investigation must be reported, however trivial.

It is easy to see where the affairs of a city department would land if an inspector or even his chiefs were at liberty to decide what infractions of law were "trivial" and not to be noticed, and what of sufficient "importance" to be attended to.

As to the criticism that violations are filed on only one out of seven or eight contiguous houses of similar construction, while violations actually exist in all, if specific instances were produced it would probably be found that this action was taken because some one had made a specific complaint against the house in question, and not against the others.

If the department were filled with idle men, trying to occupy their spare time by filing frivolous violations, as Mr. Ettinger seems to think, it would be easy to set them to scouring a neighborhood for similar violations when a complaint was made against one house only.

As a matter of fact, the conditions are just the reverse. The inspection force is not sufficiently large to permit of the thorough canvasses of different conditions that would keep all landlords aware at all times of the exact deficiencies in their properties.

Another criticism made is that it is almost impossible to obtain the dismissal of violations when the work has been properly complied with. This is one of those general criticisms which can only be denied in a general way. The situation alleged does not exist. In every case where an inspection is asked, on the ground that work has been properly done, it is made promptly. What does happen very frequently is that owners claim that work has been done properly when inspection shows it has not. Any delay complained of in securing dismissal notices is in most cases due to the fact that the orders issued have not actually been complied with at the time they have been stated to be.

As a matter of fact, if owners would make more sure of actual compliance before stating that work has been done, a large part of the "waste" complained of, in the shape of unnecessary inspections, would be avoided.

As to the criticism of unpleasant treatment received by persons calling at the department, and the difficulty of seeing the Commissioner and the Deputy Commissioner, this again is of a very general nature. Many persons insist upon seeing one of these two officials, when their business would well admit of their seeing other officials, as the Superintendent and his assistants and the Public Plan Examiner. Where the public does thus insist on seeing the Commissioner or Deputy, the privilege is granted, but where the number of these is so great it is obviously impossible for each to be attended to at once.

It is undoubtedly true that improvements in method can always be made in any large enterprise, and the department has such under way all the time. At the present moment a change in method of reinspections now about to be adopted will effect greater economy of labor than has before been possible; and any suggestions of citizens toward that end are always heartily welcomed, when prompted by a real interest in carrying out the purposes of the law, and not merely by a selfish desire to relieve themselves of the onerous consequences of it.

Personal.

A great many have envied Mr. Joseph P. Day his success as a real estate auctioneer. The way he has executed large commissions has given him a high standing in the real estate world. But who was not shocked to hear of the terrible accident sustained by his wife while they were about to board a train together at their country home? The high courage with which the lady passed through the terrible ordeal, including the long waiting for surgical help, was extraordinary. Notwithstanding this heavy blow, Mr. Day kept his engagements for the following day—to conduct a large property sale in the auction room, and to deliver a lecture at the Y. M. C. A. in the evening, though the strain which he was enduring must have been extremely severe. These personal references will be pardoned under such an exceptionally sad affliction and when sympathy is so widely expressed.

West End Association's Meeting.

At the last meeting of the West End Association the matter of small Broadway parks was taken up. A bill has been passed which provided for their maintenance, and it is now necessary to provide for their restoration. The matter has been placed before the Comptroller but he has not given as yet the necessary help to this end.

This association has joined with the City Club and other bodies in the agitation to improve the condition of the streets, and their efforts have met with very good results. Regarding the tentative snow schedule for next winter there has been a conference with the Commissioner of Street Cleaning. The plan of the Merchants' Association was also approved, for an advisory Board of Engineers to aid the city authorities in connection with the condition of the streets. A report was read by Mr. J. L. Brower, comparing the condition of the streets in Italian cities with those of New York. The matter of house numbering was also brought up by Mr. Brower and suggested the members bring the attention of the police captains to the violations.

The following members were elected: William Arrowsmith, William Bryan, L. Barton Case, Albert Cromwell, Dr. S. Arthur de Waltoff, Landreth H. King, Frederick H. Lane, Thomas Lenane, Frederick I. Lockman, Louis Runkel, R. E. Savage, Siegfried Speiner.

To the Property Owners and Others Interested in the Improvement of the Upper Section of the Bronx.

The members of the East Tremont Taxpayers' Association at their last meeting brought up the question about the extension of the fire line, and are very much opposed to the proceeding. Secretary John A. Steinmetz says:

"We are home-seekers and looking for cottages, not brick tenements. The latter take the home effect from our territory, and it will send the people to Brooklyn and Jersey. We need all the improvements we can get to keep up with our competitors. Real estate is practically at a standstill now, and holding back the frame dwellings will be a detriment to our residential section.

"The association claims there are less fires occur in frame dwellings than in brick houses. A frame dwelling is generally occupied by the owner, and he being on his own premises is bound to take better care and protect himself against fire. In mostly all cases fire comes through neglect and carelessness.

"We trust that one and all will fight in opposition to the extension of the new fire line, for the benefit of our association as well as other home-seekers."

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing a Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable considera, tion and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deed. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only, and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Real Estate and Wall Street

THOSE WHO ARE interested in the vast real estate interests of New York, owners, investors, speculators and brokers, are asking, "What will be the result of the serious financial disturbances that have occurred during the past week?" Conservative judgment is convinced that the outcome cannot be otherwise than beneficial. The country has long been and will continue to be on a sound business basis. While widespread prosperity has induced in some directions an overexpansion of development, there is a solid basis of legitimate business and corresponding profits that makes the country as "sound as a dollar." Hence it was never better able to withstand and recover from a temporary and local disturbance. Had this disarrangement been due to a deep-seated national condition at large, a "panic" far reaching and of long duration would have resulted. As a matter of fact our troubles, if not largely local, are at worst, reparable. The house-cleaning that has resulted in wholesale changes in trust company directorates no doubt has produced temporary alarm, but it must bring about a sounder business conduct of affairs and with that a renewal and even an increase of popular confidence.

Improvement Ahead

ALL THIS MUST RESULT in the betterment of the real estate field. The public has received a warning of the results of "wild cat" financiering, and even if there has been a heavy withdrawal of deposits a portion of it at least will be placed in solid real estate. The trust companies whose funds have been devoted to unwise schemes, will seek investment in desirable real estate loans. The real estate market as a result will improve in all its branches and the "Wall Street Panic" will come to be regarded as a blessing in disguise, to owners of and dealers in New York real estate. Mortgage money will be hereafter easier to procure in quarters where it has been selfishly held for private schemes for the profit of designing directors.

Regulations that Conflict

BUILDING OPERATIONS in this city are subject to the regulations and actions of a number of municipal departments, and the pressure of administrative control is rapidly increasing, until it almost seems that the day may arrive when every brick and trowel full of mortar will have to be duly inspected and regimented into position by half a dozen departments. We have nothing to say against the proper supervision of building operations. We do believe, however, that some objection may rightly be made to the vast multitude of legal requirements, often in a way conflicting, that are imposed upon the builder and owner by separated and independent bureaus. We cannot go much further without throwing building operations into a state of confusion. An attempt to harmonize more or less conflicting regulations is necessary. All laws that affect building in this city should be codified or unified. The interpretation and administration of these laws should be assigned to, or at least controlled by, some single administrative centre. A new building law is now under consideration, and a commission was recently appointed to revise the charter of Greater New York; herein lies an opportunity that should not be missed by the architects, builders and owners of this city. A committee of responsible men should be appointed to propose an adequate piece of machinery that, while it protects the public interests, will facilitate and simplify the transaction of building.

How High to Build

TENTATIVE PROVISIONS nearer the limits of reasonableness have succeeded others of an extreme nature in the committee on height and area of buildings of the commission charged with the work of preparing and reporting a revised building code. Substantially this commission is the Aldermanic Committee on Buildings aided by the borough presidents and superintendents of buildings, and also by a committee of expert architects and builders. Real property interests being not otherwise particularly represented, they are all the more anxious concerning the changes which may be suggested. Most important of the possibilities from the commission are, first, a limit to building height; second, a limit to building area; third, stricter regulations pertaining to building materials, and fourth, a further extension of the limits within which houses and other buildings of wood may not be erected. All these may affect the value of real estate, either by limiting the income which it is possible to derive from it, or by increasing the cost of building per cubic foot. The underwriters, always representing the most extreme provisions for safe construction, recommended at a public hearing that the height of fireproof office buildings should be restricted to one hundred and twenty-five feet and to an area of twenty or thirty thousand square feet, but that the height of non-fireproof and non-sprinkled mercantile and manufacturing buildings ought not to exceed five stories or fifty-five feet and an area of five thousand square feet. It is now reported that the committee has resolved to report to the main body a provision setting the limit for fireproof office buildings at two hundred and fifty feet in height. This is within two feet of the altitude of the New Plaza Hotel, it is five feet short of the top of the Commercial Cable Building in Broad Street, a hundred feet shorter than the Times Building and fifty-eight feet less than the Trinity Building. The desirability of limiting the height of buildings has been pretty generally admitted, but the practicability of so doing has been questioned, for it is realized that property interests are sufficiently powerful to bring about the repeal of a law unnecessarily radical, truly oppressive or destructive of values. There must be a reasonable mean between the unrestrained commercial spirit that would run structures a thousand feet skyward and cover every city block to the limit, and that other kind of commercialism, quite as inconsiderate in its way, which would take no account of real estate values and prevent owners from obtaining a legitimate income from their investments. There must be in the view of many serious observers of the trend of circumstances a reasonable limit somewhere to building bulk, or the streets of New York will become so congested as to make life a burden for future millions. Better spread the business population over a larger area than try to heap it layer upon layer upon a small surface. Granting that there must be a limitation to height, many will incline to the opinion that a very fair line of demarkation has been chosen.

Developing the Bronx

THE BRONX IS FARING WELL in the way of securing additional streets. Fully one-half of the thoroughfares to be opened through the efforts of the numerous commissions are situated across the Harlem River. Proceedings for the opening of more than a score were formally instituted by the Corporation Counsel on Tuesday. It is interesting to note that these are the first proceedings begun within about a year. Many of the old commissions are still taking testimony, though their work is fast drawing to a close. Quite wisely, perhaps, a large number of those selected to serve on the new commissions are members of the legal profession, and it is expected that the work of street openings will be greatly accelerated thereby. Some of the new streets to be opened exceed two miles in length. The Street Opening Bureau has already laid out the area of assessment in these instances, and all necessary maps and surveys have been prepared. Improvements of this nature are usually followed by substantial increases in values. Much of the property affected was purchased during the recent boom in the Bronx and chiefly upon the supposition that new streets and avenues would be quickly opened. The delay in the necessary procedure has been admittedly long and no doubt will prove somewhat costly to a number of speculators who bought at top notch prices, but those who purchased intelligently are likely to be rewarded for their foresight.

Recommended to the Charter Revision Commission.

THE MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION, through its Board of Directors, has made a number of suggestions to the Charter Revision Commission as to desirable changes in the city charter.

One of the most important of these is that a special commission be appointed to analyze the functions of every branch of the city government, and formulate a proper system of accounting and statistical record for each, in order that the annual outlays of each may be effectively scrutinized and the annual requisitions presented in such form that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment can act thereon with full knowledge. The Association contends that at present the city's budget is largely voted upon requisitions in bulk without adequate exhibits of expenditures in detail, and without the statistical records necessary to intelligent judgment upon the proposed outlays. In consequence many of the appropriations for various purposes are largely in excess of the amounts actually needed, and cover great waste.

The Association believes that such a commission should be composed principally of business men with large experience in directing the accounting, reporting and auditing of large business enterprises with a view to economical administration by means of concrete and readily understandable reports in such form as to fully exhibit all transactions; and that the Comptroller should be ex-officio a member. The Commission should have at its command an adequate force of expert accountants, engineers and clerical assistants.

To do away with present conflicts of jurisdiction and concentrate responsibility the Association recommends that the Borough Presidents be divested of the control of highways, sewers and incumbrances; that the Department of Street Cleaning be abolished; and that the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity be divested of the control of gas and electricity, of lighting of streets, and of the restoration of pavements removed for the laying of water pipes. It further recommends the creation of a new Department of Street Control, to have sole jurisdiction throughout the city.

(a) Of regulating and grading highways.

(b) Of construction and maintenance of pavements and sidewalks.

(c) Of openings in streets, pavements or sidewalks and the restoration of the pavement or sidewalk disturbed by such openings, including pavement removed by the Department of Water Supply.

(d) Of cleaning the streets and disposal of street wastes.

(e) Of building materials and other encumbrances in the streets.

(f) Of the operations in the streets of gas, electric lighting, telephone, steam and other public service corporations.

(g) Of lighting the streets.

(h) Of the construction and maintenance of sewers.

(i) Of the construction and control of vaults under sidewalks, openings into vaults, protection of areas, hoistways, etc.

(j) Of show-cases, awnings, obstructions on sidewalks, structures within the stoop lines and similar street encumbrances.

A progressive license fee, increasing with the time of use, is proposed for the storage of building materials in the streets.

It is suggested that when a new pavement is to be laid or a pavement opened for any large constructive work, notice be sent to all public service corporations to the effect that the pavement will be opened at a specified time and that such underground structures as they desire to make must be made forthwith; and that no public service corporation be permitted to make any opening for the installation of mains in such street for a period of one year thereafter. In the case of residence streets it might be desirable to require that when water and gas pipes and electric wires are laid in the street, service connection for each lot be extended from the mains to the curb line, in order that when connection with any residence is thereafter desired, such connection may be made without breaking the pavement.

An official map of underground structures in the streets is recommended, the absence of such map causing great delay in the construction of underground works, the removal of needlessly great expanses of pavement, and the unduly long continuance of openings in the pavements.

The Association believes that better asphalt pavements than those now in use can be had if the charter be so amended as to permit the use of bitulithic and other patented pavements.

It is recommended that push-cart traffic in the streets and sidewalk peddlers be abolished; and that push-cart traffic be concentrated in designated public places.

In order to expedite the work of condemnation commissions and stop the present great waste in the expenses of such commissions, the Association recommends exact rules of procedure for their government, to prescribe:

(a) Daily sessions of commissions on all working days from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M. until proceedings are completed.

(b) Compulsory attendance of claimants and witnesses under subpoena, for examination at such sessions.

(c) Full minutes of proceedings at each meeting of commission.

(d) Monthly report of progress, with copy of minutes to be filed with court, and abstract to be printed in City Record.

(e) Final report to be made within three months unless in the judgment of the court further time is reasonably necessary.

In view of the recent paralysis of the street cleaning department by a strike of its employees, the Association suggests charter provisions to prevent interruption of the public service by strikes. It proposes to place all city employees on a quasi-military footing, by making the basis of their employment similar in character to enlistment in the Army or Navy, involving the surrender of the right to strike and proper penalties for the refusal of duty. A suggested alternative is to make refusal of duty by any city employee a misdemeanor, and to require that resignations from the city's service shall be valid only after two weeks' written notice.

The Board of Directors have also unanimously passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Board of Directors of the Merchants' Association of New York recommends and urges that the Commission on Revision of the City Charter, in the execution of the important duty vested in it, shall make no recommendations tending to disturb the Board of Water Supply, or to impair its control over the work committed to it, of constructing the new Catskill water system, until that work shall have been duly and finally completed; and also, that it endorses the principle of conducting extensive works of construction of this kind by means of a special non-political commission, appointed to serve during the continuance of the work, with the expectation that, when finished, the completed work will be transferred to the proper department of the city government and the commission is discharged.

Future of the Tenement House Department.

Changes in the city charter as proposed, embodying as announced in the newspapers a scheme to combine the Tenement House Department with the Department of Charities, and to divide the Building Department between the Department of Bridges and the Department of Docks, is being opposed by the Brooklyn Society of Architects, who are strongly of the opinion that, whatever advantages may otherwise be claimed for it, a scheme of the nature of that proposed would, if carried into effect, tend to aggravate rather than to lighten the grievances under which they, as practicing architects, now labor.

One of the main objections to the present system is that before commencing the erection of or alteration to a tenement house the architect or owner of the building is required to obtain two successive permits, the first from the Tenement House Department and the second from the Building Bureau. Regarding this mode of procedure, Mr. C. Whiteley Mullin, the secretary of the society, assures us that it involves an amount of duplicated labor and loss of time which are in themselves a hardship to the profession and an injustice to all parties concerned, and in an official letter which his society has forwarded to the Mayor he has also said:

Under present conditions the time consumed in obtaining permits for a building of the class referred to varies from one to two months, a week to ten days being the time usually required for the issuance of an ordinary building permit. The machinery of the Tenement House Bureau is, we claim, cumbersome and unworkable, but the whole trouble and difficulty would in our judgment be obviated if the present bicephalous arrangement were abolished and a single department under one competent head established in its place.

For the past eighteen months our society has been seeking by every available means to obtain a remedy for the evils complained of. Considerable progress has already been made in this direction, but we feel that your own co-operation would be invaluable for the attainment of our object. At the same time we wish it to be understood that we do not view this matter from a merely personal or professional standpoint. It is above all else a question of public convenience and economy, and it is as such that we approach you on the subject.

We have been assured by Borough President Coler that a saving of not less than 20 per cent. in the cost of administration would be effected by combining the Tenement House with the Building Department, that is, speaking for the Borough of Brooklyn alone. As this would doubtless include the reinforcement of the present staff necessary to meet the increased volume of business passing through the Building Department (an increase likely to continue unless checked by such schemes as that of including the whole Borough of Brooklyn in the fire limits) the need of which is the cause assigned by Mr. Coler for the delay in transaction of business through that bureau, we respectfully urge that the charter be amended so as to combine the Building and Tenement House Departments in each of the boroughs of the Greater New York.

Unofficially the same recommendation has been made by other authorities, notably the late chairman of the Board of Examiners, Hon. William J. Fryer, who in a public letter before his death expressed the opinion that the Tenement House Department, having performed the work for which it was especially organized, could now be dispensed with. A less radical opinion favors relieving the department of any oversight over apartment houses of the better type, but not consenting that renters should be absolutely at the mercy of landlords. For this reason many believe that the Tenement House Department still has a work to do, though certain annoyances connected with the enforcement of the law, and certain requirements which bear too hard on owners, should be eliminated.

Near-Panic in Wall Street.

THIS has been a trying week for trust companies, and also for some national banks. Their names had been referred to so derogatively that there was a loss of confidence, which manifested itself in heavy runs on some of the trust companies. The word Panic should not be used carelessly, yet conditions on Tuesday and Wednesday bordered on a panic. Crowds of men and women surged through the streets in the financial district, some excited and some wondering. The newspaper extras contained startling headlines, which the shouting newsboys repeated. A great deal was said about loss of confidence, distrust of high financiers, and speculating with other people's money.

Outside of New York there was no trouble among banks and trust companies, and the trouble here was due in reality to the status of a very few concerns, which were discredited by the operations of their officers, and also to the fact that the prices of stocks and securities which form a large part of New York City loans, are now the lowest they have been for many years. In other cities the proportion of bank loans based on collateral security is small. An announcement on Thursday, from a committee of bankers brought together by Mr. J. P. Morgan, that concerted action on the part of all trust companies of New York had been agreed upon and that they would stand by each other and the Trust Company of America and pour in all the money that might be needed, and a further announcement from the Secretary of the United States Treasury, Mr. Cortelyou, that all the money that was required to support the situation was forthcoming, marked the passing of the financial crisis. It was the first time in the history of trust companies that united action was ever taken. President Roosevelt in a speech at Nashville made a reference to the New York excitement, and also indirectly replied to the criticisms of some of the financial gentlemen who have been annoyed by the Government's investigations and its policy toward men who have been "successful in getting rich dishonestly," saying:

"All we have done has been to unearth the wrongdoing. It was not the fact that it was unearthed that did the damage. All I did was to turn on the light. I am responsible for turning on the light. I am not responsible for what the light showed. It is impossible to cut out a cancer without making the patient feel for a few days rather sicker than he felt before.

"It would, indeed, be an evil day for this nation, it would, indeed, mean the beginning of the end of our nation's greatness, if we ever permitted in this republic to grow up a spirit which would discriminate against the honest man who achieves business success."

Reassuring reports on Thursday from other cities set at rest any fear that the trouble might have extended throughout the country. In this respect as in some others New York is in a class by itself. The center and most of the circumference of the disturbance was in Wall Street, and the cause was a belief in the public mind that certain institutions were unsound. Only indirectly are real estate and building interests concerned or even interested. The ultimate effect on the real estate market can only be to strengthen it. Millions upon millions of capital have been drawn out of banks and trust companies recently—ten millions from the Trust Company of America on Wednesday, eight millions from the Knickerbocker on Tuesday. Some is secreted at home. We heard of a banker from another city who was carrying two hundred thousand dollars on his person, not knowing what to do with it. Another man got $175,000 out of the Knickerbocker and wisely took it to the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, and there invested it in real estate mortgages.

It is generally believed that large sums of money will presently, if not immediately, be seeking real estate investments, as real estate is always safe. This is the only real connection which real estate had with the excitement, and as the foundations of legitimate business are unimpaired, more and more attention will be given to real estate as a lucrative and perfectly safe investment.

Mr. Charles T. Barney, however, was a bond of interest. He was the head of the Knickerbocker Trust, which was forced by a lack of ready currency to close its doors on Tuesday. Other trust companies were rescued, but the Knickebocker went down before help arrived. Unlike the national banks, trust companies were incapable of concerted action, and the Knickerbocker had to fight single-handed. No doubt the institution is perfectly sound, though it is feared that Mr. Barney himself has suffered a heavy loss. He was one of the largest real estate dealers in the city, besides being a large owner individually and through various real estate corporations. He was a director in 34 corporations of various kinds, among which were the Alliance Realty Co., the Century Realty, the Chelsea Realty, the Title Insurance Co., the Hudson Mortgage Co., the New York Loan and Improvement Co., the U. S. Realty & Improvement, the New York Mortgage & Security and the New Theatre Co. He is a very large holder of unimproved lots on Washington Heights, but his activities in real estate flowed through many channels. His relations and colleagues in the real estate world were of the highest grade; his banking house, the Knickerbocker, grew to be the second largest in the city in the amount of its deposits. It had built for its principal branch a marble palace on 5th av, entirely fitting to its surroundings, and justified both on business grounds and by the rule that a bankings house owes something to the community in which it stands. For the downtown bank the Consolidated Exchange site was purchased, and a building is in course of erection which will return a good interest on the investment, as well as provide a suitable home for the institution. The cost of the new site was carried on the books, according to current report, at $1,250,000, and the total of the bank's real estate holdings on the books amount to $2,125,000.

During the week Mr. Barney transferred title in the 3-sty and basement dwelling, No. 115 West 55th st, for a nominal consideration to Walter B. Warren, who is employed in Mr. Barney's real estate office in the capacity of bookkeeper. Title to the property at the northeast cor of Broadway and Exchange pl, which the Knickerbocker Trust Company purchased recently from the Consolidated Stock and Petroleum Exchange, as the site for a 20-sty office building now in process of construction, was also assumed a few months ago by Mr. Warren. The records also disclose the fact that Mr. Barney has mortgaged his property at the northeast cor of Park av and 38th st for $150,000 in favor of Samuel M. Hoyt. The loan is for two years, at 5%.

Mr. Barney also turned over to the Knickerbocker Trust Company this week a large piece of real estate in the block bounded by Broadway and 7th av, 49th and 50th sts. The property is described as beginning on the west side of 7th av, 25 feet north of 49th st, and being, in size, "138.11 feet by irregular." The parcels covered by the transfer are probably 748 to 754 7th av, with a frontage of about 100 feet, and 1,614 to 1,620 Broadway, with a frontage of 75 feet—a group of properties running through the block which were formerly owned by the Century Realty Company and sold by it to Mr. Barney about two years ago. Three deeds affecting the properties were recorded on Wednesday. By one they were conveyed by James R. Hay, Mr. Barney's confidential man in real estate matters, to Mr. Barney; by another Mr. Barney transferred them to Charles L. Horton for a nominal consideration over a mortgage of $300,000. Mr. Horton immediately turned them over to the Knickerbocker Trust Company on the same terms. A reinforced concrete garage has recently been built on part of this plot.

The George A. Fuller Company on Thursday filed a mechanics' lien for $1,993,500.73 against the Downtown Building Company on property on the north side of Exchange pl, extending from Broadway to New st, a plot 132.7x67.4x66.10x irregular, known as Nos. 58 Broadway and 25 to 29 New st. The claim is for wrecking and partial demolition of the old building on the site and for steel work to be furnished for the building to be erected on the site.

This property was recently acquired by the trust-company as a site for a 20-sty office structure, plans for which were filed in August. Shortly after title was taken by Walter B. Warren, an employee of Mr. Barney, a loan of $1,200,000 at 4½ per cent. was advanced by Mrs. Russell Sage until February, 1908.

The significance of the filing of this claim by the Fuller Company is that it wishes to protect its contract with the Knickerbocker Trust Company for the demolition of the old exchange and the furnishing of the steel work and erection of the new structure.

In the deeds recorded on Thursday was one by John O. Baker, representing Mr. Barney, transferring a plot 200x99.11 at the northeast corner of Amsterdam av and 184th st to the National Bank of North America, one of the Morse-Heinze-Thomas institutions.

THE FEELING IN REAL ESTATE CIRCLES.

Jefferson M. Levy in speaking of the effect the panic will have on the real estate market said: "While these conditions are disagreeable to face, still they right themselves speedily. Undoubtedly real estate will be affected favorably by this crash. It will make those people with money invest in real estate and mortgages. A lady of my acquaintance has deposited in the Knickerbocker Trust Company $200,000 and regretted not having put it in mortgages when she was advised. There are undoubtedly many more in her position. It is an ill wind that blows nobody good and the weather vane is pointing to real estate."

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

The Concrete Pile Foundations for the New Hospital Buildings at Ellis Island.

By WALTER MUELLER.

FOUNDATION WORK of more than usual interest is at present being executed for the U. S. Government at the immigrant station at Ellis Island by the Raymond Concrete Pile Company of Chicago and New York. The scene of operations is on what is known officially as Island No. 3. It consists in placing the concrete pile foundations for the new group of hospitals which are to be devoted to the treatment of immigrants afflicted with contagious diseases.

FIG. 1.—A general view of Island No. 3 of Ellis Island, showing the new contagious disease hospitals under construction.

The buildings will occupy the whole of the island and will constitute an effective aid in guarding the country in general, and New York City in particular, against the introduction of diseased immigrants. The island being connected with the receiving station only by a narrow footbridge, can be practically isolated at any time. Thus active measures can be easily taken to prevent the mingling of diseased and healthy foreigners. The entire group is of fireproof construction throughout, being of reinforced concrete and hollow terra cotta tile. Aside from a utilitarian point of view, the buildings are architecturally attractive and when completed will do considerable towards enhancing the general appearance of the entire station.

The foundation work is rapidly approaching completion, and it is expected that the last pile will be placed within a week or ten days. A large proportion of the buildings is already under roof and the remaining structures are being rushed so that all exterior work will be finished before winter sets in. On account of some of the unusual features connected with the foundation work, the Raymond Company on Friday, October 18, invited a number of the leading architects and engineers of New York and vicinity to Ellis Island as its guests. About a hundred members of the architectural and engineering professions took advantage of the offer. The operations were followed with keen and critical interest, and the manner in which the obstacles encountered are being overcome was the occasion of considerable favorable comment.

Much of the ground occupied by the immigrant station is of fill, very soft and sticky in its nature and largely interspersed with rock and debris from dredging. This is particularly the case with Island No. 3, which is composed entirely of soil of this character. Under the circumstances wood piling was out of the question. On account of the great back pressure of the soil, concrete piles made without the protection of a permanent form were likewise impracticable. The Raymond pile was finally selected by the government's engineer, Frank S. Howell, as meeting all requirements, and the contract awarded to the Raymond Concrete Pile Company. The favorable results secured with this type of piling as foundations for the corridor of one of the hospitals on the main island, as well as for the academic group of buildings at the Naval Academy at Annapolis, were influencing factors in the selection. In the latter instance a saving of 50 per cent. over the cost of the wood-piling originally specified was effected.

FIG. 2.—A novel method of foundation construction as carried out at Ellis Island. The floor and foundation girders of the superstructures are built directly upon the tops of the concrete piles.

The increased bearing value claimed for piles of tapering shape is being fully substantiated in these operations. In most soils large, tapering concrete piles, 18 ins. or 20 ins. in diameter at the top and 6 ins. or 8 ins. in diameter at the point, are very much more effective than straight piles of greater length; particularly where a comparatively hard stratum is underlaid by softer material, as is the case at Ellis Island. In New York City 25-ft. tapering piles have been found to be equal to 40-ft. piles of uniform diameter. At Salem, Mass.,

20-ft. piles, tapering from 20 ins. at the top to 6 ins. at the bottom, developed greater bearing value than 35-ft. piles with less taper and larger point. In New Orleans, 20-ft. piles of the size just mentioned were found to be equal to 50 and 60-ft. wooden piles, which, while large, were nearly straight. At Boston, a pile 20 ft. in length, 20 ins. at the top and 6 ins. at the bottom, while it required a less total number of blows to drive, offered more final resistance than a 20-ft. pile of the same length, 18 ins. at the top and 13 ins. at the point.

The explanation lies in the fact that a tapered pile distributes its load more uniformly throughout its entire length. In a straight pile, on the other hand, the load is largely concentrated upon the limited area of the point. Thus, where a pile penetrates the hard stratum lying near the surface and into the softer underlying material, the bearing value of this upper stratum is fully developed by the large, tapering wedge-shaped pile. This bearing value would be almost lost with a pile which is straight or nearly so.

Up to date some 1,200 piles, of an average length of 32 ft., have been driven. The safe carrying capacity of each pile is figured at 30 tons. The shells of the piles are driven by a core propelled by a 3,000-pound Vulcan steam hammer, falling 3 ft. and delivering ten blows for the final inch of penetration. The shells or forms are of 20 gauge sheet steel and the boots of 16 gauge.

An unusual feature of the construction and one which is attracting considerable attention on account of its novelty and economy consists in the floor and foundation girders of the superstructure being built 2, 3 and 4 ft. above ground. This eliminates all excavation and cuts down the concrete to the girders over the tops of the piles. These, instead of being cut off flush with the ground, are run up to the height desired, and the concrete girders built directly upon them.

Height and Area of Buildings.

The committee on height and area of the building code revision commission have decided on 250 feet as the limit for office buildings and have so reported to the full board.

According to press reports the following provisions have been agreed upon in committee:

"The height of fireproof buildings, except such buildings that are occupied for office or hotel purposes, shall not exceed 100 feet, unless such buildings are of first-class construction, in accordance with Section 106 of this code, and are provided with an approved system of automatic sprinklers throughout, installed in accordance with the standard recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, in which case the height shall not exceed 150 feet.

"Fireproof buildings to be occupied for office or hotel purposes over 100 feet in height shall be of first-class construction, in accordance with Section 106 of this code, but the height of such buildings shall not exceed 250 feet.

"All buildings of mill construction shall not exceed 75 feet in height.

"Buildings to be occupied for fair and exhibition purposes and towers for observation purposes and all other structures used for similar purposes, whether temporary or permanent, shall be constructed in such manner and under such conditions as the Superintendent of Buildings may prescribe, it being understood that the true intent and full purpose of this section shall be strictly adhered to.

"Every building hereafter damaged to an extent not greater than one-half of the value thereof, exclusive of the value of the foundations, may be repaired or rebuilt; but if such damage shall amount to more than one-half of such value thereof, exclusive of the value of foundations, then such buildings shall be rebuilt fireproof, in accordance with Sections 105 and 106 of this code."

"Every building used as a hotel and lodging house, the height of which exceeds 36 feet 6 inches; every building used as a lodge room, ballroom, concert hall, amusement hall without stage and having a seating capacity for not more than 300 persons, the height of which exceeds 60 feet, shall be constructed fireproof in accordance with Sections 105 and 106 (referring to fireproof floors) of this code. Every building to be occupied as a garage, light and power station and smokehouse shall be constructed in accordance with Sections 105 and 106 of this code.

"Every building to be occupied as a church, Sunday school, chapel or synagogue may be of ordinary construction provided the entire first floor is built fireproof in accordance with Section 106 of this code, but the height shall not exceed 60 feet and the spire 75 feet.

"Every building occupied as a dwelling or boarding house hereafter erected or altered which is more than 36 feet 6 inches in height and not exceeding more than 75 feet in height, shall have the first floor above the cellar, or lower story, constructed fireproof in accordance with Section 106 of this code, and every building the height of which exceeds 75 feet shall be constructed fireproof in accordance with Section 106 of this code."

It is provided that the floor area between fire walls in all fireproof buildings occupied for office or hotel purposes shall not exceed the following: "When fronting on one street, 12,000 square feet; when fronting on two streets, 16,000 square feet; when fronting on three streets, 20,000 square feet."

The area between fire walls in fireproof buildings not exceeding 150 feet in height is to be: "When fronting on one street, 6,700 square feet; when fronting on two streets, 8,000 square feet; when fronting on two streets, 10,000 square feet." This regulation would radically affect big department store and factory buildings. It is also provided in the new code that all fire walls are to be of a thickness corresponding to main bearing walls. The distance between fire walls for railroad stations, city halls, court houses, armories, schools, colleges, museums, libraries, churches, synagogues, light and power stations, hospitals, asylums, police stations, fire houses, jails and the structures for fair and exhibition purposes shall be left to the discretion of superintendents of buildings.

A Break in Portland Cement.

With gilt-edge stocks and bonds far below normal, and the money stringency, it is not strange that Portland cement should be rather low in price. But this is not the only reason for it. For several weeks certain companies have been letting their product go out at basement prices, and the standard companies have at last had to yield. Prices are down officially and unofficially, and the market is unsettled. While manufacturers have confidence in the industry for the future, it is not on a satisfactory basis for their side of the market at this writing. However, a large amount is being utilized, and the fall in values simply represents inability to gauge the market, which two years ago was demanding the limit of manufacturing possibilities. Having thus encouraged the enlargement of facilities, and therefore of production, the market this year and last has lowered its pace, or at least has not kept pace with the supply. Last year the American Portland cement mills turned out 46,000,000 barrels; this year the output will reach 50,000,000 it is quite safe to say.

A New Fireproof Material.

A TEST was made at Tilyou's Steeplechase Park, Coney Island, Saturday, Oct. 19, which demonstrated that Salamanderite is absolutely fireproof and waterproof. The test was conducted at the request of Mr. Tilyou in that section of Steeplechase Park which was completely devastated by fire this past summer, in order that he might determine the fireproof qualities of Salamanderite before deciding on what material he would use in the rebuilding of his mammoth enterprise.

A house was erected under the personal supervision of Mr. Warren, purchasing agent for Mr. Tilyou, the dimensions of which were 7x9x10 ft., the frame constructed of wood and the interior and exterior walls, sashes, door, floor, wainscoting and roof of Salamanderite, in thicknesses of from ⅛ inch as used for the outside walls, to 1⅜ inches for the door and sashes. The Salamanderite was fastened to the frame by patent fireproof furring strips. The only other material used in this test was Mississippi wire glass for the windows in the front wall and door. Inside the structure was placed a large quantity of old furniture and excelsior, which was saturated with kerosene. The fire was allowed to burn twenty minutes, during which time those present could see through the windows the intense flames; and they were surprised to find that while the heat radiation was great, the exterior walls and door remained so cool that it was impossible to ignite a match by placing same against any part of the surface. After burning twenty minutes a stream of water was applied and when the fire was quenched the door was opened and the guests and fire experts present were allowed to examine the interior. Portions of the Salamanderite which covered the wooden frame were cut out from different sections of the interior and exterior walls and showed that the wood had not been affected in the slightest degree. The Salamanderite did not spall, and proved to be waterproof as well as fireproof. Those present at the test were greatly impressed with the qualities of Salamanderite as a fireproof material, and Mr. Tilyou gave practical indication of his appreciation by placing a large order for Salamanderite.

The composition of Salamanderite consists chiefly of asbestos, compressed and chemically treated to render it hard, pliable and of great tensile strength. It is adapted for use as a decorative covering for the walls, ceilings, etc., of public buildings, churches, theatres and private residences; in fact, wherever a fireproof substitute is desired for wood and the various inflammable materials heretofore used for these purposes. The following witnessed the test: J. K. Freitag, C. E.; Perez M. Stewart, E. S. Hand, J. W. Greene, J. Lind, representing Wm. J. Baxter, N. C., U. S. N.; N. H. Cowe, W. Seibert and F. F. Stone, Brooklyn Rapid Transit Co.; P. G. Farquharson, Royal Insurance Co.; F. C. Colton, architect; R. M. Gilmour, E. C. Caleyron, Jesse M. Auer, Cincinnati, Ohio; H. ## The George A. Just Company's New Works in Long Island City.

AN extensive water front and low-priced land in comparison with less favorable locations in Manhattan, has attracted many of the industries connected with the building trades to Long Island City. This is especially true of the great stone yards, marble and mosaic works, foundries and structural steel plants.

This section of the city, although rapidly developing, offers the large areas which are needed for such enterprises. It affords a good market for skilled and unskilled labor, and will soon be in intimate contact with the heart of Manhattan, because of the bridges and tunnels now nearing completion.

Among those who early appreciated the advantages which this part of the city affords to manufacturers is The George A. Just Company, prominent engineers and contractors. This company, which since its incorporation in 1903, has made a specialty of the manufacture and erection of steel and iron work for builders, erected for its exclusive use a two-and-a-half-sty steel frame and concrete building at 239 Vernon av at the corner of Division st. The whole of the first floor is devoted to executive offices, while the upper part is given over to the engineering department with its attendant drawing and printing rooms.

Adjoining the office building on the south, is a yard over 200 feet in depth, well stocked with unfabricated steel shapes, a cold saw, and a varied assortment of erection tools, and machinery. This yard faces Division st and extends to the head of the Standard Oil Creek, so that materials from the rolling mills are delivered by lighters directly on the company's dock. Adjoining the yard on the north, a shop 75 feet in width extends through the block to Nott av. The yard and shop are connected with tracks on which run cars for the transfer of materials. No pulleys or shafting are to be seen, the power machinery being run exclusively by electricity. The company also controls the plot on Vernon av, adjoining the offices, which are readily reached by the 34th or 92d st ferries in conjunction with the Vernon av cars which pass the door.

Notwithstanding the general depression which at present exists in this line of work, The George A. Just Company is exceptionally busy. Some of the contracts which they have in hand are: An 11-sty loft building at 13 and 15 West 27th st, Messrs. Maynicke & Franke, architects; residence for George J. Gould, Esq., 5th av and 67th st, Horace Trumbauer, Esq., architect; New York Public Library, No. 31, Messrs. Babb, Cook & Willard, architects; Smallman & Ingram's department store, London, Canada, William G. Murray, Esq., architect; apartment house, 27-29 East 30th st, A. O. Hoddick, Esq., architect; stock house, 90th st and 3rd av, part of Jacob Ruppert brewery, Otto C. Wolf, Esq., architect; Bronx Borough court house, M. J. Garvin, Esq., architect.

Among contracts recently executed are these apartment houses: the "Marion," the "Stag" (Washington, D. C.), the "Markenfield," the "Sherman Square," and the "Mayfield." Also brewery buildings for George Ehret, Esq. (3 contracts), the Lion Brewery (2 contracts), and Jacob Ruppert, Esq. (3 contracts). Also stores and lofts for: the Fisher Realty Company, the Surprise Store, and the Star Publishing Company, besides the Namm Building and the Flushing Warehouse.

The Just Company has also completed contracts on the Wetzel Building (opposite Delmonico's), the Fresh Pond Crematory (2 contracts), the C. & P. Telephone Building (Baltimore, Md.), and extensions to the House of the American Society of Civil Engineers, to the Presbyterian Hospital, the James Butler stable, and the Amsterdam Opera House. Contracts for work on the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad were executed in the company's shop.

The officers of the company are: President, George A. Just, M. Am. Soc. C. E. Mr. Just has been identified with this branch of engineering for over 25 years and is well known to architects, builders and the building trades. Thomas A. Harvey, C. E., is vice-president, and George L. Ballou, C. E., secretary. The general manager is David B. Richardson. The accompanying illustrations give some idea of the company's plant. A call by telephone (834 Greenpoint) always receives prompt attention.

Bulletins from the Tenement House Department.

By permission of the Hon. Edmond J. Butler, Commissioner of the Tenement House Department, all the bulletins hereafter issued by the Department for the information of property owners will be printed in the Record and Guide. This will be the first time the bulletins have been regularly published as they appear. It is a striking instance of the policy of Commissioner Butler to serve the best interests of the public, and we hope to make this paper one where owners will find in regular order everything affecting their property.

BULLETIN NO. 17.—From and after November 1st, 1907, no fire-escape brackets will be accepted wherein the rivets, securing the braces to the bracket proper are less than one-half inch in diameter. Brackets not built in the wall before the above date must be altered before use, if necessary, to comply with the above order.

BULLETIN NO. 16.—The lighting and ventilating of water-closet compartments and bath rooms by the use of unoccupied spaces of adjoining premises, will no longer be permitted, unless there is filed with this department certified copies of easements from the owner of such adjoining property. In such latter cases a conditional approval may be granted.

BULLETIN NO. 15.—Concrete, within the meaning of the term as used in the department, shall consist of a mixture properly proportioned for the purpose for which it is intended to be used, and consisting of dry clean cinders, broken stone or screened gravel, combined with a suitable proportion of cement mortar. This cement mortar shall be made only of good cement and clean sharp sand, in the proportion of not less than one part cement to three parts of sand, properly mixed at the time it is needed for use and before water is added. When concrete is being prepared for use the cement mortar and the cinders, stone or gravel, must be mixed as needed on a proper mixing bed, in the proportion of not less than one part of cement mortar as above specified to two parts of cinders, broken stone or screened gravel, and not mixed in bulk in the place where it is to lie. Such concrete when placed in position must be properly rammed or rolled to bring the cement mortar well up to the top surface, and shall not be less than three inches in thickness at any point.

A finished coat, when called for by the plans or the rulings of the department, shall be applied before the rough concrete sets and shall be of a good grade of cement mortar mixed as defined above, and only as needed for application, and properly smoothed over and finished according to the necessities of the case, and the completed concreting, including rough concrete and finished coat, shall be not less than four inches in thickness at any point.

(Signed) EDMOND J. BUTLER, Commissioner.

Taking Census of High Buildings.

A count of the skyscrapers on Manhattan Island has been made, and it shows that 540 buildings of ten or more stories have been erected since 1890. Twelve stories is the favorite number above ten, apparently, for the building Department's records show that 169 12-sty structures have been built or are now under way. Maybe superstition partly explains the fact that there are only 13 13-sty buildings.

Less than a dozen years ago the American Surety Building at 100 Broadway, 20-stys high, was a world wonder. Never, people said, would it be eclipsed. Now it is insignificant com pared to some others. The Singer rises 41 stys and the Metropolitan Life, now under construction, will break the record with 48.

Including the Metropolitan Life Building, which is not yet finished, the census of high buildings is as follows:

| No. of Buildings. | Height. | No. of Buildings. | Height. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 48 stories | 2 | 17 stories |
| 1 | 41 " | 19 | 16 " |
| 2 | 26 " | 19 | 15 " |
| 3 | 25 " | 18 | 14 " |
| 2 | 23 " | 13 | 13 " |
| 4 | 22 " | 169 | 12 " |
| 9 | 20 " | 101 | 11 " |
| 2 | 19 " | 164 | 10 " |

The discovery of the structural possibilities of steel is what did it, and modern fireproofing methods have made the skyscrapers perfectly safe.

—Too often the carpenter takes it for granted that the mason has properly leveled his foundation, and accordingly proceeds to lay his sills, adopting the usual method of leveling with the ordinary spirit level. In nine cases out of ten, unless a straightedge is used by the mason, it will ultimately be found that the building is out of plumb and no amount of jacking up will remedy the defect which becomes particularly noticeable when the side walls are decorated.

Particulars of Henry Clews 5th Ave. Improvements.

5TH AV.—Mr. Henry Clews, the banker, having purchased the Joseph C. Hoagland mansion, Nos. 27 to 29 West 51st st, is to make immediate alterations to the building for his own occupancy. The property occupies a plot 38.8x100.5 feet and is modern in construction, containing many fine decorations. The interior partitions and ceilings will be raised in height and other various changes will be made, at an approximate cost of about $45,000. The plans are now being prepared by Messrs. Hoppin, Koen & Huntington, 244 5th av. Building operations will be started in about four weeks. Mr. Clews will also improve his present residence, No. 630 5th av, for business purposes upon the completion of his 51st st house. This property is a Columbia leasehold which Mr. Clews holds for a term of 21 years. The proposed alterations will be made to suit the tenants. The same architects will prepare the plans.

Elevator Apartment For Morningside Heights.

116TH ST.—Paterno Brothers, Incorporated, Riverside Drive and 116th st, builders of high-class elevator apartment houses, will soon begin the erection of another fine nine-sty structure on a plot 50x100 feet on the south side of 116th st, 175 feet west of Broadway. The building will be similar in style to the other structures they have built on the same side of 116th st, west of Broadway. The plans have not yet been drawn. Messrs. Schwartz & Gross, of No. 347 5th av, in all probability will be the architects.

Safer than a bank—real estate.

Bought right, a real estate investment always stays right.

Sometimes the earth trembles. But oftener banks tremble.

Money put in real estate stays there until wanted. No one can steal it.

The work of re-wiring Mendelssohn Glee Club Hall at No. 113 West 40th st has been completed, at the cost of about $10,000. Owing to the beautiful panels and mural decorations all the wires were "fished," which added greatly to the cost. The hall has been newly decorated and will presently open for the fall season.

First-class mechanical draftsmen, who are capable of laying out both steam and hydro-electric power plants and substations, and who have had experience in design and installation of such plants, are wanted for work at Madison, Wis. Salary, $1,500 to $2,000 and traveling expenses. Address "Reclamation, Carroll Block, Madison, Wis."

The Week.

Business in the real estate field was almost at a standstill this week. But this was to be expected, considering the upset condition of banking. There were two sales worthy of notice. The re-sale of 27 and 29 West 51st st and the "Antoinettes-Roland" sale. The 51st st house was formerly the residence of Joseph C. Hoagland. It was purchased by James G. Hurty last week and immediately resold by him to Henry Clews. Mr. Clews is going to make this house his home. His present residence at 630 5th av is going to be converted into a business building. It is on Columbia leasehold and directly opposite the Catholic Cathedral, between 50th and 51st sts. The "Antoinettes," five 8-sty apartment houses, and Hotel Roland figured in the other important sale of the week. The old Harlem Hospital site was given in part payment. This plot consists of sixteen lots facing the East River, between 120th and 121st sts. The "Antoinettes" and Hotel Roland occupy the block front on Park av, between 58th and 59th sts, except that portion occupied by the Board of Education building and Hotel Oxford. On 59th st it extends to the Lenox Lyceum, and on 58th st it extends about the same distance. There are about 30,000 sq. ft. in the plot. There was a falling off in the number of dwellings and tenements sold, and outside of those mentioned there was no transfer of note. The money market is in a bad way at present. It is impossible to get money this week, as every one is waiting to see the result of the "Wall street" situation. A great number of brokers feel that this condition in the street is the best thing that can happen for the real estate market, but it will require some little time before things adjust themselves. It is easy to make water muddy, but it requires time and peaceful conditions before the dirt will settle and the water become clear again. So it is with the real estate market. The brokers feel that when people realize that real estate holdings and mortgages are safe investments, they will be satisfied with the usual rate of interest, and unwilling to take any unnecessary chance of loss.

The total number of private sales reported for the week is 57, of which 18 were below 59th st, 13 above, and 26 in the Bronx.

—For the next few weeks the renting departments of the real estate offices will be very busy receiving complaints from newly acquired tenants who want pink paper on the dining-room walls and yellow in the drawing-room, and vice versa. If it is not the paper then it is the tiling in front of the fireplace, the lighting of the halls, the elevator boy who is many times absent, the annoying parrot in the adjoining flat and hundreds of other old and a few new kicks.

THE AUCTION MARKET

CONSIDERING the upset condition of the money market this week the auction market did fairly well. During the latter part of the week business came to a standstill, but then the closing of the doors of several trust companies, runs on other institutions and call money on the Stock Exchange touching 100 per cent., were some of the things that it had to contend with. That any sales at all were made is the wonder.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day No. 416 East 8th st was sold to Minnie Fabbini for $9,900. There was $4,508 due on judgment against this property. Nos. 417 and 419 East 68th st was knocked down to Charles A. Murtha, Jr., for $88,822; amount due about $23,470.55. Nos. 324 to 332 East 125th st went to Henry Potthast for $134,800. A plot 50x232 on Aqueduct av, above 190th st, brought $8,000; amount due, $4,879.81.

Bryan L. Kennelly sold 39 and 39½ Forysth st to Frank Lashmer for $65,550. No. 144 West 13th st, 3-sty dwelling, to J. J. Campion for $20,000. A private dwelling in 127th st, No. 213 West, 13x99.11, was bought by Angelo Locanas for $10,000. Lowerre pl had a number of offerings, but most were withdrawn. No. 38 Lowerre pl was sold for $5,100 to E. D. Seamon. No. 40 Lowerre pl, the house adjoining, was sold privately before the auction, and the remainder of the row was withdrawn. No. 36, vacant, 19x80, to J. C. Adams for $1,100.

Joseph P. Day said: "This crisis is a most striking example of how good the real estate market is. The real estate market to-day is just as good as it ever was and affords just as much opportunity for intelligent investing as it has done during the five years just past. The only thing necessary is that the buying public must have confidence in it."

Allan Robinson, president of the Allied Real Estate Interests, said: "The financial crash in Wall Street has cleared away certain disturbing features, and should make for ultimate improvement. The immediate effect, however, of such a state of affairs is to induce the hoarding of money, and I expect to see reduced activity in the real estate market. No new schemes of any magnitude are likely to be undertaken, and a period of stagnation is likely to ensue which should result in a more healthy real estate market. When this improvement is likely to occur is hard to say. Investors will probably turn toward mortgage investments, but I doubt if there will be any speculation in New York real estate for some time to come."

A GOOD THING FOR REAL ESTATE.

Nathan L. Ottinger said: "This shake up is a very good thing for the real estate market. Those sections of the city in which the prices were not inflated have not lost any of their cash value. People will readily place their money, I think, on mortgage in centrally located property. The recent disclosures in the trust companies show rather plainly that there was a violent boosting of property values along the 5th av section and the side streets adjoining. There are only a limited number of people who can pay the prices asked for real estate and the rents demanded in this section, and they are the first to suffer. This trouble should lead to a more stable and legitimate market and create a better feeling among the investors. There are certain sections, namely the Bronx and Washington Heights, which have had their reaction, and are on a normal basis. It will teach people to invest in a stable article, which I believe is real estate and real estate mortgages."

Charles H. Voorhees, of Camman, Voorhees & Flood, said: "It is marvelous how real estate has held its own. How the prices have not been lowered. The real reason is that owners of real estate control what they own, while those who invest in the 'Street' have to let others manage their property for them. As far as I have been able to learn there are no tired holders of property. There is no disposition on the part of property owners to reduce their prices. The effect of this present trouble should make the mortgage market easier."

J. Clarence Davies said that he believed that ultimately this trouble would have a beneficial effect on the real estate market. Undoubtedly the mortgage market will be easier after this flurry passes over, and that he looks for a change for the better very shortly in the money market.

Renting in Delancey Street.

In speaking of the renting condition of Delancey st a large holder of property in that section said that on that thoroughfare there was a material reduction of rents. This is due, he says, to the subway excavation. The street is so blocked up that it is almost impossible for the store keepers to do business. This condition will adjust itself as soon as these improvements are completed. For this reason, he says, only short term leases are given by owners, as a rule, and when the extension of Delancey st is completed and other improvements finished that are at present under way the prices will materially advance. At present the rents on Delancey st, he continued, are about the same as on the side streets in that neighborhood.

Second Torrens Hearing.

The second public hearing of the Torrens Commission met at City Hall yesterday. The chairman, David A. Clarkson, was out of town, so the commission appointed Prof. Reeves as temporary chairman. The object of this hearing was to listen to those who were opposed to the Torrens or any other system, except the one now in use. Owing to the recent troubles downtown the attendance was small, and several gentlemen who expected to speak had to send regrets.

Prof. Reeves opened the meeting with a few words, explaining the position of the Commission. He said that the Commission was appointed by the Governor to look into the Torrens system and see how it might be applied in this state. Should this sytem not be found adequate the Commission was to endeavor to find out some system which will be practical. Should the members discover some system better than the one at present in use, they should introduce a bill in the next Legislature to that effect.

Walter Lindner of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. was called upon, but did not appear.

James Holmes, Jr., representing the Lawyers' Title Insurance Co., spoke at some length against the system. He offered, on behalf of the company, any assistance that was in his power to simplify the present mode of title registration. He contended that titles are not safe under the Torrens. There are possibilities of fraud, that cannot be detected, such as forgeries, and a man loaning money on a forged deed, loses his claim on the property as soon as the title is declared defective. Mr. Holmes went on to say that the Title Company made its money on the loaning of money on mortgage. The Torrens system does not touch this end of the transfer. He cited the delay and expense of the original registration; he denied that the companies ever charged more than one-half of the original fees, though he said he understood the contrary was said at the last hearing. The title companies had always helped so far as lay in their power the simplifying of registration and also helped in introducing the block system and the lateral encroachment laws.

Mr. Edgar J. Levey was called, but did not respond, though the Commission had a communication from him stating that the recent upheaval had kept him from attending. Representatives of the United States Title Company, and the Home Title Company of Brooklyn were called, but did not respond.

F. H. Sincerbeaux, of Bowers & Sands, was called and spoke against the system. He designated it as dangerous and cumbersome, and that instead of helping matters along it would have the opposite effect.

Real Estate Auctioneering and Brokerage.

JOSEPH P. DAY.*

We shall first consider "Brokerage" by asking ourselves the question, what is the meaning of the word "broker?" A "broker" is really the middle man or connecting-link between the owner on one side and the prospective buyer on the other. Now we inquire what are the essentials that make a successful broker?

First there is the system used by him, which must concisely give every detail about each particular property, so that he may have the data before him at a moment's notice. The next step is decision as to whom to offer the property. For instance, we would not think of offering a 5th av or Broadway parcel to a dealer in tenements only, nor would we offer a tenement house proposition to a 5th av operator. And with this we must have the creative mind, working out which would be the best of the different parties who might be interested in an offer and determine why they should be so interested. Present the property without any misstatements and be careful to know about what you are speaking. The next step is perseverance—hanging on to the proposition until a sale has been effected—and all this time endeavoring to get a "balance" between the owner and the prospective purchaser; and, having enough judgment to realize when you have them evenly balanced, so as to sign them up and close the deal.

In the auctioneering branch of the business, let us first study the causes of an auction sale. There are really only two, the Supreme Court and the voluntary cause. The former cause is divided into Supreme Court foreclosures and Supreme Court partition sales. Of course there may occasionally come into this class a trustee's sale, and in such an instance it would be a bankruptcy or liquidation sale. The voluntary sale might happen where a man is not realizing quick action at private sale and he tries to force action by putting it up under the hammer; or it may be that he has received numerous offers and decides that the best way to obtain proper results is by offering the property at auction and so allow those interested to fight it out.

In case of land development, after a company has completed their development work the question arises for their decision as to whether they will enter into an extensive and long-drawn-out campaign of private sale of the property, or whether they will endeavor to get quick results by means of an auction sale; and in cases where it is deemed desirable an auction sale is generally decided upon.

After an auction sale has been decided upon, the next question is the advertising—the publicity of it. First to be considered is originality. How to endeavor to get before this great pushing mass of New York humanity the fact of the sale and thus compel their attention to the property offered for sale. The next step in this advertising campaign is economy—practiced by concentration. If you concentrate upon one particular day a number of parcels the natural result is a larger amount of money to spend; and this will carry the publicity further than if the individual parcels were strung out and offered on different days.

And now we are ready for a pet phrase of mine, "brain impressions." How, by presenting to your public the necessary details, it is pushed in front of them first by newspaper advertising, then by means of cards in the street car system, so that a man riding in the street cars is bound to see it, and by putting it in front of the public on 9x12 foot and 9x24 foot billboards. Another link is by presenting it before them by signs under electric light—by pushing it before them by means of wall spaces fronting on some prominent thoroughfare. And, while this is going on, sending out booklets and posters by the thousand.

All of this is tending to pick out different possible purchasers from those to whom I have before referred—the great pushing mass of New York humanity—and getting them to consider the purchase of some one particular parcel of the special sale. When that has been accomplished and you have pulled them so far that they go to look at the property, half of the battle is won, and it is safe to say that they will be down in front of you at the time of the auction sale.

On the auction stand the terms of sale are read and the special points therein applying to the particular parcel are again mentioned in detail and the call for bids is then in order.

The successful auctioneer must endeavor to understand, in so far as he is permitted, the workings of the great natural law of "action and reaction" and the best and most simple example is the ordinary rubber band. We may pull the band, and pull it, and pull it, and pull it until our senses tell us that we have drawn it far enough, then we let it down—what have we done? We have controlled it. If we should take this same rubber band and pull it and stretch it until we had pulled it beyond its tension, it would break and we would have a smaller piece of rubber band, with proportionately less vitality and life. And this very same rule applies in dealing with an auction crowd.

Active Centres of the Future.

Real estate operators and investors are figuring out probabilities for the sections around the terminals of the new bridges and tunnels. The Pennsylvania terminal section, together with the inland route and terminals of the McAdoo tunnels, have long been subjects of calculation; but the opportunities that may be provided by the Manhattan, Blackwell's and Williamsburgh bridges have only recently been taken up for consideration on the Manhattan side. The Tribune of recent date observed that there are indications that there will be three unusually active districts, namely:

The section bordering the Manhattan approach to the Manhattan Bridge and the Manhattan approach to the Blackwell's Island Bridge and on the central East Side. If only one-half of the projects now being planned for that part of the Bowery adjacent to the approach to the Manhattan Bridge are carried out next year or in the succeeding year, the lower section of the Bowery will probably be changed into an important jobbing house district, fashioned on the best lines. Many local jobbers in crockery and other household utensils have decided, it is said, that the most suitable sites for their business are near the approaches to the Manhattan and Blackwell's Island bridges, as the rehandling and distribution of goods exclusively for local trade can be done quicker and easier at these points than in any other section of the city. Moreover, property in the lower part of the Bowery and on the central East Side is not dear compared to the cost of property elsewhere suitable for jobbing houses doing only a local trade.

Along the East River front, just north of 59th st, there are many large unimproved sites especially suitable for jobbing and manufacturing concerns, which have an extensive local business and also include in their trade zones many Long Island, Westchester, Hudson River and New Jersey suburban towns. Most of the sites are adjacent to large modern public docks, so that goods can be quickly and cheaply conveyed from one place to another by barges if the shipper desires. Exterior st, which extends along the East River for several miles in a northerly direction from the Blackwell's Island Bridge, is one of the best laid out business thoroughfares in the city. About two years ago a number of shrewd operators bought several big vacant parcels in the section and improved them with factory and loft buildings. They quickly found tenants for those buildings and they would probably have continued to be active in that part of the town had not other districts unexpectedly become more attractive centres for building projects which they furthered. The opportunities for profitable building operations in this rapidly growing East Side district are many, and as alluring as in any other part of the city, and the section appears to be destined to be a great factory and loft centre in a few years, if not next year.

Fifty-ninth st and the region it serves contain special elements of growth. We think, in the first place, that the bridge will be used by a good class of people. It is certain to be largely patronized by people who drive for pleasure, and it is likely to be preferred over the Belmont tunnel by a large share of the commuting traffic to Flushing, Bayside and Whitestone, as well as to Elmhurst, Newtown and Corona. If ever a Hudson River bridge is built it will also cross at 59th st. Everything indicates a decided real estate movement for the East 59th st section after the bridge is completed.

Why New York City Real Estate Pay—II.

A SINGLE ILLUSTRATION of the conditions as they exist in New York City to-day will serve to demonstrate the advantages of a real estate investment here so clearly set forth in Mr. Jefferson M. Levy's article "What New York City Real Estate Pays," printed October 5. In the New York Sun of Thursday, October 10, mention was made of the renting conditions of the lower East Side. The advantages of the lower East Side, from an investor's point of view, are reasoned out in the following paragraph:

"Given a stationary or diminishing supply of houses, it was argued that rents must continue to advance within walking distance of the factory district, as the immigrants employed there at low wages would not be likely to spend the time and money in travel that living elsewhere would require. The lower East Side, according to the general belief, would not be affected by the new transportation to the suburbs and by the overbuilding in Harlem, the Bronx and Brooklyn."

The result appears in the next few lines:

"Until this summer East Side landlords found that as soon as one tenant moved out another was ready to move in. Until a year ago the practice was to add 50 cents or a dollar to the rent whenever a vacancy occurred. Two-room apartments which had brought $8 or $9 a month were worth $12 or $13 by the spring of 1906."

Rents at the rate of $6 to $6.50 a room in the poorest neighborhood possible, with no improvements, and all the disadvantages a big city can give, may seem high and even a hardship to meet, but if poor people must live within walking distance of their work, they must also pay in rents for this convenience.

Investors must bear in mind there is a breaking point in gradually increasing rents, and from the Sun article it would appear that it had been reached in the lower East Side. It looks now, the Sun says, "that rents will decline at least 20 per cent. by next May." Those who found the strain getting too great were compelled to go to Brownsville or elsewhere where rents are lower in comparison.

The loss to the East Side property is but temporary. Their property is still near the great and growing dry goods manufacturing district, and the only warning owners and prospective investors must heed is not to speculate too freely on the advance in rents. There are two dangers—one personal and one public—in attempting to get beyond the high level of rents. The personal danger lies in the temporary money loss, and the public danger in instigating rent riots among the ignorant classes.

If the owners who purchased, not with the idea of speculating, but for an income-producing investment, are perfectly satisfied to draw in rents all the "immigrants employed there at low wages" can possibly afford to pay and no more, we will avoid any possibility of rent riots such as are now going on in Rome to-day.

New York City is a veritable beehive of industry and enterprise, and there is value to every foot of land for one purpose or another. Before it can be used the owner must first be reckoned with, and unless he is too exacting he can confidently look forward to an increasing share of the profits earned on the real estate he owns. This is one of the conditions that make an investment in New York City real estate one of the best and safest in the world. F. W. B.

New Record Price on Madison Avenue.

The recent sale of No. 312 Madison av, which is reported in another column, adds an interesting chapter of events concerning a valuable plot of ground on the corner of 42d st and Madison av. Five years ago the Thompson-Starrett Company traded the Algonquin apartment hotel in West 44th st for the corner parcel, which extends for some distance along 42d st. This piece is covered by a taxpayer two stories in height. Subsequently 310 Madison av was acquired by the same people. Their holding shut in completely on both sides and rear this property, which has just been sold. The City Real Estate Company holds title to the surrounding properties. Mr. Alfred Schiffer, the new owner, is in no way interested in the adjoining property, so 312 Madison av may continue to be a good example of what real estate men call a "key" lot. This house was altered some months ago for business purposes. A new record price has been established per square foot in this section. About $257 a square foot was paid for the property, the best previous price being $241 a square foot. The old record price was made by the sale of this same house when Emma E. Cattus, the present seller, was its purchaser.

Philadelphia Firm Opens New York Office.

Oscar J. ### Famous Fifth Avenue Corner.

A great deal of publicity has been given to the northwest corner of 5th av and 34th st this week owing to the suspension of the Knickerbocker Trust Company. This piece of land has figured in several deals, all of which caused widespread attention at the time on account of its peculiarly central location.

In the early forties a large brownstone dwelling occupied the plot and was considered one of the show places in town. The Springler Institute for young girls moved there and the building was occupied for school purposes. A. T. Stewart came along and purchased it and sold the building then occupying the lot for $10,000. He built what was afterwards known as the "Stewart Mansion," and lived there until the time of his death. This new structure was magnificent, being built mostly of marble imported from abroad. It was said to have cost him $1,000,000. After the death of Mrs. Stewart, the building was unoccupied for some years, and was finally rented to a Democratic club, which paid an annual rental of $40,000. After this lease expired the building was torn down and the common report is that the marble was cut up for tombstones. The property was sold to the Knickerbocker Trust Company and the present building was erected at a cost of about $450,000. A question about the front steps and pillars of this building encroaching on the street has been the subject of litigation.

—Queens owners think they should have the same rate of fare to the Battery as Bronx residents, via the Belmont tunnel, but Mr. Belmont can't see it. John W. Paris, secretary of the Long Island Real Estate Exchange, says that property owners in Queens demand that by paying a five cent fare on a trolley car in Queens they will be carried through the tunnel to Manhattan without an additional fare. There is a rumor that Mr. Belmont is willing to sell his tunnel to the city for $8,000,000 and then take a franchise to operate it, similar to the franchise for the operation of the subways in Manhattan.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

Young man desires position in general real estate business. See Wants and Offers.

William E. H. Elfers is the buyer of 14 East 13th st, recently sold by the Wolff estate.

Renting agents expect a brisk demand for store property along the subway at Kingsbridge.

A thoroughly experienced office renting man is wanted for a downtown office building. See Wants and Offers.

Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown & Co. have been appointed appraisers to the Public Service Commission.

A store, basement and sub-basement in a modern building is for rent; will divide to suit. See Wants and Offers.

A Lexington av corner, near 59th st, is ripe for alteration, and the price and terms are right. See Wants and Offers.

Advertiser has $500,000 to loan out on second mortgages on flats or tenements in Manhattan. See Wants and Offers.

"Put your money in the ground," said Mr. Joseph P. Day, during a recent auction sale. "Be your own bank president and cashier." This advice brought out cheerful responses.

REAL ESTATE CLASSES, WEST SIDE Y. M. C. A.—OPENING SESSION, 1907.

318 West 57th Street. October 15.

East Side brokers report an unusual demand for saloon sites. "As every saloon wants to get on a corner, it may be necessary to open new streets for their accommodation," said an operator.

Oscar J. Bamberger & Co. have opened a new office for the conducting of a general real estate business at No. 36 West 34th st. The Philadelphia office on Chestnut st will be continued.

A communication from the Chief Engineer to the Board of Estimate shows that the burden assumed by the city for street and park openings during five years will approximate $40,000,000.

The Board of Estimate has passed the resolution to pave with asphalt block East 140th st, between St. Ann's av and Cypress av, Bronx, and St. Mary's st, between St. Ann's and Robbins avs.

Smith and Phelps, of the Bronx, negotiated the building loans on the twelve 3-sty triple brick houses now being erected by Albert Rothermel on the west side of Whitlock av, beginning 250 ft. south of Tiffany st.

A young man wants the management of improved property, renting and collecting. One conversant with the real estate business desires position as stenographer, collector or to do any outside work. See Wants and Offers.

Among the Wants and Offers it will be noticed that an advertiser requires a young man experienced in leasing business property, and a real estate firm needs an experienced rental man, besides an opening presents itself for a real estate canvasser.

Suit has been brought to sell the Yorkville Theatre, at 157 to 161 East 86th st, under foreclosure. The action is taken by William H. Hall against Meyer R. Bimberg, Julius Hurtig and Harry J. Seamon, for failure to live up to the terms of the $120,000 mortgage.

The steel structural work on the proposed Pike st bridge, Manhattan side, is being pushed ahead rapidly, and with its completion property owners in that section expect better rentals and higher prices. There is some talk of a new office building at the Pike st terminal.

The Broadway and Cathedral Parkway Company has borrowed from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company $750,000 on the property at the northwest corner of Broadway and Cathedral Parkway. There is in the course of erection on this plot a 12-sty apartment house.

Plans have been filed for reconverting Nos. 93 and 95 Charles st into private dwellings. These buildings were originally built for dwelling purposes, but were changed into 3-sty tenements some time ago. This case is probably the only one of its kind in the history of real estate in New York.

"Nothing doing with us in real estate," said the secretary of one of the large downtown realty companies yesterday, "until after this flurry in banking finances gets back to a normal level. While we believe that this trouble is all for the best, our people are going to be very conservative for a few weeks."

Hearings will be held on November 22d by the Board of Estimate over the proposed change of map of Manhattan by laying out an extension of West 184th st, from Amsterdam av to the unnamed street adjoining High Bridge Park. Also extending Sixth av and Seventh av southwardly to Varick st, and for widening Varick st, for which three different plans are submitted.

H. W. Watson, of J. Clarence Davies & Co., said that there is an inclination of lenders of money in the Bronx section to raise the rates of interest. Recently 6% interest was demanded for a 50% loan on property situated near 149th st and 3d av. A year ago this loan would have been snapped up at 4½%.

The demand for apartments renting at $45 and under on the West Side, in the neighborhood of 90th st, is unabated. Even five-room apartments at these figures are a scarcity below the Hundreds. Even on Amsterdam av, where before the advent of the subway a filled apartment house was a curiosity, now the reverse is the rule. Changes this fall in that locality have not been up to expectations.

I. T. Flatto, for several years connected with the Bureau of Real Estate in the Department of Finance, has resigned his position to devote his time to the subject and practice of law governing condemnation proceedings, with offices at 150 Nassau st. Mr. Flatto was adviser to Comptroller Grout and Comptroller Metz in many large Board of Estimate and Sinking Fund operations. Several important matters have already been placed in his charge by Comptroller Metz for expert report and analyses, one of them being the Delancey st assessment matter. He has also been retained as counsel on Manhattan Bridge acquirements.

FORDHAM RD.—Acquiring title. Land and land under water with all riparian rights and interests necessary to be taken for the improvement of water front and harbor on the Harlem river in vicinity of Fordham road. Maurice S. Cohen appointed Commissioner of Estimate Oct. 16 in place of Thomas W. Timpson, resigned.

Schmelzlein give notice under date of Oct. 12 to parties interested to present claims and announce hearing for Oct. 28 at noon, at 90 West Broadway.

WILLIAMSBRIDGE ROAD.—Acquiring title. From West Farms road to Silver st. Protests received from the following: Thomas C. Arnow, John Murphy, Michael J. Cooney and about 55 other property owners and residents on Williamsbridge road. Duplicate protest signed by John H. Nichols, Ed. E. Miller, Owen F. Dolan and 18 other property owners and residents of Williamsbridge road; also protest signed by Timothy Power, Louis Olsen, James J. Smith and 13 others. (In re Silver st). The protests referred to read as follows: "The Williamsbridge road is one of the oldest roads in this section, and is about two and one-half miles long, and extends from West Farms road at Westchester Village to White Plains av at Williamsbridge. The part to be taken under this proceeding is in the village of Westchester and is about 1,000 feet in length, which is the business section of the road, improved with large and expensive buildings, while the remaining portion of the Williamsbridge road is vacant property. The widening of this valuable section would make the assessment within this proposed area very heavy and unjust, while if the entire road was opened the full length the expense of acquiring title to the business section of this road would then be levied upon the entire length, and not fall, as under this proceeding, upon this small section. If the Williamsbridge road is to be opened, let it be opened its full length to White Plains av."

WEST 136TH ST.—Paving with asphalt block from Convent av to Amsterdam av, Manhattan. Estimated cost, $4,200. Title to this block of West 136th st has been legally acquired. The street has been graded, curbed and flagged, and all of the subsurface improvements have been provided. St. Nicholas Park adjoins this street on its northerly side. Most of the abutting property on the southerly side has been improved. Improvement authorized by the Board of Estimate.

JACKSON AV.—Paving with block asphalt between 160th and 161st sts. Estimated cost $5,500. Authorized by Board of Estimate.

ANDERSON AV.—Change of drainage plan. Under the plan heretofore adopted the drainage from West 165th st west of Anderson av and from Anderson av south of West 165th st was to be removed eastwardly through a sewer to be built along the line of a drainage street. The engineer in charge of the Sewer Bureau advises that by slightly increasing the size of the sewer in Anderson av between West 165th and West 166th sts, the sewer proposed for the drainage street will not be required. Under the change, which has been authorized by the Board of Estimate, it is believed that the cost of construction will be materially diminished.

HILLSIDE AV.—To acquire title from Nagle av near Broadway to Nagle av near Dyckman st. A hearing will be given by the Board of Estimate Nov. 8. This resolution affects the whole length of Hillside av as laid out upon the map of the city, comprising two long blocks.

The street has a width of 50 feet. It is not in use at the present time, nor are its lines marked upon the ground. A power station of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company stands at the northerly end and a dwelling has been erected near the Broadway terminal. This street is located at or near the foot of the St. George bluff, and its lines and grades are such that it probably will not be called upon to meet heavy traffic requirements. The resolution appears to be a proper one, and its approval is recommended by Chief Engineer Nelson P. Lewis, who also recommends that all of the costs of the proceeding, including the expenses of the Bureau of Street Openings and any damages allowed for intended regulating, be assessed upon the property benefited, and that a district of assessment be laid out to comprise the following area:

Beginning at the intersection of a line 100 feet southwesterly from and parallel with the southwesterly line of Hillside av, the said distance being measured at right angles to the line of Hillside av, with the easterly side of Broadway, and running thence northeastwardly along the southeasterly side of Broadway and the southeasterly line of Nagle av to the intersection with a line distant 100 feet northeasterly from and parallel with the northeasterly side of Hillside av, the said distance being measured at right angles to the line of Hillside av; thence southeastwardly, eastwardly and northeastwardly and always parallel with the northeasterly, northerly and northwesterly line of Hillside av and distant 100 feet therefrom, to the intersection with the southeasterly line of Nagle av; thence northeastwardly and along the southeasterly side of Nagle av and along the prolongation of the said line to the intersection with the prolongation of the westerly line of St. Nicholas av; thence southwardly and along the westerly line of St. Nicholas av and along the prolongation of the said line to the intersection with a line 100 feet southeasterly from and parallel with the southeasterly line of Hillside av, the said distance being measured at right angles to the line of Hillside av; thence southwestwardly, westwardly and northwestwardly and along a line always distant 100 feet from the southeasterly, southerly and southwesterly line of Hillside av, the said distance being measured at right angles to the line of Hillside av, to the point or place of beginning.

A General Sewer Policy Under Consideration.

The city authorities have demurred against the proposition emanating from the engineer in charge of sewers in the Bronx requesting an appropriation for extending a storm relief sewer in Webster av from Wendover av to a line 200 feet north of Tremont av.

This would be another appropriation for the construction of relief sewers at the expense of the city at large. When the last authorization of such sewers was given, the Board of Estimate seriously considered the wisdom of this policy. The demands for large appropriations for various improvements to be paid for by the city without assessment for benefit have assumed such large proportions that it is the judgment of Chief Engineer Nelson P. Lewis that the Board should give careful consideration to such matters and agree, if possible, upon a general policy to govern its future action. Pending this determination probably no action will be taken authorizing the extension of the Webster av relief sewer.

On March 31, 1904, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment adopted a resolution providing for building a tunnel relief sewer to extend from Webster av near Wendover av to the Harlem river near High Bridge, at a cost of $700,000, the same to be placed entirely upon the city. On May 20, 1904, provision was made for acquiring an easement in the land required for the construction and the plan for the sewer was approved. The title proceedings were amended on February 2, 1906, by providing for the acquisition of a fee to the parcel between Macomb's road and Cromwell av, the cost of which was placed upon the city, following the same procedure as had been adopted in the case of the easement proceedings.

In reporting upon the plan for the tunnel relief sewer it was shown that it was intended as the first step in providing relief for the Webster av sewer draining the Mill Brook watershed, and that it would be necessary to provide for an extension northwardly to Pelham av to serve the territory which is without adequate drainage.

With the papers presented by the Borough President, are reports by the chief engineer of the borough and by the engineer in charge of sewers, showing that the tunnel relief sewer will be completed during the present year; that the section along Webster av between Wendover av and Tremont av is the one where greatest damage now occur from flooding; and that the construction of this section may be properly authorized now. The further extension to Pelham av which will ultimately be required it is believed can be deferred several years. The tunnel relief sewer has a diameter of 13 feet 6 inches and a length of about 6,800 feet. The extension along Webster av now proposed is designed to have a diameter ranging from 11 feet to 11 feet 9 inches and a total length of about 3,300 feet. The further extension to Pelham av will have a length of about a mile.

The records of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment show that plans are now under consideration for additional relief sewers and for sewer reconstruction requiring the following additional expenditures:

|---|---|
| Completion of relief sewers for the Borough of Brooklyn | $5,500,000.00 |
| Completion of Webster av relief sewer, Borough of the Bronx (estimated) | 500,000.00 |
| Reconstruction of sewers, Borough of Manhattan | 22,500,000.00 |
| Total | $28,500,000.00 |

Mr. Arthur S. Tuthill, the engineer in charge of the Division of Public Improvements, does not understand that there is any charter provision preventing the levying of an assessment for a sewer built to take the place of one which has been worn out, as in the case of repaving of streets (section 960 of the charter), nor can he see any reason why the property served by the sewer should not bear the cost of the new one required to take its place when its usefulness is outlived.

Annual Meeting of the West Side Association.

At the annual meeting of the West Side Taxpayers' Association, held at 267 West 34th st, resolutions were adopted requesting the Board of Aldermen to license automobiles using the city's parkways and park drives, on the hypothesis that the State license is not a source of revenue to the municipality, and that the cost of maintaining the drives has been largely increased since automobiles became popular.

A vote of thanks to Comptroller Metz was adopted by the association for the inauguration of a department in the Bureau for the Collection of Assessments and Arrears for the purpose of apprising property owners in the Bronx of assessments so that they may avoid the imposition of the seven per cent. penalty for arrears.

The following officers were elected: President, Frank Demuth; first vice-president, Charles Hvass; second vice-president, Herman Schumacher; reading and corresponding secretary, Charles A. Schrag; treasurer, Fred Keller; financial secretary, Julius Neke. Trustees—Dr. Gustav Scholer, Dr. George Wenner and Chris Dohm. Executive Committee and Delegates to the United Real Estate Owners' Associations—Dr. Scholer, Charles A. Schrag, H. Schumacher, Charles Hvass, Edward Appell, Henry Vehslage and Jacob Appell.

A New Service for Bronx Property Owners.

Owners of property in the Bronx will be interested to learn that the City Finance Department has created a section in the Bureau for the collection of Assessments and Arrears, for the purpose of notifying owners of real estate who send in a memorandum of their holdings, of all assessments for street improvements that may hereafter become a charge against the property. An application for such information must be forwarded to the Division of Notifications at the Borough Hall, otherwise no notices will be mailed. The new service does not apply to assessments levied previous to the creation of the new department.

Property Owners Favor Mortgage Investments.

Officers and members of the various property owners' associations are saying that a revival in the mortgage market will follow the heavy withdrawals of funds from the banks. In canvassing the situation, Charles H. Schnelle of 1326 Lexington av, secretary of the Real Estate Owners' Association of the 12th and 19th wards, said that he had talked with many of the members of that body and found them convinced that considerable money which had previously been deposited by them in banks will now seek investment in real estate mortgages. Mr. Schnelle further stated that the effect of the present disturbance in investments will also stimulate the purchase of real property throughout the city.

Mr. Adolph Bloch, of 99 Nassau st, counsel to the United Real Estate Owners' Associations of New York, said that he believed that the low prices in Wall st and the run on the several banks will have nothing less than a salutary effect upon real estate in the City of New York. People will realize that to dabble in Wall st is like a child playing with fire, and that keeping large amounts of money on deposit in trust companies for speculation is equally dangerous:

"I have this week seen not less than twenty clients of mine on the line in front of the Trust Company of America and they have all assured me that the money that they are going to withdraw will be used to pay off their mortgages and for investments in real estate, and I thoroughly approve of this course. The very best investment, and there can be no better, is that of loaning money on improved real estate in the City of New York upon a conservative basis. Real estate is not dependent on the fluctuation of a market. People must live and they must occupy houses and pay rent, and the owner's return as a profit is governed entirely by the amount of rent he receives.

"I think this present panic in banking circles, for such it must really be termed, will be over in a few days and it will have cleared the atmosphere and things will go on as before, but on a safer and more conservative basis."

The Mayor and the Allied Interests.

The Allied Real Estate Interests obtained a second hearing on the proposed 1908 budget by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment on Friday morning in the City Hall.

The Allied Interests, through Mr. M. W. Ehrich, special counsel, protested against the method of procedure of the Board in arriving at its conclusions with regard to the budget. They alleged that they are kept in the dark as to the reasons for the increases or decreases in the appropriations for the several departmental items.

For the city, Mayor McClellan, Comptroller Metz, and President McGowan took part in the discussion, which appeared to be on the point that the Allied Interests are asking for the impossible, insomuch as the budget in its present form is purely tentative and liable to alteration at any time.

The two interests could not get together any closer at this meeting than at the last, and nothing definite was accomplished, except that the Mayor assured the Allied Interests that it is his intention and fixed purpose to reduce the tentative budget in every possible item. When it is finally presented he will give out with it a dictated statement showing the reasons for the several increases and decreases.

This assurance from the Mayor had a pacifying effect, and the hearing came to an abrupt close after a representative of the Bronx Taxpayers' Association protested against the proposed appropriation for the Tenement House Commission.

Belmont Tunnel.

The trustees of the New York & Long Island Railroad Company are now in possession of the Belmont Tunnel, as the Degnon Contracting Company, which built it, finished the contract on the 15th of October, exactly on time, as usual. The Degnons have broken all tunnel records in these parts. They began the work July 14, 1905. The terminal stations and their equipment are still to be finished, and the general railroad equipment is yet to come. No connection with existing subways in Manhattan has yet been made.

In addressing the Flushing Business Men's Association, after their trip through the tunnel, Mr. Belmont said:

"We are open to any fair business proposition—any proposition that will meet the demands of Queens Borough and the city at large. It has been suggested by many persons that the city buy the tunnel outright, and to the great majority this would doubtless be the arrangement most preferred. There have been many discussions also with reference to the Interborough Company operating the tunnel itself, but underlying, there is a sentiment that the city should dictate the terms."

Mr. Belmont said there was a demand for a single fare, but that the Interborough could not operate the tunnel on that basis, except at a loss.

"The Interborough Company never promised a single fare," he continued. "In fact, it never made any promises at all, and as I have said before, the company has no proposition to make, but any fair proposition made to the Interborough Company by the city will be acceptable, and you, as business men, know what a fair business proposition is. Personally, I think it would be a mistake to advocate the operation of the tunnel on a single fare basis. Such a policy might defeat the purposes of the entire movement to put the tunnel in operation. You know as well as I that there are interests which do not want to see this tunnel in operation, and by advocating the single fare you might play into their hands instead of your own."

It is an encouraging sign of the times when the heads of public service corporations are willing to discuss matters with citizens' associations. It is unnecessary to speak of the legal proceedings which may have brought Mr. Belmont into this state of mind, more than to say that while he has the tunnel, the city has the franchise. If a cheap through-trip fare could be agreed upon (with proper compensation to the city for the franchise) there would in all probability be a larger return from the operation of the tunnel than if a high rate should be insisted upon.

Action by The North Side Board of Trade.

ONE of the most influential organizations in the Bronx is the North Side Board of Trade. At the last meeting the following resolutions, offered by Mr. Albert E. Davis, the architect, 138th st and 3d av, were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, A direct East Side subway is the most imperative need of the boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx to-day, and

Whereas, When the present Manhattan-Bronx subway was laid out in 1897 it was confessedly inadequate by reason of the court decision restricting the use of the city's credit to a sum less than $50,000,000, and

Whereas, By the present circuitous route, over two miles out of a straight line, the densely populated East Side of Manhattan and the most thickly populated sections of the Bronx south of 149th st are deprived of the benefits of the city's rapid transit system, therefore be it

Resolved, By the North Side Board of Trade, that the Public Service Commission be earnestly petitioned to seek legislative aid eliminating subway bonds from the debt limit and to take such other steps as will facilitate the early awarding of contracts for the construction of a 3d av subway than which no other route which has been laid out would serve so large a number of persons.

A resolution was also adopted opposing the extension of the fire limits in the Bronx.

Upon motion of Albert E. Davis the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Through the multiplication of clerks and inspectors and the adoption of cumbersome, unintelligent and interminable methods of administration, the Tenement House Act, beneficent in intent, has become oppressive and intolerable to owners, architects and builders, therefore be it

Resolved, By the North Side Board of Trade, that Mayor McClellan be respectfully requested to investigate the workings of the Tenement House Department with a view to its reorganization and simplification, and to determine whether it would not be in the public interest to recommend that the city charter and the Tenement House Act be revised and amended so as to consolidate the Tenement House Department with the Bureau of Buildings.

President Stephens appointed J. Harris Jones, William H. Stonebridge and Albert E. Davis a committee to appear before the Board of Estimate and oppose any increase in the appropriation for the Tenement House Department for the ensuing year.

Street Changes in the Dyckman Tract.

A hearing will be given by the Board of Estimate Nov. 8 in regard to the following changes in the map, as recommended by the Local Board of Washington Heights: (1) Change in the line of Seaman av between Dyckman st and Academy st. (2) Laying out a new street between Dyckman st and Academy st, to extend from Seaman av to Broadway. (3) Change in the line of Bolton road between Seaman av and Prescott st.

Under the proposed changes Seaman av is to meet Dyckman st at right angles and about midway between Broadway and F St. This change will afford a better division of the territory for development than does the layout heretofore adopted.

A straight alignment is proposed for the Bolton road in place of the curved one shown upon the map heretofore adopted. The new street proposed between Seaman av and Broadway will sub-divide a block which would otherwise have a length of about 650 feet and a depth ranging from about 250 feet to about 475 feet. A two and one-half story brick building stands almost wholly within the lines of the street. Seaman av is to have a width of 80 feet to correspond with that fixed for the street north of Academy st, while the widths of the two other streets is, in each case, to be 60 feet.

The change is requested by the owners of a large portion of the property traversed by the street described, the same including the land occupied by the building referred to as located within the lines of one of the streets. A narrow roadway exists along the Bolton road and within the lines of Seaman av north of the Bolton road, aside from which no one of the streets named is in use at the present time.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

THE FINANCIAL PANIC, from which the country is partially recovering, may prove to be an awful blessing, provided it results in some practicable and adequate scheme of currency reform. It is ridiculous that a business community should have itself exposed to panics of this kind, when their acuteness could be very much mitigated by the adoption of a sound and elastic currency system. The discouraging aspect of the situation is, however, that the measures of reform proposed by the bankers themselves are by no means either as elastic or as sound as they should be. The plan for a so-called asset currency, which could be issued when money was in demand and automatically retired when it was not in demand, is not in accordance with sound banking principles, because it provides for an increase of promises to pay while at the same time doing nothing to increase the reserve of lawful money. It is rarely brought out in the current discussions of this problem that the fundamental difficulty consists in the character of the currency issued by the national banks. The national bank notes are issued irrespective of the actual demand by the business world for currency. Their amount is not diminished in times of easy money, and now when there is a famine in the money market, the Comptroller has to beg the banks to issue as much currency as they are legally entitled to issue. The consequence is that in periods of inactive business, speculation is encouraged by an excess of currency, while in periods of stringency, liquidation is necessitated by the absence of any automatic increase in the circulating medium. It so happens, however, that both the government and the national banks would be unfavorably affected by any change in the method of issuing these notes. The government obtains much better prices for its bonds because of the demand on the part of the national banks, while the banks, which have purchased bonds at high prices for currency purposes, stand to lose a good deal, as a result of a change in the currency system. The difficulty will remain as long as the present system endures, and public opinion should begin to understand that under these conditions important banking interests are engaged in the conservation of a system which is opposed to sound banking principles, and consequently to the public interest.

ANOTHER RESULT of the financial crisis should be a different attitude on the part of depositors towards national banks as compared to trust companies for banking purposes. The trust companies have been increasing enormously in popularity, because of the interest which they paid for accounts, but depositors must realize that when they need their money most they may have to pay too dear for such interest. In all the trust companies which were, or were supposed to be, in difficulties, an ordinary depositor practically could not get his money, so that even if these companies did not nominally suspend, their condition was for his purpose equivalent to a suspension. But a national bank, as a member of the Clearing House Association, was obliged either to settle up or really to suspend; and if it were solvent it found means to settle up. Its depositors could get their money, in case they needed it, and the depositors in trust companies should be placed in a similar situation. Either the trust companies should be admitted to the Clearing House Association, or else depositors should transfer their accounts to banks that cannot be placed in the equivocal position of partially suspending payment. Fortunately it looks as if this second alternative will not be necessary. It is probable that the trust companies will anticipate corrective legislation by joining the Clearing House, and by conforming to every condition that is demanded by such a change of policy. If this change is brought about it will enormously strengthen the organization of the banks in this city, and improve the city's standing as the financial centre of the country.

THE SALE of the Port Chester and the Westchester roads to the New York & New Haven has passed almost without notice during the excitement of the week, but it is none the less an event of prime importance. These roads were both planned for the particular purpose of competing with the New Haven, and obtained their franchises from the local authorities with that express purpose in view. Now that they have been absorbed by the railroad corporation with which they were supposed to compete, it looks very much as if the inhabitants of Westchester County and the Bronx, who had worked hard for the purpose of encouraging the proposed competition, had been dished. Certain it is that the New Haven company will under existing conditions enjoy a virtual monopoly of the rapid transit privileges of the eastern part of the Bronx and Westchester; but we doubt whether the interests of the residents of that vicinity will suffer thereby. The Record and Guide has never believed in the value of competition in improving the transit service in and near a large city. The New Haven company will be in a position to give the people who live along the line of the two roads a better service than would an independent company. It may not be quite so eager to build; but when the time for building comes, it will control larger resources and can afford to inaugurate a better service. In one respect particularly should it be able to supply its patrons with more adequate means of rapid transit. The great defect of the plans, both of the Port Chester and Westchester companies, was that they failed to make any provision for the transportation of their passengers south of the Harlem. They terminated at the beginning of the Lenox Avenue Subway or a little further south, and their passengers would have been obliged to transfer to the Subway or elevated road. Under these conditions their value to their patrons would have been very much diminished. Such roads cannot give their passengers genuine rapid transit without a four-track line all the way to the City Hall. It is true that the New Haven Railroad is at the present time as incompetent in this respect as is either the Port Chester or Westchester company, but it is inconceivable that it will remain so. Surely the purchase of these roads means that the New Haven company will become a bidder for a four-track East Side Subway. Such a Subway, or even two such Subways, are absolutely necessary for the development of its system north of the Harlem River. It may be predicted with confidence that the New Haven company will within the next ten years build a Manhattan subway, and that it will own an independent terminus in that borough. The management of the road is too capable and too enterprising to overlook the necessity for such a development.

THE EFFECT of the financial crisis on the real estate market is, of course, for the time being, practically to prohibit business. But its ultimate effect will probably be to hasten the day when real estate and building can resume their normal activity, because its ultimate effect will be to accelerate the process of business contraction. if no crisis had occurred, the tide of general business would have receded very slowly; and it might have been a year or more before money would have become released in sufficient quantity for real estate and building operations. Now, however, a sharp contraction is necessarily taking place; and painful as the process is, it will at least have the effect of relieving the strain on the money market very much sooner. Probably money will be extremely plentiful in a few months, and when it becomes plentiful again, it is not likely to be used to any considerable extent for a recovery in the stock market. A certain rebound in the price of stocks will probably occur as soon as the crisis is safely over; but it will not be carried very far, because the evidences of a reaction in business will become too palpable and too abundant. Railway earnings will begin to decline, and questions will begin to be raised whether they can maintain their dividends. Stocks, consequently, are not likely to find their normal level until it becomes definitely ascertained how far the business reaction will go, and what its effects will be. In the meantime, however, real estate speculation may reap the benefit of this hesitating attitude. Of course, real estate also, particularly in the business districts, will feel the effects of the business reaction; and it is probable that a marked decline will take place in the number of new loft and office buildings erected. But on the whole the real estate market will suffer less than the stock market and general business. By next spring there should be room for the resumption of tenement-house building; and such a resumption will surely take place provided money becomes as plentiful as now seems probable. Speculation will also revive in unimproved property in the middle reaches of Manhattan, and the development of the suburbs, particularly on Long Island and New Jersey, will be resumed. The tide of business may rise and fall, but the growth of a city like New York never ceases, and it will keep on providing multiplied opportunities for operations in real estate.

How Title Insurance Protects

By WALTER LINDNER*

WHEN a transaction in real estate is undertaken some inquiry must be made whether the intending investor or lender will acquire that for which money is about to be paid. Real estate is a permanent possession passing from hand to hand and attached to its ownership are many technical legal incidents which make it necessary that this inquiry be entrusted to lawyers or to professional conveyancers. This work divides into two parts, investigation of facts, and the application of legal principles to the state of facts which appears from such investigation.

A person entering upon a real estate transaction may employ a lawyer or conveyancer to do this work, accepting the liability of the professional man thus employed as a sufficient assurance concerning the title to be acquired. If this is done, the limits of that liability must be clearly understood. The basic principle is that the lawyer or conveyancer is liable only for professional diligence and the application of ordinary skill to the problem. He does not guarantee that the facts which seem to be ascertained from his investigation are true, nor does he insure that the opinion which he expresses concerning the title, is well founded in law. The result of that is that if any of the information from which the conclusions of fact was drawn, be insufficient or untrue, but if the attorney has sought information from the usual sources in the ordinary manner, he is under no liability and the client carries the risk of error.

For instance, if statements of heirship be untrue, if recorded instruments be forged, or if searches made by official searchers be inaccurate, an attorney proceeding according to the usual methods of the profession in examining titles but who had been misinformed or misled, would not be liable but the loss would fall on the person who had invested money upon the advice founded on the erroneous information. Even if all facts necessary to be ascertained be accurately found or if the facts not ascertained but which might influence the result turned out not to cause loss, there still are numerous important and complicated questions of law to be considered with relation to the examination of every title to real property. All that an attorney undertakes in that regard is to render an opinion upon the validity of the title, using ordinary skill and applying reasonable professional learning. If, applying such skill and learning the conclusion is erroneous the attorney is not liable but the client carries the risk.

Title insurance protects better than an attorney's examination and opinion, because a policy of title insurance assumes for the insurer all the risks which are thrown upon an attorney and also all the risks which an attorney throws upon his employer, and expresses that liability in a definite instrument. Even though an attorney be liable, it may be years before a defect is discovered or a loss happens, and then the attorney may not be found, may have become insolvent or may be dead, and the holder of his abstract and opinion be remediless.

Title insurance protects better than attorney's examination because title insurance companies properly conducted do not become insolvent, cannot die and always respond to their obligations. Title insurance protects because it is known that titles insured by the companies have been examined with the best skill available and with the aid of the mechanism of the best searching plants which can be devised. The result of this is that an owner of property who is known to have a policy of title insurance upon his property is enabled to deal with it freely, purchasers contract with him knowing that his title is not only good but will also be insured to them, lenders consider applications favorably knowing that they can get mortgage policies quickly and can begin soon to earn interest on the sums to be invested.

Title insurance protects because the resources of the companies are ample to respond to any possible losses. The share capital of the companies is more than a sufficient indemnity fund and that is fortified by accumulations of surplus and by stockholders' liability. State registration systems which do not usually involve insurance to the holders of certificates, even if there be superadded an insurance system, have no such guaranties back of them. The only fund which is ready to respond immediately to claims of loss is the accumulation of premiums which at the rates usually provided for in adopted systems would result in an accumulation of $1,000 when risks amounting to $1,000,000 have been assumed.

Title insurance protects because the insurers are liable to their policy holders in the first instance, while under any registration system it is necessary that the certificate holder or person injured by the registration, even if entitled to resort to the indemnity fund, must at his own expense as to counsel fees and costs, exhaust his remedies against all other persons before resorting to the fund. In view of the paucity of the fund this is a necessary safeguard.

Title insurance protects because it is conducted by business men upon business principles and must therefore construe its policies liberally and meet claims promptly in manner satisfactory to the policy holder.

Objection is heard from time to time that title insurance does not protect because the companies decline to assume the risk of insuring titles which upon examination are found to be encumbered or invalid or which are liable to successful attack. This charge is founded upon a misunderstanding of the purposes and theory of title insurance. A policy of title insurance should indemnify against all undisclosed defects in the title; all defects which are known should be cured, or if a purchaser or lender desires to take the title of which it is known that it is defective, it is not proper that because the insured desires to speculate and take the possible profits of his speculation, he should throw the risk of known defects upon the title insurance companies. To do this is similar to asking a fire insurance company to issue its policy at ordinary rates upon a risk known to be extra hazardous, or while the property is burning. The companies try to insure all titles which appear to be good and marketable. If they sometimes err in judgment the error is in good faith and not by reason of a capricious declination to issue policies. The companies, being conducted by successful business men, know better than anyone else, that they can make many times more money out of the titles which they insure than out of the titles which they reject.

Title insurance protects the entire real estate community, the policy holders and all others, because the title insurance companies have become the known exchanges and markets for mortgage loans. Before this market was thus centralized, real estate was liable to be influenced immediately by every panicky condition, whether financial or inherent in the real estate business. Now the companies are naturally looked to to protect the real estate market from every such influence, and they have repeatedly done it successfully.

Title insurance protects because it is the natural outgrowth of our institutions and business conditions and is not an alien system attempted to be engrafted upon our institutions, and finally because there is no necessity for waiting until the United States Supreme Court has passed upon many doubtful questions of constitutional law before it can be determined whether the obligations of the title insurance companies are enforceable against them.

A "Skyscraper School."

The latest "wrinkle" in the way of an institution of learning is the "skyscraper school." It is conducted by the West Side Young Men's Christian Association, in 57th st. Its aim is to train men for a work that is becoming more and more important in New York and other cities, that of erecting high buildings. Successful architects, engineers and contractors have direction of the new school. Instruction is given in structural engineering, structural draughting and detailing, estimating, plan reading, and general building construction. The students are taught to work out plans, and to translate those plans into prices, materials or the completed building.

The strength, the weight and the fireproof qualities of different materials are impressed upon those who attend the school. In the buildings under construction all over New York they see illustrations of the lectures which they hear in the classroom. Most of the students are clerks in the offices of architects and contractors. There are some real estate men, too.

Sites for Public Structures.

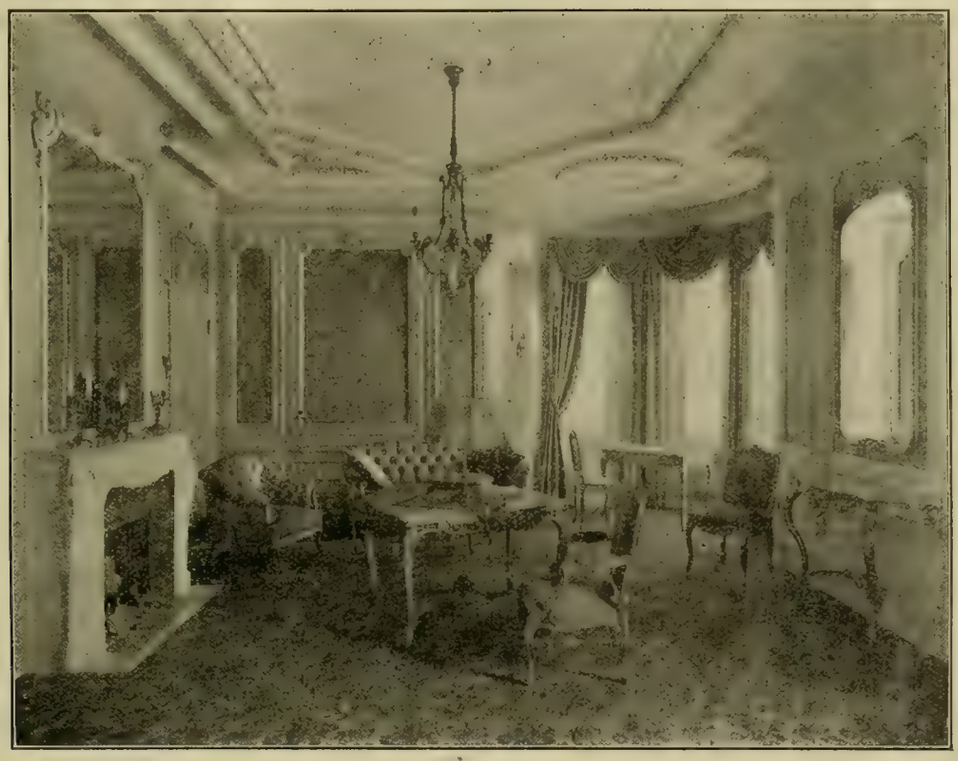
CHANGE PROPOSED BY THE ART COMMISSION IN THE MANNER OF SELECTING THEM.

THINGS are never just right. The Art Commission believes it should have more power. By the charter this board is the judge of art for municipal buildings, but not of location. Hence President Robert W. de Forest considers that it is placed in a delicate position. He does not exactly recommend that the duty of selecting sites for public structures be assigned to the Art Commission, but to a central authority, to which the Art commission would be adviser:

The question of location is of great importance. A mean or inartistic building is not only made more objectionable and ugly by giving it a prominent location, but excellent sites are all too few in any city, and they should be reserved for worthy buildings. A beautiful structure, upon the other hand, loses much of its beauty if placed in a poor location where it is elbowed by commonplace structures and so shut in that no proper view may ever be obtained. It is important, therefore, that the questions of artistic merit and value should be considered at the earliest stage before the city is committed to the acquisition of any location.

The city annually acquires a large number of pieces of property to be used as sites for public structures. In the main these sites have been selected purely from utilitarian considerations, principally cheapness, and are scattered about without any apparent relation one to the other. Of course there must be a certain amount of geographical distribution, but it is equally true that by using a little foresight certain foci might be created where there would be grouped the public buildings in that immediate neighborhood.

Take for example, Stuyvesant square. Within four minutes' walk from the park, there are four buildings which are owned and used by the city, but not one of them faces the park. Within the same area, there are sixteen semi-public buildings, such as churches, hospitals and charitable institutions, and six of them face the park. About Tompkins square, there are five semi-public buildings, but not one building belonging to the city, although there are six within a short distance. Seward Park is faced by only one public building, but there are seven within three minutes' walk, and there are two semi-public buildings which front upon it. Union square and Washington square can boast of no public buildings upon their borders; and Madison Square, Hamilton Fish Park, Mulberry Bend Park and Battery Park are each favored with only one; yet in every case, there are several public buildings in the immediate neighborhood which might have been grouped about these parks. The uptown parks are even more lacking than those down town. In Brooklyn, several public buildings recently erected near the new McLaughlin Park might easily have been located so as to front upon it. A number of other similar instances in that borough might be cited.



In spite of the evident reasons from the art point of view and the many utilitarian advantages arising from the grouping of the pubic buildings, Mr. de Forest considers that little has yet been accomplished in New York City. The only focus approaching a civic centre is City Hall Park where there are four municipal buildings, and soon to be five. Scores of buildings have been erected throughout the city in recent years, and many of them might have been grouped about the small parks. Since 1880, only a half dozen building sites on parks have been chosen by the city south of 23d st out of upwards of sixty sites acquired, and no attention has been paid to any plan for artistic grouping.

Plans for the grouping of public buildings have been formulated in several American cities, notably Washington, Cleveland, St. Louis, San Francisco, Minneapolis, Buffalo and Hartford. In Europe, much more has been actually accomplished than in the United States.

The financial side of the solution is also attractive in the view of Mr. de Forest:

The cost of the land for Seward Park was $1,811,127—an average cost per lot of about $39,000—which includes not only the land but the buildings thereon. It is reasonably accurate to say that the properties facing the park could have been purchased at the same time for the same amount per lot. Now, since 1894, when the project of a park in this district was first pushed, several lots have been acquired for public purposes in the immediate neighborhood of Seward Park, at an average of $35,000 per lot, without buildings. Therefore, if the lots bordering on Seward Park had been acquired when the park lands were bought, and if they had rented for amounts equal to the repairs, lost taxes and interest at the low rate paid by the city in the meantime—a reasonable supposition—the city to-day would not have had to pay as much for the fine sites on Seward Park as for the sites it has purchased in inferior locations.

It may be asserted that the price of land has risen throughout the East Side, and that this is merely equivalent to saying that if the city had purchased in 1894 the sites that it had to buy in 1906, it would have profited by the increase in land values. This is true in part, but it is also said that it is the laying out of a park by the city's own action that has caused, to a considerable extent, the rise in values. This is shown by a comparison of the assessed values of lots fronting the park and those at a considerable distance not affected by the creation of the park.

THE PLAZA—TYPICAL DRAWING ROOM.

From 1894 to 1906 the total assessed valuation of ten lots fronting Seward Park, with buildings that have not been changed during the period, increased 115 per cent. In the same period the average increase for lots with the same sort of buildings, but at a considerable distance from the park, increased only about 80 per cent. The increase in both instances was due in part to the raising of the ratio of assessed value to real value and the rise in real estate values generally, but the additional increase of 35 per cent. was due to the effect of the park. In other words, the city lays out the park and assumes the burden, but when it wishes to buy certain lots fronting on the park, it is asked to pay 35 per cent. more because by its own act it has made the lots it now wishes that much more valuable. President de Forest therefore asks in the annual report of the Art Commission just printed, "Why should not the city be authorized to do what a private corporation would do, viz., buy what additional land it was likely to need and thus save a considerable sum besides securing the suitable locations it ought to have for its public buildings?"

New Theatre For Union Hill.

Property consisting of three lots with a frontage of 75 feet in Lewis st, and 100 feet on New York av, Union Hill, N. J., has just been purchased as a site for a new theatre building. The Star Theatre Company, capitalized at $100,000, organized by John and Joseph Hass, of 320 Union st, and Lawyer George Frankenstein, 414 Lewis st, Union Hill, will erect the structure, which they approximate will cost about $75,000. The material will be of light brick and limestone, and will contain a parquet, balcony and gallery, with a seating capacity of 1,200. No building contracts have yet been issued.

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

What Builders Need Most in the Law.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The article in the editorial columns of your last week's issue, entitled "Regulations that Conflict," is very timely and to the point, and must receive the emphatic endorsement of every fair-minded reader, especially that part where you state that "it almost seems that the day may arrive when every brick and every trowel full of mortar will have to be duly inspected and regimented into position by a half-dozen departments" and also, "We cannot go much further without throwing building operations into a state of confusion." In so far as this latter applies to the Tenement House Department it has been for some time "confusion worse confounded."

There is no industry in New York City so vitally connected with its growth and progress than the building business. "As is the prosperity of the iron industry, so is the prosperity of the country; as is the prosperity of the building industry, so is the prosperity of the city." And the erection of tenement houses is a very important part of this. Such being the case one might assume that the city authorities would be especially interested in its progress and would give the men engaged in this industry every facility to perform their work with the least possible friction.

In the Building Departments of the various boroughs we find that the architects and builders get more or less sympathy, but as soon as we touch the Tenement House Department this all disappears, and we begin to feel that we are being treated like a gang of criminals. In fact, any man who reads the Tenement House Law of 1901 must feel that the men who drew it must have had the same spirit in mind.

If this seems to be a harsh statement of the case let any man visit the headquarters of the department at 44 East 23d st in the company of an architect or builder who is going there to amend his plans and see if what I state is not so. The latest addition, I understand, is a cage similar to that ordinarily used in connection with a court house, and from which the architect or builder is called when his turn comes. I understand that it is not unusual to be kept waiting there for from one to two hours, and in some cases, even after waiting that long, to be informed that the gentleman whom they are waiting to interview is so busy that he cannot see any more today.

If the above is a true statement of the facts, then it is time that the property owners, builders and taxpayers' associations should take the matter up and see that justice is done. It does not seem credible that in a great city like New York the administration of so important a department should be placed in the hands of men who are really theorists, with no practical knowledge of the building business, and that during the present year they were allowed to spend $669,000 of taxpayers' money to exploit their theories, and that for the next year they actually wanted $79,000 additional, notwithstanding that tenement house building throughout the city had almost ceased.

We all believe fully in building good houses for the poor (and the non-poor) to live in, with adequate provision for light, air, sanitation and cleanliness, but we do not believe that the architects, builders and owners of tenement houses should be subjected to the one thousand and one violations on little matters which in the end amount to a system of petty persecution. What we need in the Tenement House Department is a commissioner who delegates his powers to no man.

I notice in another column of your issue that there has been a suggestion from somewhere that the Tenement House Department be turned over to the Department of Charities. What in thunder has the Charities Department to do with building the "Ansonia" and similar buildings at $24,000 per annum an apartment? And they also suggest that the Department of Buildings be turned over to the Department of Bridges and Docks! What in name of turf has bridges and docks got to do with the erection of the Singer Building or the little frame dwelling that a man may be building in Williamsbridge? Are not these departments already cumbersome enough?

What we do need most is a consolidation under one roof of all departments that are in any way related to the erection of buildings in the boroughs in which they are to be erected, and all directly under the control and direction of the Borough Presidents. Then we can have some system and the voters will know where to place the responsibility for management or mismanagement as the case may be.

J. H. JONES.

Prevailing Rates of Wages.

A number of working plans in individual trades will expire on December 31 and negotiations are in progress for new agreements.

This (Saturday) afternoon there will be a convention composed of five delegates from each of forty-six trades at Labor Hall in East 53d st, when the subject of agreements for 1908 will be talked over. But in general, conditions affecting property interests are pretty well settled.

During the year negotiations for a settlement of the question of which mason trade, the bricklayers or the cement masons, shall do reinforced concrete work, have been proceeding, and a decision has just been rendered by the Arbitration Board in favor of the cement masons. These are the mechanics who lay cement sidewalks and floors, concrete foundations, and do all the various kinds of work that is done with concrete. The old-fashioned way was for a mason to do everything in the line of masonry—bricklaying, cement masonry, tile masonry, stone masonry, plastering and lathing—and this is still the rule in small places. But here in New York a bricklayer must not do cement work, tile work, plastering nor anything but bricklaying.

TILE SURFACE FOR CONCRETE BUILDINGS.

This decision is considered a heavy blow for the bricklayers. Mr. Ross Tomkins, the secretary of the Board of Agents for the Building Trades, himself an all-around mason, is inclined to take this view, as he is of the opinion that reinforced concrete has a great future in this city and vicinity, as well as throughout the country. His advices from San Francisco are that concrete is being heavily used in rebuilding the city and that beautiful work is being done by facing the concrete dwellings and buildings with tile. This, says Mr. Tomkins, is the answer to the question—"How can we make concrete beautiful?" We have learned to make it strong. Mr. Tomkins is persuaded that it is only a question of time when tile surfaces for concrete buildings will become the vogue in New York.

WAGE SCHEDULE.

Prevailing Rate of Wages—Issued October 1, 1907, by the Building Trades of New York City and vicinity, through the office of the Consolidated Board of Business Agents of the Building Trades. Headquarters, Groll's Hall, 145-147 East 53d st, New York City. (Phone 336 Plaza.) This schedule is based on 8 hours per day, except on Saturdays, when work ceases in the Building Trades at noon.

Bulletins from the Tenement House Department.

BULLETIN NO. 14.—In all cases where it is proposed to amend Alteration Plans, after completion of work, for the purpose of removing violations filed against the work as done, it is required that the notice of violation be submitted with the amendment to the Plan Clerk. Amendments to completed alteration plans will not otherwise be accepted, but new plans and application must be filed. The "Reference Copy" need not be returned for such amendment.

BULLETIN NO. 13.—The Tenement House Department has recently made an examination of nearly 2,500 long hopper water closets located in yards of tenement houses throughout the entire city, the same being the entire number installed since the inauguration of the department, under plans conditionally accepted by it (the condition being that the closets should be maintained frostproof). The winter as a whole has been extremely mild, and the weather immediately preceding and during the examination was not at all severe, the temperature at no portion of the period having been below 4 degrees above zero. The department found that one-quarter of all the closets were frozen, and out of service on this account.

In consquence of this examination and the results observed, it has been decided that the department will no longer approve plans filed with it for the installation of long-hopper closets in yards of tenements, unless the plans indicate that the following conditions will exist:

(1) There will be a separate elevated flush tank for each closet.
(2) Such tanks will be located in a properly insulated space or enclosure.
(3) This space or enclosure will be properly heated and ventilated.
(4) The heating device will be of sufficient power to prevent the freezing of the tanks therein.

BULLETIN NO. 12.—Plans and applications that are filed for the alteration of any tenement house, and which include changes in or additions to the plumbing system of such a building, shall be accompanied by a drainage plan. Such plan must show clearly and distinctly the house drain or connections thereto and their material and diameters, the direction in which they run, and the point at which the house drain leaves the building to connect with the house sewer outside of the building. If, in the examination of any plan, it is discovered that the house drain connects with the drainage system of another building, it will be required that the plumbing system of the building in question be disconnected from the plumbing system of the building or buildings adjoining, and connected directly with the public sewer in the street, in front of the premises, if such public sewer is found to exist.

Jersey City's New Building Code.

Jersey City is now working under a new building code, which recently was adopted by the Board of Aldermen and approved by the Mayor. The code commissioners were Messrs. Hugh Roberts, an architect, William Robertson, a builder, and Edlow W. Harrison, a mechanical engineer.

The model code recommended by the National Board of Fire Underwriters was followed closely in essentials, as: Height and area; thickness of walls for mercantile, manufacturing and dwelling house classes; protection for all vertical openings; regulations for construction of fireproof buildings; regulations for all heating and similar devices; chimney flues, ducts and vent shafts; reinforced concrete construction; requirements foor roof coverings which prohibit shingle or other combustible roofs within the city limits; the theatre section which provides that all theatres shall be absolutely fireproof and equipped with automatic sprinklers and other facilities for extinguishing fires; standards for fire doors and shutters, wire-glass window protection, automatic sprinkler installations, requirements for standpipe and hose for internal protection, and other provisions for the protection of property. New fire limits have also been established.

A Wire Glass Test.

Recently the works of the Consolidated Color & Chemical Co., Newark, N. J., were totally destroyed by fire. Owing to the kind of business the flames were unusually fierce, the quality of the chemicals in combustion making about as ugly a fire as it is possible to imagine. Fortunately the buildings were equipped with metal frames in which quarter-inch ribbed and polished Mississippi wire glass were glazed, in accordance with the rules and regulations of the fire underwriters. Although 606 lights of the ribbed wire glass were much cracked and discolored, they are still all in place. Ninety-six plates of polished wire glass were also cracked, but they have been weather-proof and admit a free view and transmission of light. The tin clad fire underwriter's door in the south end of the varnish building appears to have suffered greater depreciation than the windows. The monitor and pitched sky lights glazed with wire glass resisted the fire equally as well as the windows.

Fireproofing the Highest Dome in the World.

Nearly six hundred feet above crowded Broadway, workmen on the Singer Building have begun to fireproof the highest dome in the world. Only a fringe of the terra cotta blocks is visible at first, many stories above the brick work. Gradually the fringe will widen, upward and downward, until it covers the entire curved surface.

Extraordinary cool-headedness is required for this task. From Broadway the men engaged in it look like flies on the side of a wall. Thousands of people, on the street and in the high buildings, gaze up at the workmen every hour of the day.

On the dome alone there are 8,500 square feet of fireproofing hollow tile. Of the same material 230,000 square feet are used for the floors and 412 square feet for the partitions. In the whole building, as far as the structural part is concerned, it is said that there is not a bushel of combustible matter.

The exterior brick and stone are laid up to the thirty-seventh story at present. The unusual speed in the outside masonry work is partly due to the time saved in the construction of floors and partitions. In a day and a quarter six men can lay the 4,096 square feet of floor for one story. After one day, allowed for "setting," the floor is ready for use.

Foreign Trade Opportunities.

(Inquiries in which addresses are omitted are on file at Bureau of Manufactures. In applying for addresses refer to file number.)

No. 1565. Electrical apparatus.—An American consul in the United Kingdom states that there is no importing of electrical apparatus at the place in question, but a merchant there, whose name he gives, would like to communicate with makers of such apparatus and thinks it probable that he and others might become importers.

No. 1566. Gas engines or gasoline engines.—An American consul in southern Asia furnishes the name of a business firm which would like to hear from American manufacturers of gas engines adapted to the use of "liquid fuel." The engine most in vogue is of 8 to 20 brake horsepower. Catalogues and quotations c. i. f., the place in question, are requested. Two newspaper woodcuts of the type of engine have been received by the Bureau of Manfactures and will be loaned to interested manufacturers.

No. 1567. Catalogues for foreign chamber of commerce.—One of the American consuls in Europe writes that the chamber of commerce in his district will be glad to receive and keep on file catalogues of American wares, and will call the attention of intending purchasers of foreign goods to them. This chamber of commerce has within its jurisdiction very large manufacturing and exporting interests which often desire foreign machinery and wares. As its influence extends to the importer as well as to the exporter, the consul sees no better method, except that of personal representation, for American exporters to call the attention of the buyers in his district to their goods than to mail their catalogues as requested. Advertising matter and catalogues in German, or partly so, would be preferred, although those in English will be acceptable.

No. 1569. Metal ceilings.—An American consular officer in southern Europe writes that a business man at the place in question would like to communicate with manufacturers of metal ceilings like a cut of which he forwards. This business man feels confident that a good sale of such ceilings can be effected.

No 1571. Competent engineer wanted.—One of the American consuls in Canada writes that the officials at the place in question are desirous of improving the navigation of a certain river and of securing the services of a competent engineer who has had experience in similar work, and who can give them information as to the development work needed, the probable cost, and the time needed to secure the improvement in navigation needed.

No. 1555. Egyptian public works and supplies.—Consul-General L. M. Iddings, of Cairo, has forwarded to the Bureau of Manufactures specifications for bids for certain public works and supplies required by the Egyptian government: (1) Electric installation for the quays at Alexandria; (2) hospital clothing; (3) bridge over the Bahr-el-Aama Canal; (4) road bridge over Nile at Boulac and at Cairo, respectively (limit Dec. 26). Full details and plans in both English and French may be secured from the Bureau.

No. 1556. Brass foundry and soda factory.—A limited liability company in India is desirous of adding a brass foundry and soda factory to their business, and ask to be furnished with estimates of cost of the necessary buildings and machinery. Address Director-General of Commercial Intelligence, Calcutta, India.

No. 1558. Electric fans.—One of the American consuls in Europe gives the name of a business firm in the city in question who would be glad to hear from makers of or dealers in electric fans.

No. 1559. American representative in China.—An American, who is now in China, writes to the Bureau of Manufactures that he has spent the past 18 years there and is quite familiar with the Chinese language. He states that he would like to establish business relations with the Chinese and represent American goods to them.

No. 1560. Bridge construction.—The "Bulletin Commercial" contains a notice to the effect that tenders are invited for the construction of a metal bridge for the railway over the road from Marcinelle to Couillet, at Charleroi, Belgium. The estimated cost is 30,580 francs (franc, 19 3-10 cents), and a deposit of 3,500 francs is required to qualify any tender. Information may be obtained by addressing M. Heymans, ingenieur en chef, Directeur de Service, Avenue des Viaducs 8, Charleroi, Belgium.

No. 1562. Railway bridges.—Bids will be received until Dec. 31 for the construction of five railway bridges in Chile. Address Minister of Communications and Public Works, Santiago, Chile.

No. 1570. Automobiles.—One of the American consular officers in Europe forwards the name of a business firm which would like to hear from American makers of automobiles in regard to the sale of their cars. He also adds the names of two other firms which might be interested. Correspondence with the first firm alluded to may be held in English.

New Long Acre Square Theatre Plans.

BROADWAY.—Plans for the new playhouse which Charles B. Dillingham, David H. Taylor and Frederick Manners are about ot erect at No. 1555 Broadway (west side of the street) and Nos. 203 to 217 West 46th st., with a frontage of 23.10x89 feet on Broadway and 139 feet on 46th st., will not be ready for figures for some time yet. At the office of the architects, Messrs. Carrere & Hastings, 5th av., and 26th st., it was learned on Wednesday that only preliminary drawings have been prepared. The combined properties make up a plot of the size and shape most in demand among theatre builders; that is, with enough Broadway frontage to provide a suitable entrance connecting with a larger parcel of less valuable ground on a side street. The plot has a total area of about 16,000 feet, so that it will be one of the largest playhouses yet established in the amusement centre around the square. The Record and Guide announced the project several weeks ago, also the sale of this property by the Shanley Bros., through the McVickar-Gaillard Realty Co. as brokers, but the buyers' names at that time were withheld. The estimated cost of the building, it is figured, will reach about $1,000,000, while the site is said to have cost $600,000. The theatre will be called the "Gaiety."

Particulars of Sheffield Farms New Uptown Plant.

The Record and Guide was informed on Tuesday, with reference to the new sanitary pasteurization bottling plant which the Sheffield Farms-Slawson, Decker Co. proposes to establish on a plot, 91x150 ft., on the south side of Manhattan st, near Broadway, that so far no plans have been perfected or building details determined upon. The company's milk depot in 57th st, west of 10th av, completed nearly two years ago at a cost of about $340,000, is the most complete and up-to-date plant for handling dairy products in this city. It is intended that the uptown structure, when erected, will be constructed along almost similar designs. In the 57th st plant are found many noteworthy features, suggested by similar establishments in Europe, which are highly recommended by the Board of Health. The building is six stories in height and 75x100 ft. in ground dimensions. Frank A. Rooke, 489 5th av, was the architect and Messrs. Dawson & Archer, 150 5th av, were general contractors. "Constant Reader."—Jamaica has, since a previous note in this column, obtained a loan of £800,000 from the British Parliament. By the terms of the measure the treasury may advance by way of loan to the government of Jamaica, for the purpose of restoring, replacing, or improving public and other buildings damaged by the recent earthquake and subsequent fire in the colony or purchasing sites for new buildings to replace the same, or for the purpose of making loans to persons within the colony on such security and terms of repayment as may be authorized by the legislature of the colony for the purpose of restoring or replacing such buildings so damaged, or in other ways in repairing the loss and damage caused by the earthquake and fire, any sums not exceeding in the whole £800,000. Loans will be repayable by annuities of fixed amounts, running from seven to twenty years, with annual charges payable quarterly, and provision is made for interest at 3½ per cent. per annum and for the repayment of the principal within the period for which these annuities are made.

New Catalogues.

VALVES AND HYDRANTS.—An illustrated catalogue from the Kennedy Valve Mfg. Co., 131 pp. It represents the dimensions, price lists and all other details as upon the date of issue, July 1. A word about the hydrants: These are so constructed that in case of any obstruction or occasion arising for examination or repair of any of the internal working mechanism, the internal parts, including the inlet valve and drip valve, may be easily lifted out by one man, without derrick or sling, by simply removing the cap and plate, leaving the standpipe undisturbed, obviating the necessity of digging up the street or disconnecting the standpipe from the water main. This feature is very important, enabling examination and replacement or repair of such parts needing it with the minimum of expense, trouble or delay. A drip valve, for draining the standpipe of any water that may remain in it after the main valve has been closed, is situated at the lowest part of the hydrant. It is lined with bronze to prevent corrosion, and is positive and automatic in its action, closed when the main valve is open and open when the main valve is closed, providing a means of escape for any water remaining in hydrant after use, and thus preventing all danger of freezing. This device renders a frost case, as sometimes used, an unnecessary expense. They furnish frost cases, however, at a reasonable price, when desired. Standpipes are amply large, being much greater in area than the inlet valve opening, thus practically eliminating loss of pressure through friction.

ELEVATORS AND DUMBWAITERS.—Catalogue J, from the Sedgwick Machine Works, 128 Liberty st, New York. Herein are illustrated leading types of Sedgwick handpower elevators and dumbwaiters for all purposes. The Sedgwick Automatic Brake Dumb Waiters are a great improvement. The automatic brake is independently supported, which relieves the machine of all end-thrust, strain and unnecessary wear. The brake does not lock fast, but is applied and regulated by the load, holding the car securely at any point, allowing it to be raised and lowered smoothly and easily without jumping and jarring. The Sedgwick hand elevators have a heavy iron frame, with steel braces, that prevents the bearings getting out of line and keeps gears properly in mesh. All shafting is of steel, and all bearings are fitted with steel anti-friction rollers. With the improved band brake and "locking device," the machine is under perfect control, by means of a brake line, from all floors and from the car. A slight pull on brake line partially applies the brake and controls speed of car in lowering, a final pull locks the brake and the outfit cannot move or be moved until the operator releases the brake by pulling up on the brake line. The brake band is lined with vulcanized fibre and is practically indestructible. Two hoist wheels allow the use of separate hoist cables, thus dividing the load, and one acting as a safety for the other. With the larger sizes are furnished two lift wheels or scored iron drum, as may be best suited to the work to be performed: or in place of two cables, one lifting cable and safety catch on the car. This elevator complete is in use in stores and factories for handling freight, also in private houses and hotels for trunk lifts. With passenger car it is suitable for invalid or passenger service.

TIMEKEEPING.—By the International Time Recording Co. of Binghamton, 23 pp. This company has purchased and succeeded to the business of the following named companies: The Bundy Mfg. Co. of Binghamton, the Willard & Frick Co. of Rochester, the Chicago Time Register Co. and the Standard Time-Stamp Co. The catalogue illustrates the Rochester Card System, the International Recorder, Bundy Key Recorder, Autograph Recorder, Dial Recorder, Standard Time Stamps, Railroad Parcel-Room Stamp, Book of Wage Tables, Pay-Roll Ledger, Filing Cabinet, Job Ticket File. By the Rochester Card System the operation of recording is simple and the results perfect. Each employee makes his record for a full week or pay period on a card by itself. At the beginning of each week or pay period cards are placed in the rack nearest the entrance, or the out rack—one card for each person. The employee, as he enters or leaves, takes the card having his number (and name if desired), passes by the clock and records the exact time (by means of the clock) on the card, verifying the record each time. The record being on a card enables a manufacturer, if he so desires, to utilize the back of the card for entering piecework or distributing the time worked on each job. This condenses at one point all details of each operator, and each kind of piecework or time spent on different orders can be entered so that it only needs adding up at the end of week or pay period to balance against the time recorded on face of card.

The Week.

THE week just past was, from a real estate standpoint, uninteresting. Inactivity—that is the summary of the week. Technically, the market is in somewhat better shape than this time last week. The fact that there have been no forced sales, that owners were able to keep their holdings, that with a couple of exceptions there were no large mortgages recorded, shows that real estate is in good hands. Of course it is to be expected that there are some people who, in the course of the next few weeks, will either have to raise money on mortgage or sell some of their holdings. It is generally believed that the number of people in this plight is so small that it will make no material differences in prices. The present holders of real estate in New York have steadfastly refused to make any concession in price, and they are satisfied to "stand their ground."

Some men who are both holders of real estate as well as securities in Wall st have sacrificed their stocks, and unfortunately the cream of their holdings in this line were the ones that had to be disposed of. They could not get a market on the so-called "cats and dogs." The thought of disposing of their real estate holdings was not considered. The net result of this combination is inactivity. This is the shopping period. Customers are going around from broker to broker asking, "What have you to offer?" After looking over the offerings and not finding many real bargains they leave to make a call on the next nearest broker.

The sales market offerings were pretty well distributed—what there was of them—but there were no sales really worth mentioning except the Manhattan st plot which was bought by a milk concern for a pasteurization plant, a business building in West 23d st, the sale of 693 to 697 Broadway, 3 5-sty buildings and the adjoining property 4 and 6 West 4th st. In exchange 41 and 43 East 12th st, an 8-sty loft building, was given.

If there was any feature of the real estate business worthy of notice it is the leasing end. The brokers report leases in considerable volume, and while there is no lease of large proportions, still in the aggregate they compare favorably with last week's results.

The total number of private sales reported for the week is 56, of which 16 were below 59th st, 17 above, and 23 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The week just past was a very poor one from an auction standpoint. With the exception of one sale of 87 lots on Aqueduct av and surrounding streets, there was nothing to inspire special mention. This property brought less than the amount of the incumbrances and this was also the case of the other parcels that were sold by order of the Supreme Court.

It is small wonder that there are few bidders for property put up at auction, owing to the present stringency in the money market. One of the greatest arguments showing the strength of the realty market lies in the fact that there are not many forced sales. Last week there was a total of $851,092 realized in the auction mart against a figure of $929,375 for the corresponding week in 1906. From January 1st to date property has brought $34,622,931, as against $26,724,779 during the same period last year. There were several large sales earlier in the year, sales of some magnitude, including the Ogden, Thole, Adams and the Doherty offerings. The selling of these parcels brought the total to higher figures than last year.

Among those pieces offered during the week were parts of Edgewater road, between Craven and Worthen sts on the east side of Leggett's creek; also part of East Bay av, east of Leggett's creek, between the same streets; also parts of Worthen st, south and east of Leggett's creek. This sale was by order of the Comptroller. There were only two voluntary sales, 246 East 116th st, which was bought by John J. Doyle for $14,000, and 339 to 345 East 116th st, which was bought by Lounsberry and O'Connor for a client for $52,000.

There are no voluntary sales announced for next week.

At the sale of the lots foreclosed by the Knickerbocker Trust Co. the amount realized was $89,500. A syndicate was formed to lend $65,000 on this property covering a period of one, two, or three years at the rate of 6% per annum. As each lot was put up for auction the auctioneer, Joseph P. Day, announced how much money would be left on mortgage. This amount was considered an upset price and bids were made accordingly. On one lot the sum fixed was $450, and the bidder got it for $475. This means that he has $25 invested in the lot. There is a peculiar feature of this particular transaction. According to the terms of sale the bidder is required to pay at the time purchased 10% of the cost of the lot. In this instance it amounted to $47.50. When he takes title there will be due him $22.50, if he chooses to let the mortgage for $450 remain.

The southwest corner of Nelson av and Featherbed lane, and the lot on the southwest corner of Plympton av and Featherbed lane brought the highest prices of the day. Both these lots sold for $3,400. For lots on the west side of Plympton av prices ranged between $600 and $1,150 for full lots, one lot only bringing the latter figure. $475 to $800 was bid for shorter lots between Featherbed lane and a point opposite 172d st. At first it appeared as though an adjournment of the sale would be necessary. After consultation between Mr. Day and the plaintiff's attorney, an emergency call was made upon Justice McCall for the appointment of a special referee. Robert Jablinowski was accordingly appointed and the sale began about 1 o'clock. Of the $65,000 loaned on the purchase money mortgages, $25,000 was supplied by the Century Investing Company and $40,000 by clients of Howard F. Taylor, a lawyer of 111 Broadway.

Small Strip of Land Deeded.

From Warsaw, Ind., comes a story about the transfer of one-sixteenth of an inch of land, so that a real estate deal could go through. The circumstances were as follows: A contract was signed for the delivery of a certain piece of land 120 feet front. This piece of property was owned by a local bank. The purchaser decided that he wanted to get out of taking the property and when the search showed that the bank only had 119 feet 11.98 inches, he tried to throw the contract up on this technicality. Louis Rosenstock was the broker in the transaction, and when this state of affairs was brought to his attention, he spoke to his father, Jacob Rosenstock, who happened to be the owner of 95 feet adjoining the property to be sold. In order that the sale might go through and his son make the commission, the elder Rosenstock deeded a section of his lot—less than one-half an inch of frontage—so that the title could be passed on a full 120-feet frontage. Under these circumstances the purchaser was obliged to take the property and the deal was consummated.

Constitutionality and Feasibility.

THE TWO POINTS THAT ARE BEING PARTICULARLY INVESTIGATED BY THE TORRENS COMMISSION.

The members of the Torrens Commission appointed by the Governor have been doing a lot of "inside work." The Record and Guide printed the fact some weeks ago that the Commission had appointed two committees from out of their number, one to investigate the present system, as applied to New York State, to see what improvements, if any, were desirable, whether the Torrens, or any other system of title registration should be adopted and the present one discarded, and the second committee was to cover the same ground in states and territories outside of New York.

A letter was drafted by the Commission and sent to the Governor of each state in which the Torrens system was used, asking him to advise the Commission whether the plan was popular or the reverse; to state the good points as well as the bad ones. Another letter was sent to the registrar in each county in the state, asking the same questions, but from a local point of view. Still another letter was sent to the Governors of those states in which the Torrens system was not used, asking whether their present system is satisfactory, and whether they contemplated a change, and if so, why?

The Commission is going to take up very shortly the matter of sending letters to the American consuls in foreign countries, asking them to send data as to registration of titles, what systems are used and how they work out.

Much very valuable data has been obtained in this way. The Commission is doing all in its power to get at the bottom of the matter and sift out the facts. There are many points that have come up since this body first sat which have been very interesting. The members of the Commission have been in conference with many prominent lawyers from time to time, and they have all recommended the doing away with the dower right, courtesy and general lien of judgments. The lawyers claim that if these obstacles were disposed of it would make title passing very much easier.

Henry Pegram, the temporary chairman during the absence of David A. Clarkson, this week defined the position of the Commission in the following way:

"In the first place, this Commission was not appointed to investigate and report upon the merits or demerits of the Torrens system bill, which has been annually submitted to the Legislature for the past four years; but to investigate the subject of the Torrens system of title registration throughout the world and, if it should appear, after such investigation, that, in the judgment of the members of this Commission, the adoption of a similar system of title registration in this state would be desirable, then to prepare a suitable bill in order to carry its recommendation into effect.

"In the second place," said Mr. Pegram, "the scope of this Commission's inquiry is not confined to the Torrens system alone; but it is also part of its duty to investigate the nature and condition of real estate titles in this state.

"So that, irrespective of whether this Commission does or does not eventually decide to recommend the adoption of a Torrens system of title registration, it may report the defects discovered by it in our present land laws, with appropriate suggestions as to the method of remedying the same.

"Public hearings will probably be held," continued Mr. Pegram, "on this latter subject upon dates to be hereafter announced through the press."

Prof. Alfred G. Reeves, who is also connected with the Commission, said: "The individual members of the Commission were unbiased when they started. They were using and availing themselves of every avenue and means of getting information on the subject and aiming to gather all there is about it. We have a filing case which is very rapidly filling up with pamphlets and documents on modes of title registration. The public hearings were given to get the public sentiment, especially from dealers and workers in property matters.

"We have not taken any vote," continued Prof. Reeves, "on the question whether we should prepare a bill embodying the Torrens system. We want to be satisfied that some improvement in the real situation can be made, and if we discover this to be the case we shall recommend it. There are two questions relating to the Torrens system which are being exhaustively investigated; its constitutionality and its feasibility. That is the whole matter to be decided. There has been some talk about making whatever system is recommended mandatory, but this has not been decided."

NEXT PUBLIC TORRENS COMMISSION HEARING.

The next public hearing of the Torrens Commission will take place in the Aldermanic Chamber at City Hall on Friday afternoon, Nov. 15. The questions of the constitutionality and feasibility of this plan will be then discussed.

There will also be a public hearing in the Assembly Chamber in Albany on Nov. 29, when facts and arguments for and against the Torrens system and facts and arguments on the revision of the present land laws will be heard.

The Transportation Situation in Queens.

There is every indication that large delegations from many civic bodies throughout Long Island, as well as representatives of realty interests, will attend the hearing on the Belmont Tunnel before the Public Service Commission on Nov. 14. The movement for the early opening and operation of the tunnel has become so comprehensive that the coming hearing, it is believed, will result in solving largely the transportation difficulties of Long Island. The delegations will be headed by D. Maujer McLaughlin, chairman of the Transportation Committee of the Real Estate Exchange of Long Island, H. Stewart McKnight, president of the Exchange, and the presidents of the leading civic bodies and realty companies of Queens Borough.

It was learned yesterday that the combined organizations will probably be represented before the Commission by a prominent lawyer, who will prepare a brief for reference and publication on the subject. While it was at first believed that the matter to be brought before the Commission would concern only the opening of the Belmont Tunnel, the question of a five-cent fare from all parts of Queens to the business centres of Manhattan and Brooklyn has come to the front. It is likely that the views of Queens on this phase of the subject will be presented also to the Commission.

Mr. McLaughlin, vice-president and manager of the McCormack Realty Co., who instituted this movement, in so far as the present combination of realty and civic interests is concerned, said yesterday in discussing the matter with a representative of the Record and Guide:

"I have been very much gratified to find that the substantial citizens of Queens Borough are awake to the importance of the transportation situation there. Nearly all of the more important organizations, and all of the large realty operators have joined in this movement to straighten out our problem. They want a continuous ride and a five-cent fare from the business centres of New York and Brooklyn into Queens Borough. They will get this between New York and the principal centers of population in Queens, over the lines of the New York and Queens Electric Railroad Company by way of the new Blackwells Island Bridge, and they are already getting it over some of the Brooklyn lines, by way of the Brooklyn Bridge.

"When the tunnel at the Battery is completed, Brooklyn Borough will have a continuous subway service at five-cent fares from the Long Island Railroad station to 59th st. Everybody in Queens would like to see a similar arrangement put into effect when the Belmont Tunnel to Long Island City is open for travel. It may be, of course, that this will be found impracticable. Mr. Belmont says that it is impracticable. That is the reason we have got together to present our views of the case to the Utilities Commission.

"The realty operators in Queens know that a very large population will establish itself in our borough as soon as the Belmont and Pennsylvania Tunnels and the Blackwells Island Bridge are ready for business. We know also that our natural accessions of population from Manhattan cannot reach their maximum if we cannot furnish a five-cent transportation system between Manhattan and the borough. We believe that we shall be able to impress upon the Utilities Commission the fact that the best interests of the congested areas in Manhattan, as well as the best interests of Queens Borough, will be subserved if the Commission exerts its authority to give us what Brooklyn already has and what the Bronx already has. We do not ask any more than our sister boroughs have, but we want as much as they have. Our case is rendered particularly strong by the fact that more than half of the only partially developed land in Queens Borough is geographically nearer to the retail section of Manhattan than are Brooklyn, the Bronx or Richmond."

A Broadway Hotel Going Under the Hammer.

The Hotel Saranac property, situated on Broadway between 41st and 42d sts, and running through to 7th av, is advertised to be sold at public auction on Thursday, Nov. 14, at the real estate salesroom by Joseph P. Day. This building is 92.1 on Broadway x 99.10 x 89 on 7th av, x 124.7 on the southerly line. The building that covers the plot was built in 1874 and has been used for hotel purposes. It was purchased by the bank in January, 1904. A statement made by President F. W. Kinsman, Jr., concerning this sale is as follows:

"There has been much competition for the purchase of the property and so much interest manifested in it that it has been decided that in fairness to all the best plan would be to offer it at public auction, the directors feeling sure that Mr. Day will secure such a price for it as to justify this course. The New Amsterdam Bank has had recently numerous favorable propositions to lease this property, several of which were at the rate of $100,000 a year net for a long term."

The terms under which the property will be offered at auction are 10% on the day of sale, and the balance over an existing mortgage of $400,000 in 30 days.

Mr. Day will also offer for sale at auction on the same day the Poillon estate property, which includes 428 to 432 Broadway, 85 to 89 Bedford st, and 62 to 68 Barrow st. Some of these properties have been held in the Poillon family since 1804.

Title Registration.

WE open the brief statement which we propose to submit to you by the emphatic statement that this company† is in favor of any measure or measures which will increase the security and facilitate the transfer of interests in land, irrespective of the effect that such measures might have upon the question of the profits to be made by this corporation. We desire, also, briefly to correct some misrepresentations that have been made to you as to the work of title insurance companies as well as to the working of the Torrens System where it has already been introduced:

The title companies' rates, as originally established, were absurdly small, that is to say, as against previous rates, which were universally 1% and disbursements for the examination of title. The title companies' rates were, on sums up to $40,000, one-half of 1% and $50 covering all disbursements, and on sums in excess of $40,000 one-quarter of 1% and $150 covering all disbursements. In spite of the statement made to you of a subsequent increase in these rates, they have been adhered to by the three larger companies.

The earnings of title insurance companies have been by reason of the enormous expense involved in conducting such a professional business only a fraction of the amounts which have been stated as their enormous profits. The most profitable business of the title companies is in the loaning of money on bond and mortgage, a service which has not been included in or suggested to be included in any system of registration of titles, so that in the matter of the profits of such companies the introduction of a system of registration of titles could not be of material detriment.

It is naturally and properly made part of your duties to examine into the operation of the Torrens or similar systems introduced in other states. While the gentlemen who have already addressed you have stated in general terms that the working of such systems has been beautiful, we fail to discover any facts which they have given you to establish such a conclusion. You, of course, recognize that this branch of your work is of the utmost importance, since you would hesitate to suggest for the great State of New York and its enormous real estate interests a system which so far from having fully established itself in the public confidence should have been surrounded with difficulties and of which even its legal status remains still undetermined.

In 1903 a law was passed in Illinois making it compulsory upon executors and administrators in Cook County to register the lands held in trust by them, although it was provided that they might be excused from such registration by the acting judicial officer, if, in his opinion, it would work a hardship. In every case since the passage of that law, application to be excused from registration has been made by the representatives of the deceased. The executors and administrators of the property of Marshall Field, who held property in the heart of the city worth millions, asked to be excused from registration and were excused by the presiding judge. It is not considered advisable to register land under the Torrens system in Illinois. One of the registrars under a Torrens system in Ireland testified before a committee in Parliament that he himself would not think of registering his land under the system. It seems that the system must be made compulsory before the advocates of the Torrens system will avail themselves of its manifold advantages.

We have examined with great care the system known as the Torrens system of land transfer and are of the opinion that it, or any system of like character, is fundamentally and incurably inadaptable to the condition of things in this state.

Our reasons for this conclusion are: The first objection that has occurred to us, and which we suggest to you, is the cost and confusion of introducing such a system. Unless it be made compulsory, which we think there can be no question would be unconstitutional, the introduction of such a system will necessitate the continuance of the former system, added thereto the large cost which must necessarily be involved in establishing a plant for the inauguration of any system intended to affect the rapid transfer of real estate. The plants which the title companies have been obliged to collect in order to enable them to do their work efficiently and promptly have involved a cost of millions of dollars and long and patient work in their accumulation.

As to the promptness with which the system could be started, we call your attention to this important fact, that under our constitution no title can be registered in the first instance excep as a result of a decree of court. Waiving the question as to whether the rights of adverse claimants can be cut off by a notice "To Whom It May Concern" these proceedings will result either in a contest or in a decree by default. If a contest arises as to boundary lines or the rights of any person, then the action must necessarily become one in the Supreme Court and after issue is joined must be disposed of on a regular trial. Unless the courts will prefer these cases over all others on the calendar, then the delay of waiting for this case to be reached will amount to three or four years, during which time the title is absolutely unmarketable and suspended. If, on the other hand, there is no contest, then the decree of the judge must be based upon the report of some examiner appointed by the register of the county. If the system is used to any extent, the numbers and expenses connected with the work of these examiners would be enormous, the register being compelled to have under him, if the system is a success, almost as many examiners as is now used in all of the title companies, which amount to about 1,200.

It must be evident to you, therefore, that the Torrens system cannot give an indefeasible title on registration; that it is in effect simply a guaranty system and that the system thus fails in its most essential particulars. The importance of this distinction is great because it resolves itself into the question "Shall the state, either by itself or by an assurance fund, go into the business of guarantying titles to land?" "Is this a proper function of government?"

The main and general argument in support of the Torrens system, as claimed by its advocates, is that after a title is once registered the subsequent transfers of that title are very simple and can be accomplished with great rapidity, and simply amounts to a surrender of the old certificate and the issue by the register of a new certificate. That may be possible in countries where there are no constitutions, but is absolutely impossible in this state. Now, for instance, no act can delegate to the register of any county or any register of titles any judicial functions, and on subsequent transfers of registered titles judicial questions will constantly arise, which to be binding upon anyone must be decided by a court. The question of the legal effect of deeds by trustees, the register's decision as to what the deed means would have no binding effect on anyone unless that it is construed after notice to all parties in interest by a court. The effect of the will as to the legal title stands on the same footing; whether a deed from the executors would be good or not would be a judicial question and the beneficiaries of that will would be bound by no decision which the register of the county could make. Questions arising from bankruptcy could not be passed upon by the register. Every transfer would require the employment of a lawyer to examine papers as much as at the present time.

The theory of the Torrens acts is that the certificate shall recite what incumbrances or liens or what papers have been filed affecting that title. These are filed in the register's office. The substance of these papers are not given and before a person knows what kind of a title he gets on a subsequent transfer somebody has to examine on his behalf practically all the papers which have been filed since the prior registration to determine what legal effect there may be. Leases may contain an option to purchase. Mortgages may contain unusual clauses and the exact condition of each one of these papers would have to be ascertained by the purchaser before he would know whether by the registration by him he obtains a title or not.

Every Torrens system that has been examined apparently exempts from the legal effect of the registered title any easements which may exist, so that a purchaser of a registered title must ascertain at his peril whether there are any easements of any kind affecting the property, as these easements are not affected or cut off in any way by registration. We are not aware that any system of registration contemplates covering the question of taxes or assessments which may be in arrears and searches of this character must be made before a person would take a registered title.

We could multiply the reasons which seem to us sufficient for our conclusion that the Torrens system is inapplicable in this state and that its introduction, in view of the grave questions which arise, both practically and legally, the latter of which remains undetermined by the courts, would be eminently unwise. This company has always considered it a part of its duty to inaugurate or aid any proper measures for the simplification of the law relating to the transfer of titles to real estate and extended such aid to the Block system of indexing which is now in force in this city and in the city of Brooklyn. It extended its aid to the passage of the law for the short forms of deeds and mortgages, and it effected the passage of the Lateral Encroachment Act, as well as other important measures.

We are satisfied that there are many important modifications of the law which might be made that may have a salutary effect, as for example, the abolition of dower in this state; the abolition of the general lien of judgments and a shorter statute of limitations; the question of affidavits which are the basis of orders by publication, etc., and we desire finally to put ourselves on record as expressing the opinion that no proper improvement either in the system of transfer of title to real property or the methods by which it is accomplished can either in principle or in the effects of their operation be detrimental to the interest of this company.

No Torrens system that we have seen insures against fraud, and therefore even the holder of a registered title is liable to have his registration set aside by reason of some fraud in connection with the proceedings subsequent to the original registration, and in this case the subsequent registered holder is without any remedy because he has no claim against the indemnity fund, and the same thing may be said in the case of deeds executed by infants or incompetents.

We desire to emphasize the fact that our objections are fundamental and, while they may be minimized, cannot be removed by the form in which any such system may be introduced.

Current Opinion Among Brokers.

The opinion of real estate brokers is that the clearing up of the banking situation will greatly benefit real estate in all its branches. The queries that have come into brokers' offices during the week show a tendency on the part of the public to take up real estate as an investment. They want to have their capital safely placed, where it will not be a cause of worry to them.

Samuel D. Folsom, of Folsom Bros., said that the real estate situation, from a broker's standpoint, was at a standstill:

"No one can purchase property either for cash or place a mortgage on realty on account of the lack of legal tender. Until the banks put more money into circulation there will be nothing doing. At present we are thinking of the good times we have had in the past and the better times that are coming. I am optimistic on the situation in general, but it will take some little time for things to adjust themselves properly."

Mr. Gaillard, of the McVicker, Gaillard Realty Co., said: "Nobody can intelligently fortell the result and ultimate effect of this 'panic' until conditions get back to a normal basis. In a month or six weeks we will be in better shape to say what effect the present money flurry will have on Manhattan real estate."

Joseph P. Day, referring to the present financial situation said: "The monetary condition of the day is of great importance, not alone to present holders of real estate, but to prospective purchasers and investors. The only possible place where real estate will be affected is in certain speculative sections, but as they are almost, without exception, held in exceedingly firm hands, there should not be any unhealthy reaction. in fact, they should be benefited by the direction of moneys into this channel, both in the mortgage loan line and in investments.

"Of course," continued Mr. Day, "we cannot close our eyes to the financial, or Wall st., situation we are just passing through. Let us not waste time or thought in dwelling too much on it, only as it serves us as a means to an end. Let us hope that the situation in that quarter will quickly and properly strengthen itself, and in that way put a healthy and firm reaction into real estate."

Bryan L. Kennelly, appraiser of real estate to the Comptroller, City of New York, says: "In my experience the prices that I've obtained for properties during the past three weeks, at executors' public sales, have been very good and far above the appraised valuations.

"Take, for instance, the Adams sale on Oct. 16, the sale on Oct. 23, of improved properties in West 13th and 127th sts, East 83d st, and other locations; the prices were satisfactory to the owners. Then, at the James Wood estate sale of property in East 116th st, prices were good and above appraised valuations. All this tends to show that there is plenty of money for good real estate, and this class of investors seldom, if ever, invest in Wall st.

"There seems to be no limit to buyers, as was demonstrated at the Aldrich estate sale, when $5,000,000 worth of real estate was disposed of by me in less than two hours, two of the Broadway parcels bringing over one million dollars each. This sale, right in the midst of panicky times, which holds the world's record for the largest offering to the public in this or any other country, goes to show that there is no reasonable limit to the amount of property which can be absorbed by the public, provided the property is good and is properly handled.

"At my sale on Wednesday I saw no signs of lessening of interest in improved Manhattan realty, but I do not think that the present time is a propitious one for offering unimproved properties in the suburbs. I look for another splendid market for all classes of real estate after January 1, but I think that the wise ones, will buy now while things are a little quiet, rather than wait until the market becomes more active by reason of the completion of the McAdoo and Belmont tunnels, the new Blackwell's Island bridge, and the great reailroad depots now in the course of construction and some of which will be completed within the next year."

Bronx Renting Outlook.

NO matter how other real estate owners and brokers may feel, those doing business in the Bronx are optimistic over the outlook in that locality. To them the Bronx holds out opportunities equally as great today as it did last year and the year before. The land is there and from all parts of Manhattan people come to make investments or seeking places in which to live.

In the many new apartment houses erected during the past year few vacant flats are found today. The four and five story apartment houses without elevator service are still very popular in the Bronx, but during the past year several six-story elevator apartments have been erected and quickly rented.

Mr. J. Clarence Davies, said this week that the general condition, at the present time, of Bronx real estate is a little quiet, owing, perhaps, to the scarcity and high rate of mortgage money.

"In face of everything," said Mr. Davies, "there is absolutely no evidence of a decline in prices today and I was very much surprised during the last six or eight weeks at the difficulty in getting owners to accept offers which I thought would be readily accepted on account of the money stringency. Of course, here and there a cheap lot or house, considered an unusual bargain has been picked up, but such chances have been few and far between. The firmness of the real estate market in this section is due, I think, to a realization that the increase in population is so rapid that it forbids any great setback for any length of time.

"The houses projected a year or two ago are now completed and pretty generally filled with tenants and by the coming spring there will again be a large demand for more apartments.

"To my knowledge," continued Mr. Davies, "there are no new apartment houses started or arranged to be built during the coming winter, which means, that by a year from now a large waiting list for apartments will have been created equalling the demand in 1904, when the demand far exceeded the supply. Then will come increase in rentals again and another and larger demand for real estate, both for apartment houses and private dwellings. This, to my mind, is almost inevitable.

"The situation in the Bronx today is very similar to the conditions said to exist with the large freight carrying railroads. They have all the freight they can possibly handle and more is offered every day, but they can't raise sufficient capital to increase their facilities for handling the same. We have plenty of tenants for which rooms will be needed during the coming year or two, but so far have been unable to finance new buildings which, we know, will be needed to accommodate our rapidly increasing population. The opportunities for investing in Bronx property which assure a steady income is very good today, and will remain so indefinitely. That confidence in real estate has not been materially shaken is shown by the two great auction sales held last week. At the arrison estate sale here in the Bronx over 200 lots were sold at fair prices and at the 'Al' Adams sale, down town, prices exceeded expectations."

—When the banks in Harlem reopen next week real estate brokers expect a rushing business for a few days. They claim that many of the depositors have been looking up realty investments during the past week and will invest.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

Mr. John Reiss has moved his offices to 161st st and 3d av.

Ludwig Traube, Jr., has changed his office to 1402 Lexington av, corner of 92d st.

The City of New York pays out to its employees the first of every month about $6,000,000.

A young man, 30, wants management of improved property, renting and collecting. See Wants and Offers.

Wilkens & Miller have recently moved their offices from 1105 Westchester av to 878 Prospect av, in the Bronx.

Julius Lowenthal has secured from Henry Corn a building loan of $75,000 on the property 32 to 36 West 18th st.

Frank J. Cassidy has to rent several stores desirable for piano warerooms, tailoring and haberdashery, in his new building 229 West 42d st.

E. J. Kehoe, real estate broker and agent, has moved his offices from Webster av, Bedford Park, to the Bishop Building, 271 West 125th st.

The managers of the Leonard Moody Real Estate Co. of Brooklyn have moved their New York office to 116 West 42d st. Geo. L. Long, manager.

Stores on Prospect av, Bronx, well located, are renting for $100 a front foot. Which is considered a very good price for that section.

Dean & Fuess, of the Bronx, have purchased 53 acres near Harrington Park, N. J., which they are having surveyed into 700 lots, to be opened early next spring.

Real estate dealers have regained a lot of courage during the past week and are looking ahead more hopefully for an early resumption of business activity in their line.

The New York insurance department has been investigating the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company for several months. Its report is expected at an early date.

Goldberg & Greenberg, real estate operators, have discontinued their downtown office at 140 Nassau st and will in the future transact all business at the Bronx office, 145 Brook av near 134th st.

Theodore Marks of Westchester av reports the present outlook for Bronx realty to be very promising. He is among the many who believe that the recent financial flurry will aid the real estate market.

Kurz & Uren of 3052 3d av, say that in their opinion the prevailing financial troubles will induce small investors to investigate the possibilities of safe investments in small parcels of real estate and first mortgages.

The fire insurance rate on the old Singer building was 16.7 cents, and brokers are wondering what will be the rate on the new building, and also on the Metropolitan tower. Brokers estimate between eighteen and twenty-six cents.

The 3-sty tenement houses on 31st st, facing the Pennsylvania property, which apparently are all occupied, are being held up with props against the early day when they are to be demolished to make room for new and modern buildings now being planned.

It is estimated by a real estate man, who has given the matter considerable attention, that during the past five years the population of the Bronx has increased about 110,000. It is expected that the next five years will show a much larger increase.

Among the Wants and Offers it will be noticed that a young man of experience seeks a position with a general contractor, and an advertiser wishes it known that he has a large plot in Jersey City to lease, situated within a few minutes' walk of the ferry.

One of the officials of a large title guarantee company is of the opinion that the present unsettled condition of the real estate market will not last more than a month. Then the business will pick up steadily so that by early spring it will again be in full swing.

A responsible dry goods merchant will pay $20,000 per year rental to an investor who will put up an 8-sty building in Brooklyn (Williamsburg section) and he will agree to purchase building at end of period, subject to 60% mortgage. See Wants and Offers.

Investors that expect a break in real estate prices by the first of November will be very much disappointed, for the expected break is not liable to take place, is the opinion of many brokers. In all parts of the city, but more especially on the East side, prices are very stiff.

F. A. Black, of West 125th st, says the fact that no one is throwing property away on account of the bank excitement shows that the people are keeping cool and that the prices of up-town realty will not be materially reduced, as many investors have been wishing.

Bronx property owners are unanimous in wishing and hoping for more adequate transportation facilities in the near future. The proposed 3d av subway can't come too soon to please not only them but also the many thousands who are compelled to travel daily in the present insufficient accommodations.

Next to 149th st the busiest subway station in the Bronx now is Prospect av, where during the rush hours two ticket agents have all they can do to handle the crowds. It is estimated that on the average 10,000 tickets are sold at the Prospect av station each working day, an increase over last year of more than 30 per cent.

Renting of store properties in the 125th st district picked up considerably during the week. Three stores were rented on this thoroughfare and one on Madison av which have been vacant since early last summer. Mr. D. H. Scully says that there is considerable more demand just now for East Side than for West Side property.

There is much complaint heard from commission men in the larger brokerage offices that the ranks are being reduced gradually on account of the scarcity of business. "Alleged prospective buyers are found now and then, and some of them even dare to invade our offices," said an East Side broker, "but when a real bargain is shown to them it is quickly seen that what they really seek is not bargains, but pure and simple gifts."

While the prices of improved realty are held firmly, operators try to view existing conditions with hopefulness for an early change for the better. They argue that with the investor losing confidence in stocks and railroad bonds, the natural and after all the safest investment is in realty, and to that he will turn at the first indication of settled financial conditions. The average operator or broker is an optimist and it takes many hard knocks to discourage him for more than five minutes at a time.

William E. Harmon announces that Wood, Harmon & Co. will this month open "St. George Heights," the fifth of their properties at South New York, S. I. "St. George Heights" are situated at Clove Hill, one of the highest points in Staten Island. There are 350 lots in this section, and they are touched by three trolley lines. Mr. Harmon in speaking of this property said that he considers this the most attractively located of all the properties the company has developed in Richmond Borough.

Under the Saxe law an action may be maintained in this state against one or more trustees, directors, managers or other officers of a corporation to procure a judgment, compelling them to account for their official conduct, including any neglect of, or failure to perform, their duties in the management or disposition of the funds or property that have been committed to their charge. They can also be compelled to pay to the corporation, which they represent, or to its creditors, any money and the value of any property which they have acquired to themselves, or transferred to others, or lost, or wasted, by or through any neglect, or failure to perform, or by other violation, of their duties.

Long Acre square section is going to have another theatre, built by a company which was incorporated in Albany last week, with a capital of $500,000. Charles B. Dillingham, David H. Taylor and Frederick Manners are the incorporators. This property has a frontage of 23.10x89 feet on Broadway and 139 feet on 46th st. The sale of this property by the Shanley Brothers was reported some weeks ago, and at the time there was a rumor that a theatre was going to be erected on the site, but it could not be verified until the company was incorporated. This theater, which will be called the "Gaiety," is further uptown than any place of amusement until Columbus Circle is reached. Howard Gould is said to be backing the enterprise.

Swiss Property Handling.

METHODS OF TRANSACTION—BUILDING ACTIVITY AND HIGH PRICES.

St. Gall, Switzerland.—Houses and real estate are for the most part sold in this city by agents to the purchaser. These agents receive for their services generally a commission of 1 per cent. from the owner and 1 per cent, from the purchaser—sometimes, indeed, 2 per cent. from the seller of the property. Sales for cash are not customary. In most cases an installment so considerable is paid that any risk from the side of the debtor in the event of a second sale is thereby obviated if the first seller should be obliged to recall the transaction, as, for instance, in the event of a bankruptcy. For further amounts beyond the installment, mortgages, first and second class, which pay 4½ to 5 per cent., are given. On every sale of a house in St. Gall an official registration fee of 2 pro mille (one-fifth of 1 per cent) is payable. There are about one-third house owners and two-thirds lessees; population about 39,000, with many suburbs under separate government.

House and rent values here are dependent on the prosperity of the export trade. Within eight years these have risen, according to the convenience of their situation for business, 40 to 100 per cent. The United States Government now pays $800 rent for rooms which, although not in the business centre, eight years ago cost $360. Exports to the United States of over $12,000,000, as compared with about $4,000,000 four years ago, explain the prosperity mentioned and account for the present almost mushroom growth of St. Gall. Buildings are going up everywhere, the population is increasing, and demand for dwellings, or rather quarters or flats, so far outruns the supply that at present buildings not yet started are completely rented for occupancy upon completion next year. Incidentally, exclusive of the rent question, St. Gall is the most expensive residence city in Switzerland, which, in view of the standard fixed in the Republic's cities to some extent by the liberality or extravagance of tourists, is saying a great deal. It might be also interesting to note that there are no single or detached houses for renting to one family. Only under exceptional circumstances, and at enormous rental, can such premises be secured.

LITTLE VARIETY IN HOUSES.

The usual form, from which there are few variations, is a three or four-story structure, with a flat or complete premises for one family upon each floor, each flat having assigned rooms in the attic for servants and boxes, in the cellar for fuel and stores, and each having a right to specific use of wash and ironing rooms in the basement. There are no housemeisters, as usual elsewhere on the Continent. In the midde or better class of such houses now going up, each flat has also bath with instantaneous gas heater, an independent hot-water heating apparatus for living rooms, kitchen gas stove, shelving, closets, etc., all furnished by landlord. Such flats of, say, from 5 to 12 rooms, rent, according to location, size, and character of finishing, from $450 to $1,500. Above this maximum in renting property are only to be found special cases, while below it range all grades of tenements.

Favorably situated building lots in the town have risen 300 per cent. in value in two years, since which time a number of bankers and more important exporters have erected, or intend to erect, splendid buildings. This is only possible by reason of the quite enormous development of the principal industry of this place—embroideries and laces. Some speculators in house buying or building do so on the chance of a favorable resale. Others again, builders of large banking or business houses, give the management of the building operations into the hands of an experienced architect, paying for the latter's plans for the building and a commission of about 5 per cent. on the value of the building for the entire building management. The architect intrusts the execution of his plans to a master builder after examination of and agreement to his estimates of cost of erection; the architect is thus supervising authority and the master builder executive authority. In quiet business times, when the spirit of enterprise is checked and ground values are low, architect and master builder collaborate in speculative building. Mortgages can often be had, after official valuation of the edifice, on houses which are only in process of building. As these valuers are responsible, they value the object—to avoid any personal risk—very low, and below the real value. [An architect and master builder of St. Gall, who is now conducting large building operations, both residence and business, upon the lines indicated, is listed at the Washington Bureau of Manufacturers. Mr. McFarland adds that from the person in question more specific information could be secured.]

Photography Used in Securing Evidence of Violations.

In Newark the use of photography in securing evidence of violations of building regulations is being employed with great success. It is understood that previous to its adoption in that city the department officials experienced some difficulty in the prevention of violations, more particularly the smaller ones. In the past no effort has been spared to get at the offenders, but almost invariably by the time a suit is brought to trial the alleged violations have been remedied to such an extent that conviction is rendered difficult.

In advocating the adoption of the new system for Jersey City the Evening Journal of that place says:

"There is no reason why such an arrangement could not be worked advantageously in Jersey City, where the many restrictions of the new code will be violated, both intentionally and unintentionally, in the near future. The building laws of Jersey City have been so meagre and primitive that a new code covering all the modern details of construction is sure to impose many restrictions that may seem unjust and unreasonable to those who have built under the old law, and if they are at all unscrupulous they will doubtless attempt to evade them. In such cases, the use of the camera will aid greatly in detecting the offenders."

Speaking of the innovation, a person well informed with regard to the methods now in use in the New York City department ventured the opinion that its employment by that bureau was merely a question of time.

My Good Old Real Estate.

I do not long for Western mines,
  I do not care for stocks,
I love Manhattan real estate,
  Just give me blocks and blocks.
They cannot take my house and lot,
  They can't manipulate
The grand old terra firma,
  My good old real estate.

No wave of crime affects it,
  No Wall street rumors can;
All classes are its owners—
  It makes a home, O man!
There are mansions for us waiting
  In our home above so great;
But our children will be happy
  With our good old real estate.

Henry Hudson Bridge.

At a hearing to be given on November 8 the Board of Estimate will consider the proposed situation for the Henry Hudson Memorial Bridge. The map of the City of New York as described in sections 438 and 439 of the charter includes bridges and tunnels and approaches to bridges and tunnels, and it is deemed proper by the city authorities to formally incorporate in the map of the city this bridge location. This can only be done by following the procedure outlined in section 442 of the charter and after a public hearing upon the plan submitted by the Commissioner of Bridges, and it is recommended that a date be fixed for such hearing.

The Commissioner of Bridges has submitted a plan showing the land required for the building of this bridge and stating that for a certain portion of this land an easement only is required, while for other portions it will be necessary to secure the fee. The Corporation Counsel is to advise the board in detail as to the procedure to be followed by it in the acquisition of such title as may be secured.

City Finances and Public Works.

UNTIL such time as in my judgment the finances of the city warrant it you are herewith instructed not to advertise any new contracts for work in your department.—Mayor McClellan's order to heads of city departments.

The Mayor said this would hold up everything but supplies. Of course, it did not affect pavements and sewers, as they were under the jurisdiction of the borough presidents. All work already let out by contract could not be affected by this order. But all work, even authorized, will be held up, and this includes about $150,000,000 worth of improvements the city officials had contemplated.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment, at a special meeting, approved the tax budget for 1908, with a total of $143,572,266.

The Mayor gave out a statement which included the following:

It is very gratifying to me and to my colleagues on the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to be able to present a budget for 1908 which is practically self-explanatory, owing to the segregation of appropriation accounts. This is an end to which I have been working for four years, and is the result of a careful study of the system in operation in the House of Representatives, and the application of that system, as far as possible at this time, in the making up of our budget. In this work I have had, during the last two years, the hearty co-operation and assistance of the present Controller, the Bridge Commissioner, the secretary of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the supervising statistician and examiner of the Finance Department. I hope next year to even further segregate the budget, and to continue along these lines until the entire budget is segregated.

In the preparation of the budget for the year 1908, it has been necessary to take carefully into consideration the financial condition of the city. The volume of the mandatory and absolutely necessary increases is so great—approximately $10,700,000—that, in my judgment, the city is not warranted in going unnecessarily a dollar beyond it.

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| City of New York. | $122,756,666.16 | $135,474,403.89 | $12,717,737.73 |
| County of New York | 2,872,667.00 | 3,146,970.00 | 274,303.00 |
| County of Kings.. | 1,499,667.50 | 1,550,956.87 | 274,303.00 |
| County of Queens. | 214,930.00 | 302,088.01 | 87,158.01 |
| County of Richmond | 77,575.00 | 97,847.40 | 20,272.40 |
| Totals | $127,421,505.66 | $140,572,266.17 | $13,150,760.51 |
| Deficiencies in taxes, chapter 209, Laws of 1906 | 3,000,000.00 | 3,000,000.00 | —— |
| Totals | $130,421,505.66 | $143,572,266.17 | $13,150,760.51 |

The Mayor finds the mandatory increases to be $10,758,935.62. On this point he says:

The principal items in the budget, which, while not mandatory, are absolutely necessary to the maintenance of the departments and to do away with the issue of special revenue bonds during the ensuing year, are as follows:

|---|---|
| Department of Finance | $100,000.00 |
| Law Department | 80,000.00 |
| Commissioner of Accounts | 50,000.00 |
| President of Borough of Manhattan | 144,624.24 |
| President of the Borough of The Bronx | 174,925.85 |
| President of the Borough of Brooklyn | 224,812.53 |
| President of the Borough of Queens | 134,018.87 |
| President of the Borough of Richmond | 66,538.00 |
| Parks, Manhattan and Rihmond | 95,903.00 |
| Parks, Brooklyn and Queens | 218,871.00 |
| Parks, The Bronx | 103,763.57 |
| Total | $1,393,457.06 |

The following items may be considered as the only ones in the city budget which are optional and not absolutely required, either by law or to prevent deterioration in departmental work:

|---|---|
| Police Department (additional patrolmen) | $320,000 |
| Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity | 184,000 |
| Department of Correction (additional materials for manufacturing purposes in institutions) | 35,000 |
| Department of Health (extension of milk inspection and increased force) | 55,000 |
| Department of Street Cleaning (increase in the pay of the sweepers and others from $720 to $780 per annum; of boardmen and scowmen, $9,527.50; extra pay for Sundays, $12,295.30) | 184,100 |
| Fire Department (installation of three new companies in The Bronx) | 45,000 |
| Total | $832,100 |

As a result of several conferences between the Mayor, Controller and Chamberlain, representing the city, and Messrs. J. P. Morgan, of J. P. Morgan & Co.; George F. Baker, of the First National Bank, and James Stillman, of the National City Bank, arrangements have been made whereby the bankers are to provide the city with $30,000,000 for revenue bonds at par, with an option to take $20,000,000 more. These revenue bonds are to bear six per cent. interest.

The City Chamberlain explained the situation thus:

"Work must continue on many improvements and the actual work of the city cannot be held up. Money has not come in generously as it has in other years, and the city reached a point where it was necessary to make a big loan. We couldn't go on borrowing small sums.

"There is nothing remarkable either in the size of the issue or in the rate of interest paid. In the face of present conditions six per cent. is what might be called a reasonable rate of interest. It is more than we wanted to pay, of course. We tried to dispose of the bonds at a lower rate, but we could not do so. There are too many uses for money at present and people aren't buying bonds the way they sometimes do. We have paid six per cent. before. In fact the last issue, which was made early in October, was put out at six. Other big issues have been disposed of at four and a half and four and three quarters."

Broadway Congestion.

WHAT is the cause of the congestion of traffic on Broadway at the intersection of Fulton, Chambers, Canal and 23d sts? What, if any, is the available remedy and how best apply it? These are questions over which city officials and municipal reformers are pondering and worrying. The trouble is growing more acute every week and existing conditions, which under normal conditions are aggravating, are still more intensified today by the frequent street excavations for underground repairs at intersecting points.

One of the most troublesome points at the present time is at Broadway and Chambers st, where the congestion at certain hours could hardly be made more acute. Chambers st has been torn up now for several weeks thereby crowding the immense traffic on that busy cross-street into the smallest possible space. This blocks the Broadway crossing at times when the east and west meets the north and south traffic, thereby retarding traffic up and down Broadway and across Chambers st.

Broadway in the neighborhood of Chambers st, like the entire downtown section, with a few exceptions, is lacking in actual street room to accommodate a sudden emptying of the large office buildings which daily are being more densely populated. Were the heavy traffic confined solely to the north and south travel on Broadway, without the cross-current travel on Chambers st—which includes the slow-moving horse cars besides ponderous trucks that are frequently overloaded and momentarily liable to accident—traffic regulation might be made adequate to cope with existing conditions, but it is the cross-town traffic which is believed to be chiefly responsible for existing conditions and which first must be relieved before permanent improvement may be expected.

Mr. Calvin Tomkins, who has made and is still making a study of street congestions, not only in this country but also in Europe, believes that the first relief must necessarily come by taking the cross-town cars off the surface, the same as has been done in Boston. He also believes that eventually some of the streets will have to be widened or arcaded. He says the primary cause for the congestion on lower Broadway at the intersection of Fulton, Chambers and Canal sts is the interference of the north and south with the east and west traffic—vehicular and pedestrian having increased very greatly within five years, the trouble is much more noticeable now than formerly. The street railway companies cited this cross traffic interference as the principal cause for their inability to run more cars, and this phase of the perplexity is now before the Public Service Commission. Mr. Tomkins said that along the line of the Strand and Piccadilly Circus, London, the street traffic is much greater than even in New York, but there the 'busses and cabs are not confined to definite lines of rails in streets, and as a consequence of a most effective policing system the larger amount of traffic is passed along with less delay than here in New York. The New York Police Department deserved great credit, he added, for enforcing much better traffic arrangements than formerly prevailed in this city and the mounted police had accomplished much in a comparatively short time.

It was becoming very apparent, however, that the north and south and east and west intersections of the surface cars in this city were developing centers of congestion at the more important street crossings which would soon make it imperative to take the cross-town cars off the surface. This traffic across Manhattan should be provided for by cross-town subways, through such streets as 14th, 23d, 34th and Chambers sts. These should prove profitable from their inception, and, in Mr. Tomkins' judgment, the Public Service Commission together with the city authorities should promptly consider the building of them.

Some years since in Boston, owing to intolerable congestions and delays, the street cars, which were rapidly becoming useless as a consequence of such delays, were taken off the surface of Tremont st and put under ground. A similar policy would soon remove cars from Washington street, which is at present a most densely thronged street of that city. Of course the street congestion in New York was largely due to the tall buildings which house so many people. The convenience of handling the business of the port of New York made necessary such concentration in different points of Manhattan and principally at the lower part of the Island. The effect of the prospective tunnels and bridges across the East and Hudson rivers would accelerate and intensify this tendency. The removal of some of the lines of rails from the streets and the provision of better policing would materially help the situation, said Mr. Tomkins, but the real difficulty lay in the fact that in certain localities the city was rapidly outgrowing the capacity of its street system. In time it would be necessary to widen certain streets or to arcade them. The underground possibilities for handling traffic should be safeguarded to the utmost possible extent in all the streets of New York, so that underground facilities might be made ultimately as effective as possible.

Will the New Haven Build the New Roads?

After hanging on the brink for several years the New York and Portchester (and Westchester) electric railroad projects have fallen gently into the arms of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company. It transpires that the accident really happened a year ago, but it was not officially reported until this week. Previously the two projects had coalesced under the wing of the "Millbrook Company," which was controlled by Mr. Oakleigh Thorne, who is president of the Trust Company of America, in association with Mr. Marsden J. Perry, who is president of the Union Trust Company of Providence.

On the part of the New Haven Company it is announced that the construction of the roads will be undertaken as soon as the condition of the money market will allow and it is called for by public convenience. This does not mean immediately. Irrespective of any question of franchise limitations, it might mean that the new lines will not be advanced until the New Haven's own six-track electric improvement is finished and some idea obtained of just what additional traveling facilities the territory may need and be able to pay for. A natural suspicion would be that the acquisition of the two lines by the New Haven indicated the end of these two rivals, but this does not follow; for trunk lines have learned how to turn competing electric local roads into valuable feeders. The city can and no doubt soon will aid property owners to a better understanding of the practical possibilities.

One or both of the roads has a franchise from the city to cross the streets. This gives the Board of Estimate a look-in, and we are inclined to believe that it is still within the power of this board to determine when the road shall be built—or not built at all. Just at present the board is being restrained by an injunction from acting on a petition to change and combine the routes of the two roads for a distance. No doubt the New Haven will seek to keep the franchise alive, and consult its own financial convenience as to future proceeding, for which no one can blame the New Haven managers; but the city is a partner with the New Haven, as with every real estate owner in Greater New York, and it is the duty of the city to represent the natural rights of the public. It is hoped that private interests and public rights may be harmonized in this case, to the end that in one way or another the northern suburbs will obtain the improvements in commuting facilities which they stand in need of.

Of Interest to Investors in Mortgages.

In transmitting interest payments due Nov. 1 to the holders of its guaranteed mortgages, the New York Mortgage and Security Company, 135 Broadway, Manhattan, takes the opportunity to congratulate the owners thereof upon their possession of a non-fluctuating security, wholly removed from the sphere of the present panic. According to a statement of the condition of the company on Oct. 30, 1907, the proportion which its capital and surplus bear to the amount of guaranteed mortgages outstanding (9.6%) is about double that required by European law and usage and is claimed to be greatly in excess of that shown by any other large mortgage guarantee company in New York.

Local Taxation.

All real and personal property situated or owned within the State is taxable unless exempt by law. In the City of New York and certain other cities the tax on real estate is a valid lien whether or not the owner's name is correctly stated. Elsewhere it is necessary to state the name of the owner with substantial accuracy and to state separately the property of non-residents. All taxable property, both real and personal, must be assessed at its full value.

DETERMINATION OF ASSESSMENT AND PLACE OF TAXATION.

The amount of anyone's property liable to taxation which is held on the second Monday in January determines the amount of his lawful assessment in the City of New York. In other cities of the State the date is fixed by city charters. In the rest of the State the date is the first day of July. Every person is to be taxed in the tax district where he resides. A domestic corporation must be taxed at its principal office. The location of the principal office is determined by the place named in its certificate of incorporation.

The residence of a person on July first is deemed his residence for the purpose of taxation and assessment during that year. A person's residence is largely a matter of intention, and the place where his family lives, where he votes and stays the greater part of his time, and where he is assessed for personal taxes, is his residence for purposes of taxation.

When a person has acquired a residence in a tax district and has been taxed there, his residence is presumed to continue there for the purpose of taxation until he acquires another residence.

The following interesting information is from a publication of the N. Y. Tax Reform Association "Pocket Tax Law for Business Men."

TAXABLE PERSONAL PROPERTY.

The following personal property is taxable:

Cash on hand.

Cash on deposit, exclusive of deposits in savings banks.

Debts due from solvent debtors whether on account, contract, note, bond or mortgage. There is a special law for the taxation of mortgages recorded in this State on or after July 1, 1906. Debts secured by such mortgages are not otherwise taxable.

Merchandise and stock in trade, situated in this State, at market value.

Household furniture, jewelry, horses and carriages, and other chattels, situated in this State, at market value.

Rents reserved in leases of real property within the State in fee or for one or more lives, or for more than 21 years, capitalized at 6%.

EXEMPT PROPERTY.

The following personal property is exempt from taxation:

Money on deposit in savings banks.

Shares of stock of corporations. Bank stock is taxable, but the tax is paid by the bank, and not personally by the shareholder.

United States bonds. Bonds of the City of New York and some bonds issued by the State and municipalities of New York. Debts, including bonds issued by corporations, secured by mortgage, recorded in this State as a mortgage of real property on or after July 1, 1906.

Patent rights, copyrights, trademarks.

Cost price of goods on hand in unbroken original packages imported from foreign countries.

Vessels registered at any port in this State and engaged in ocean commerce between any port in the United States and any foreign port.

The accumulations of any incorporated co-operative loan association upon the shares of such association held by any person.

A woman, or a man who provides for a family, is entitled to an exemption on account of professional instruments, furniture, and library to the extent of $250.

Real and personal property of an active or disabled minister or priest to the value of $1,500.

There are certain exemptions because of the nature of the ownership of the property, such as property owned by Federal, State and local governments, by religious, charitable, educational, and other associations, which are outside the purview of this pamphlet; also certain exemptions of corporations described under the approuriate titles.

DEDUCTIONS FOR DEBT.

From the value of taxable personal property all debts which are legal obligations are to be deducted, provided such debts were not incurred in the purchase of non-taxable property. Debts incurred for the purchase of shares of stock of corporations may be deducted, but not debts incurred for the purchase of United States bonds or imported goods in unbroken original packages, or the good-will of a business.

One who is liable upon a bond secured by mortgage, whether or not he now owns the property mortgaged, may deduct the debt. Contingent liabilities as surety or indorser may not be deducted.

Digest of Recent Legal Decisions.

EMINENT DOMAIN.

Greater New York charter (Laws 1901, p. 351, chap. 466), § 822, authorizes the acquisition by the city of land under water for improving the water front of a river, and provides that if the property of the riparian owner has been built on or improved, and part only of the property is taken, the just value of the entire premises shall first be ascertained, and then there shall be ascertained the value of the premises in the condition in which they will be after the part is taken, and the difference shall constitute the measure of compensation. The city sought to acquire lands originally under water for improving the water front of a river. It sought to acquire a part of a tract on which there were improvements. It also sought to acquire a part of a parcel originally under water, which would be brought to grade on an established street on the completion of the proposed improvement. Held, that the statute was applicable to both parcels, and special benefits resulting to the parcels not taken were properly deducted in estimating the compensation to be awarded for the land taken.—Matter of City of New York, 118 App. Div. 865, 105 N. Y. S. (139 St. Rep.) 750.

EASEMENTS.

Where the owner of land is in absolute possession inclosed it with a substantial fence, excluding all others from any interference with it, and there was no use of an easement over the land for 20 years, the same was extinguished. Judgment (Sup.), 51 Misc. Rep. 274, 100 N. Y. S. (134 St. Rep.) 1077, reversed.—Lewisohn v. Lansing Co., 119 App. Div. 393, 104 N. Y. S. (138 St. Rep.) 543.

A grantor, who sold lots and described them as bounded by a street running through his own land, without including in the conveyance the bed of the street, created a private easement for street purposes in favor of his grantee over the land designated as a street and of which he retained the fee; and this easement became appurtenant to the land conveyed, and followed it, unless it was in some way later extinguished. Judgment (Sup.), 51 Misc. Rep. 274, 100 N. Y. S. (134 St. Rep.) 1077, reversed.—Lewisohn v. Lansing Co., 119 App. Div. 393, 104 N. Y. S. (138 St. Rep.) 543.

Where a party had an easement in land for street purposes, his claiming an absolute title to the land was not an abandonment of his claim to an easement therein. Judgment (Sup.), 51 Misc. Rep. 274, 100 N. Y. S. (134 St. Rep.) 1077, reversed.—Lewisohn v. Lansing Co., 119 App. Div. 393, 104 N. Y. S. (138 St. Rep.) 543.

Where a party acquired an easement in a street by grant, the fact that before the street was opened, and before there was any occasion to use it as a street, he occupied and inclosed it, affords no presumption that he intended to abandon, as against any one else, the right to insist upon his easement. Judgment (Sup.), 51 Misc. Rep. 274, 100 N. Y. S. (134 St. Rep.) 1077, reversed.—Lewisohn v. Lansing Co., 119 App. Div. 393, 104 N. Y. S. (138 St. Rep.) 543.

PERFORMANCE OF CONTRACT.

A purchaser is entitled to a title that will enable him to hold the land in peace, and, if he wishes to sell it, to be reasonably sure that no fault or doubt will arise to disturb its market value, and is not required to accept a deed which he will be compelled to defend by litigation.—Wadick v. Mace, 118 App. Div. 777, 103 N. Y. S. (137 St. Rep.) 889.

A contract to convey land described therein as the most southerly 20 acres of a tract described required the vendor to execute and deliver "a proper deed," with the usual covenants conveying the property in fee simple free from all incumbrances, except, etc. It was thereafter agreed that the 20 acres should be surveyed, which was never done, but it was discovered that it carried across a street of which both parties had notice and deprived the vendor's remaining property along such street of frontage thereon, whereupon she tendered a deed in the language of the contract. Held, that such deed required a judicial construction to identify the premises conveyed, and was therefore not "a proper deed," as required by the contract.—Wadick v. Mace,, 118 App. Div. 777, 103 N. Y. S. (137 St. Rep.) 889.

RIGHTS AND LIABILITIES OF PARTIES.

A contract for the sale of land recited that one parcel thereof was subject to two mortgages, which were described therein. The mortgages, which were recorded, in addition to the usual conditions, each stipulated that, if at any time a law should be enacted imposing a tax on mortgages, such tax should be paid by the mortgagor or then owner of the land within 10 days after the enactment of the law, and in default of payment, or in the event the amount of the tax and interest should exceed the legal rate of interest, or in the event the payment of the tax by the mortgagor or owner of the land should be prohibited by law, the entire sum of the mortgage should become due and payable 30 days after the enactment of the law. Held, that the vendee, having notice of the mortgages, was chargeable with notice of the conditions thereof, and could not avoid his purchase because he did not have actual knowledge that the mortgages contained other than the usual conditions.—Schnitzer v. Bernstein, 199 App. Div. 47, 103 N. Y. S. (137 St. Rep.) 860. (Combined Official N. Y. Digest).

The "Mayfield" a Paying Investment.

Owners of and investors in downtown apartment houses who have watched the progress of the recently completed "Mayfield" at 15 East 10th st, will be interested to learn that the building is entirely occupied, and may now be classed among the best paying investments of that kind in New York City.

The house is the first of its type to be erected in the Washington sq section, and is largely tenanted by families that have resided in that section for years. The building has six stories and contains 24 apartments of from five to eight rooms each, renting from $1,000 to $2,000 per annum.

The situation of the Mayfield appeals to those who, from necessity, are compelled to live within easy distance of the downtown business centre, since it may be reached in less than twenty minutes from Wall st via the subway. There are no dark rooms in the building, and without exception all have direct light and air. The apartments are arranged in suites of eight rooms in the front, and the rear apartments are in suites of five and six rooms. Each suite has a bathroom equipped with the latest conveniences. Every apartment is fitted up with a gas range as well as a porcelain lined refrigerator. The building contains eleven extra servants' rooms, and is supplied with an electric elevator which is in continuous operation both day and night.

The agents of the building are Messrs. Huston & Asinari of 25 Liberty st, who make a specialty of the management of estates. In speaking of the success of the project Mr. Huston said that it was made possible by its central situation. The building and land cost $300,000, and it is owned by the Mayfield Construction Company.

Increased Cost of House Construction.

INDICATIVE of the increase which has taken place within the last few years in the cost of dwelling construction hereabouts a prominent builder remarked that once upon a time the unit of estimate for erecting frame dwellings was generally placed at about $200 per room, in towns outside of New York. It will thus be seen that if a person desired to build a house of eight rooms it would have cost him about $1,400, exclusive of the cost of the site. Today the price is more than double, due to the increase in the cost of material and the higher wages paid to labor. Were the same person to build at the present time, it is estimated that the cost per room in and around New York would be about $500, or a total of $4,000 for a dwelling of the size hereinbefore mentioned. This rule, which is for roughly estimating costs of frame houses of standard type, may be applied with modifications to more pretentious dwellings.

Taxpayers to Fight Riverside Extension Assessments.

At a meeting of the Washington Heights Taxpayers' Association held at Corrigan Hall, 157th st and Broadway, a committee of five was appointed to confer with the Commissioners of Assessment and Award lately appointed, to make assessments for the Riverside Drive extension. It is the opinion of the association that the act recently passed imposing the burden of the extension on the owners of realty in the restricted section is unconstitutional, since the new roadway is park property and should be borne by the municipality. Failing to obtain satisfaction from the Commissioners the association will commence a taxpayers' suit to test the constitutionality of the act. That portion of the district affected is situated west of 8th av and the New York Central tracks and extends from 72d st to Spuyten Duyvil.

Sustains Our Doctrine.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A is the owner of a house which he authorized brokers B and C to rent. B wrote a letter to A that he had offered property to D for lease. Two weeks later C telephones that he has leased house and A accepted the lease. It turns out that the lessee is the same client to whom broker B showed the property. A executed the lease to D and paid the brokerage to C. B brought suit for brokerage and the judge has just decided that Broker C was entitled to commission and gave judgment for costs against B.

Answer.—The above stated case involving the law with regard to the earning of brokerage was sent in by one of our subscribers and is in exact line with the law as recently emphasized by us, that it is the broker who effects the sale who is entitled to the commission. This, too, is of the most difficult class to prejudge the outcome, the Court having to balance delicately the rival claims of brokers both of whom have contributed to the result finally accomplished and perhaps almost equally due to the efforts of both brokers.
